Former Farm Show Boss To Maintain Strong Ag Ties

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.)—Dennis Grumbine showed his first livestock at the Pennsylvania Farm Show as a 4-H youth in the 1950s, and continued to exhibit there until 1996.

That's the year he became director of the show. At that point, his new responsibilities took him out of the ring, at least as an exhibitor.

"It wouldn't have been the right thing to keep showing (as director)," he said.

After seven years at the helm, Grumbine was told late last week that the new state administration under Gov. Ed Rendell was terminating him from the position.

The decision to replace Grumbine follows the state's change in leadership since Rendell was named governor in January, according to Dennis Wolff, acting Pennsylvania ag secretary.

Township Supervisors Must Be Able To Accommodate Large-Scale Agriculture

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Township supervisors take heed: you can't simply "zone out" large-scale agriculture enterprises, according to an attorney.

Large-scale operations should be part of a multitownship, regional zoning plan.

You have to allow for large-scale agriculture enterprises, including confinement housing, "somewhere — you don't have to allow them everywhere," said Charles E. Zaleski, attorney with Reager and Adler, PC.

Zaleski spoke Tuesday during the four-day-long Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors Annual Convention and Trade Show at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

About 100 township supervisors attended the workshop, "A Dialogue On CAFOs," during the convention.

Hundreds of supervisors in the state can make use of the Municipality Planning Act to regulate what parts of a township can be zoned specifically for large-scale animal operations. Comprehensive planning, noted Zaleski, is the key.

Zaleski noted that you simply cannot prohibit individuals or corporations individually from developing large-scale ag enterprises. There are legal options for them to use against any type of proposed township ordinances.

And if comprehensive planning is not incorporated, Zaleski warned that other groups will try to force their own types of rules, creating problems for everyone.

These "bottle babies" are especially friendly and inquisitive at the Sharon Ebaugh farm in Delta. Ebaugh prefers a short kidding season, "since I'm always there, tending them — I just live in the barn." This year 26 nannies presented Ebaugh with 51 kids. Compared to Thursday, slaughter cows sold .50 to as much as 1.00 higher on a fairly light run. The majority of the increase was noted in the Lean cow supply. Nearly 149 head, or 47 percent, of the supply was made up of slaughter cows.

SLAUGHTER COWS: PERCENT LEAN WEIGHT BULK LOW DRESSING Breakers 70-75 Over 1400 lbs 40.00-44.00 37.00-41.00 Boners 75-80 Over 1200 lbs 38.50-40.25 35.25-37.50 Lean (Hi-Yield) 80-85 Over 1200 lbs 36.75-40.00 34.25-36.00 Lean 85-90 Over 1000 lbs 33.00-37.00 29.00-32.50 Lean (Light-Wt) 85-90 750-1000 lbs 29.00-32.00 24.50-28.75.

CALVES: Compared to last Thursday, slaughter calves sold with a weaker undertone on a very light test. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply lower. There were not enough Holstein heifers to test the market.

SLAUGHTER CALVES: Few Standard and Utility 55-110 lbs 15.00-30.00. GOING INTO VEAL BARNS: Holstein Bulls individual 130 lbs 90.00; 90-125 lbs 120.00-140.00. Plainer-type Bulls 90-125 lbs 90.00-117.00. Weaker bulls 90-125 lbs 67.00-85.00. Few Holstein heifers 90 lbs 240.00; 70 lbs 110.00.

HOGS: Barrows and gilts weak to mostly 1.00 lower, sows 1.00 to 2.00 higher, on a run that included 230 head, boars steady to .50 higher on a 22 head test.

BARROWS AND GILTS: 49-54% lean 220-270 lbs 33.50-35.00, top-end up to 36.00, 280-350 lbs 30.50-32.35, 45-50% lean 220-270 lbs 31.00-33.00, 275-305 lbs 30.00-32.00, 40-45% lean 220-270 lbs 28.50-31.75, 280-325 lbs 26.00-30.00.

SOWS: 1-3 300-450 lbs 23.00-26.00, 450-500 lbs 25.00-27.00, 500-700 lbs 27.00-30.00, couple lots up to 30.35.

BOARS: 300-700 lbs 8.00-9.50, one lot 10.00.

SHEEP and LAMBS: Compared to last week, slaughter lambs sold anywhere from steady to 17.00 lower. Bids were very dependant upon the quality on most weights, but especially lambs weighing less than 70 lbs. Slaughter sheep sold steady to firm on fairly good demand. All sheep and lambs are sold by the pound, with actual weights.

SLAUGHTER LAMBS: Choice, end Prime 2-3 20-40 lbs 110.00-144.00; 40-60 lbs 110.00-154.00; 60-80 lbs 102.00-120.00; 80-100 lbs 110.00-128.00; 100-140 lbs 100.00-122.00.

GOATS: Compared to last Monday, Selection One Kid goats sold steady to 3.00 lower; with instances of 10.00 lower on the lighter weights. Selection Two and Three Kids sold 7.00-9.00 lower across the board on all weights. The Kid supply was very heavy, with the best quality coming through the ring early in the day. Many producers are starting to bring the small goats in trying to hit the Easter market, and are finding out quickly that the demand is there for the Kids, but they have to be the kind. There was a very heavy supply of Kids that were the right weight, but they just did not have the meat cover and therefore sold from 10.00-30.00 per head. All other classes were not well tested Monday, as they comprised a small percentage of the run. Needless to say, a good majority of the run was made up of Selection Three goats as there was a noticeable decrease in quality. All goats were sold by the head, with estimated weights. Note: All prices and market trends are made on the bulk of the run. However, any late sales or trends will not be listed. Kids: Selection 1 20-40 lbs 38.00-48.00, few up to 68.00; 40-60 lbs 58.00-64.00; 60-80 lbs 60.00-74.00. Selection 2 20-40 lbs 30.00-42.00; 40-60 lbs 40.00-55.00. Selection 3 20-40 lbs 20.00-30.00, with Kids weighing under 20 lbs 10.00-20.00. Yearlings: Few Selection 1 60-80 lbs 66.00. Few Selection 2 60-80 lbs 48.00. Nannies: Selection 1 few 70-100 lbs 59.00; few 100-150 lbs 65.00-70.00. Selection 2 few 50-70 lbs 55.00; few 70-100 lbs 48.00-60.00. Selection 3 few 50-70 lbs 31.00-40.00, poorer 20.00-34.00. Billies: Selection 1 few 70-100 lbs 84.00; 100-150 lbs 112.00-140.00. Selection 2 70-100 lbs 70.00-80.00; few 100-150 lbs 80.00-86.00. Selection 3 70-100 lbs 30.00-56.00. Wethers: Not tested!

Compared to Thursday, slaughter steers sold firm to .50 higher in active trading, with demand good from packer and kosher buyers alike. The quality of the run was very good, with steer receipts for the two-day run nearly reaching 600 head. Many producers are putting their steers on a truck headed to town no matter how long they have been on feed as they try to get in on the current hot market, and there was definitely some short-fed calf headed steers on offer both days; although buyers were not shying away from them too much. Another noticeable difference is the weights; the cattle that usually weigh 1400 lbs are weighing 1200, although they still have enough finish to go in the Choice pen. Slaughter Holstein steers sold fully 1.00-2.00 higher, and demand was very good as buyers used some of the spotted stock to take some of the sting out of their colored loads that were averaging over 80.00. Slaughter heifers were not well tested due to the light numbers, although a firmer undertone was noted. Breaking and Boning cows sold firm to a 1.00 higher, with the Lean cow supply trading fully 1.00 higher with instances up to 1.50 higher. The number of cows coming into the Lancaster County sale barns is beginning to lighten up a little as farmers are looking to turn their cows out on grass instead of sending them to town. Light receipts could have been one of the largest reasons cows were higher Tuesday, as demand remains about moderate to good. There were not enough slaughter bulls to fully test the market. The supply included around 60 percent steers (586 head), 5 percent heifers (49 head), 31 percent cows (297 head), 1 percent bulls (14 head), with the balance of the two day run made up of a few feeder cattle. Note: There will be a special feeder cattle sale held at the Vintage Sales Stables on Monday April the 21st after the fat cattle sale, with some good consignments of quality feeders expected.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1180-1470 lbs 77.75-82.50, fancy 83.00-84.00. Calves: Compared to last Tuesday, slaughter calves sold steady. Holstein bulls going into special-fed veal barns sold 13.00-27.00 higher on both the Number One and Number Two supply. Demand was good, with bidding active; especially during the graded sale. Number One Holstein heifers sold sharply lower as buyer attendance was light. The Number Two heifers did not get hit as hard, but still remain well below the 300.00 mark. The supply included 440 in the state graded sale, with around 87 percent of the graded supply returning to feed.

Slaughter Calves: Standard and Utility 60-110 lbs 15.00-30.00. Calves Going Into Veal Barns: Graded Number One Holstein Bulls 90-125 lbs 127.00-172.00; package 85 lbs 145.00; package 80 lbs 70.00. Compared to Tuesday's active market, slaughter steers sold steady to weak. The quality of the run was average to good, with bidding moderately active for the duration of the sale. Even though the market was not higher, very few producers are complaining about the current 80.00 value of a well-finished Choice steer. The boxed beef market and the Western trade were both very bullish this week, with most local feeders expecting area packers to throw even more fuel on the already hot finished market. However, even with the Western trade at 80.00-81.00, and boxed beef values over 4.00 higher through Thursday, prices were not able to break steady. The slaughter Holstein steers and slaughter heifers that were comparable to the early week run sold near steady, with some weakness noted at times in the Choice supply. All classes of slaughter cows sold fully 2.00 higher due to the very good late week demand Slaughter bulls sold with a higher undertone on a very good run The reported supply included 47 percent steers (658 head), 7 percent heifers (89 head), 37 percent cows (520 head), 5 percent bulls (62 head), with the balance feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1150-1485 lbs 79 00-82.00, few 82.75, Yield Grade 4-5 some full 75.00-79.00. Calves: Compared to Tuesday, slaughter calves sold fully steady. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply higher due to the continued excellent late week demand. Light receipts also contributed to the higher market. Holstein heifers were not well tested. The PA Department of Ag graded 293 head of bulls for the graded sale, with an estimated 85 percent of the run going back on feed.

Slaughter Calves: Utility 60-110 lbs 15.00-30.00, weaker down to 11.00.

Sheep and Lambs: Compared to Monday, all weights of slaughter lambs sold sharply higher as the Easter demand kicks in. There was a heavy offering of lambs, especially for late in the week. Slaughter ewes sold with a lower undertone. All sheep and lambs are sold by the pound, with actual weights. Note: There will be a special sheep and goat sale at the New Holland Sales Stables on Saturday April the 12th.

Slaughter Lambs: Choice, end Prime 2-3 20-40 lbs 155.00-215.00, up to 250.00; 40-60 lbs 120.00-180.00; 60-80 lbs 110.00-135.00; 80-100 lbs 110.00- 130.00; 100-120 lbs 100.00-130.00; 125-145 lbs 80.00-102.00.

New Holland Feeder Pig Auction

NEW HOLLAND, PA
April 9, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Receipts: 536 Last Week: 168 Year Ago: 315.

Compared to last week, a slaughter pig trend was not fully established due to the light run last week. U.S. 1-2 20-30 lb slaughter pigs sold with a firmer undertone, while the 30-40 lb supply trended with a lower undertone. Buyer attendance and bidding were both moderate. There was some light interest from feeder buyers, although 87 percent of the supply went to slaughter. All pigs were weighed and graded on arrival and sold by the hundred weights.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

APRIL 14–20, 2003

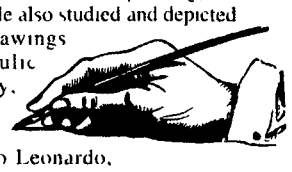
NOTABLE NOTEBOOKS

After finishing your taxes, celebrate the birthday of Leonardo da Vinci, born on April 15, 1452. Besides the Mona Lisa and other major works of art, da Vinci left some of the most prolific literary notebooks of any of our great genius minds. There were notebooks on human anatomy, the science of painting, architecture, and mechanics. He also studied and depicted his knowledge in drawings and text on hydraulic engineering, botany, geology, and other subjects. The key to all this, according to Leonardo, was simply in "knowing how to see."



Life well spent is long.

–Leonardo da Vinci, Italian artist (1452–1519)

TIP OF THE WEEK

SAVORY MUSTARD SOLE

6 fillets of sole
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted
juice of 1 lemon
5 shallots, peeled and finely chopped
1/2 cup dry white wine
7/8 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons dijon-style mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
6 scallions, sliced, including green parts

Preheat oven to 425°F. Arrange fish fillets full-length in baking dish. Combine butter and lemon juice and pour over fish. Place shallots and wine in a saucepan and boil gently until wine has evaporated. Mix together cream, mustard, salt, and pepper and add to shallots. Bring to a boil and remove from heat. Cool, pour over fish. Sprinkle with scallions. Bake for 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

Makes 6 servings

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Better April showers than the breadth of the ocean in gold

Rain from the south prevents a drouth, but rain from the west is always best.

Telmark people care.

At Telmark, we believe that our people are our strength. Our representatives come from farm backgrounds and have the financial "know how" to help make farms work. Our specialty is applying our knowledge to help you achieve your hopes and dreams for your farm.

All of our representatives work very hard at making themselves accessible to you. The best way to get to know someone's business is to go see it first hand. That's why we spend most of our time visiting rural businesses just like yours.

When you need help exploring financing alternatives, call someone with the knowledge to help you find the best way to make your farm successful. Call someone who will take the time to visit your operation and see it first-hand. Call someone who wants you to succeed. Your success is our success. Call Telmark.

OPINION

Farm Show Champion

We can't think of a more challenging job in this world (perhaps other than U.S. president) than being director of the largest indoor ag event — the Farm Show.

Being director of the Farm Show Complex requires superhuman flexibility, great determination, a mannered temper, and fantastic people skills.

Dennis Grumbine

Those have always been trademarks of Dennis Grumbine.

We are reminded of a photo that ran in the October 15, 1994 issue (on page A23) of Lancaster Farming that featured Grumbine, on the far right, along with Tom Ridge, in the center, holding a hammer and anvil, along with Bev Gruber during the Keystone International Livestock Expo festivities at Farm Show. (We also ran the photo on page E32 of the Farm Show Showcase section of Jan. 4 this year).

We should have known that in his campaign, Ridge, "hammering out" his plans for a "new Pennsylvania," would someday result in hammering out work in building a brand-new Farm Show Complex to the tune of $86 million. With Grumbine's help in promoting Ridge, we have a new and better Farm Show as a result, which has garnered national recognition.

For his part in helping "hammer out" the vast and much-needed improvements to Farm Show, for his work with giving major recognition to the number one "world-class event" all of us know as the Pennsylvania Farm Show, and for his many contributions to Pennsylvania agriculture, we salute Dennis Grumbine in all his endeavors.

To Protect Water Quality With Information From Farm-A-Syst Publications

Everyday farm management practices affect the water quality around Pennsylvania's farms. Two new publications from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will help producers protect water quality by focusing on silage storage and animal waste storage.

The publications are part of the Farm-A-Syst series, which is designed to help farmers learn more about their farming practices and facilities and how they are protecting water quality for farm families and neighboring residents.

"Farm-A-Syst Worksheet 8: Silage Storage Management" is an eight-page publication that helps farmers evaluate water protection related to silage storage and handling conditions. The worksheet utilizes criteria such as crop moisture content, storage location, silo condition, and effluent disposal.

More than 7 million tons of corn silage were harvested and stored in Pennsylvania in 2000. "When properly harvested and stored, silage poses little or no pollution threat," said author Les Lanyon, professor of soil science and management. "However, improper silage-making and storage can result in liquid effluents that affect water. Poor silage management also can cause gases, malodors, undesirable microorganisms, and waste or spoiled silage."

"Farm-A-Syst Worksheet 9: Animal Waste Storage and Management" is an eight-page document that provides farmers with step-by-step methods to analyze their farm's site conditions, waste facilities, storage capacity, and management procedures.

"Almost every livestock farm stores manure at some time during the year," said Lanyon. "Runoff from livestock production facilities can carry manure, soil, microorganisms, and other potential pollutants. If not managed properly, animal wastes can negatively affect water quality and human health."

Both publications show how an evaluation of site conditions and farm facilities can aid in developing personal, voluntary action plans that reduce pollution risks for farm families and neighboring residents.

Farm-A-Syst is a cooperative effort of Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pennsylvania Natural Resources Conservation Service, and other state agriculture and conservation agencies. The program regularly produces publications on farm management and water resource issues.

Single copies of Worksheet 8 and Worksheet 9 can be obtained free of charge by contacting any Penn State Cooperative Extension county office or by calling the College of Agricultural Sciences Publications Distribution Center at (814) 865-6713. Copies of these and other farm management publications also can be found on the Web at http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/.

To Congratulate Penn State Entomologist Dr. Consuelo De Moraes

Research on the chemical relationships between plants and insects by a Penn State entomologist has earned her a 2002 David and Lucile Packard Foundation Fellowship for Science and Engineering.

Dr. Consuelo De Moraes, assistant professor of entomology, is the first entomologist — and the first faculty member in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences — to win the prestigious honor. De Moraes will receive a personal research grant of $625,000 from the Packard Foundation, to be allocated over a five-year period. Each year, the foundation selects up to 20 of the nation's most promising university professors to receive the award. De Moraes was chosen last year by Penn State President Graham Spanier to be one of the two professors nominated from Penn State.

De Moraes' research focuses on the chemical communication of plants and the defensive responses of plants to insect feeding. When attacked by insect pests, plants release complex blends of airborne chemicals with odor molecules that can be interpreted by insects as warning messages, distress signals, and invitations. According to De Moraes, they are also important location cues for other insects that are natural enemies of the pests.

"I discovered that these chemical signals are keyed to individual pests and that natural enemies of the pests, such as parasitic wasps, exploit the signals to locate them," said De Moraes. "Subsequently, I found that these signals differ from day to night and that pest female moths utilize nighttime signals when choosing plants on which to lay eggs."

The discovery that plants produce information-rich chemical signals in response to specific environmental stimuli holds potential for technological advances in both agriculture and environmental sensing. De Moraes' continued research may someday be applied to the development of new agricultural techniques and crop varieties that could enhance plant resistance to pests.

De Moraes received her bachelor's degree in ecology in 1992 from the Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais in Brazil. In 1998, she earned a doctoral degree in entomology from the University of Georgia. She joined Penn State's department of entomology in 2001.

"You've got to love the work." "It is certainly not the pay!" "We're on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week."

Farming? No, this is how a small group of township supervisors from Indiana County describes their job.

One of the most disheartening situations to affect Pennsylvania Agriculture is the lack of public interest and respect for farming and rural life, according to Mike Pechart of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Many families no longer have any direct relationship to agriculture. People are building and moving to rural areas with no thought about what it means to live in an active farming community.

When the dust flies, or smells arise or, when tractors run all hours or large, slow equipment is on the roadway, these "new" rural people are on the telephone calling someone — anyone — to make the farmer stop.

Often times the township supervisor gets the call first.

Most Indiana County township supervisors have been rurally raised and are supportive of farm operations. Occasionally a group will form to stop farming practices and it is essential that farmers have formed a relationship with their elected officials, and neighbors, before problems arise.

Farmers, in the northern end of the county, have had good responses from their supervisors when complaints were registered. These supervisors are quick to

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THREE LITTLE WORDS

Background Scripture:
Mark 14:1-25.
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 26:17-30.

If I had been Jesus and suspected or knew that my earthly life was soon to end, I would have been apprehensive not only of the how and why of it, but also over the readiness of the 12 who were to carry on this ministry. We don't know how long they were with him: it could have been several years or only one. Regardless, these men hardly seemed ready. They still didn't seem to grasp what Jesus was teaching them.

This is apparent in the little incident in the house of Simon the Tanner in Bethany.

A woman entered the house and, breaking a jar of costly ointment, she poured the contents over his head. The reaction of the disciples was almost instantaneous: "Why was this ointment thus wasted? For this ointment might have been sold for more than three denarii and given to the poor" (14:4,5). Mark tells us "And they reproached her."

They had been wrong so many times, you'd think they would have waited to see how Jesus reacted before forming their conclusion. But, typically, their mouths preceded their minds and they were reproached in turn by Jesus: "Let her alone; why do you trouble her? She has done a beautiful thing to me . . . She has anointed my body beforehand for burying." And then, to rub salt in their self-inflicted wounds, Jesus says: " 'And truly I say to you, wherever the gospel is preached in the whole world, what she has done will be told in memory of her" (14:6-9). This doesn't mean that the woman necessarily also knew of his impending death, but that Jesus chose to interpret her magnanimous act in that manner.

One Of You

We see Jesus' awareness even more clearly in the Last Supper. Eating with his disciples in the "large upper room furnished," Jesus astounded them when he said, "Truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me, one who is eating with me" (14:18).

Some people have difficulty in accepting that Jesus knew or suspected his betrayal by Judas. I do not, because I remember that, before he was assassinated, Lincoln had a dream in which he saw his body lying in state in the capitol. President Kennedy had a similar dream the night before he was assassinated. So, why should the premonition of Jesus bother us?

Then there are those disturbing words spoken by some or all of the disciples: "Is it I?" Am I the one you just mentioned? Some readers interpret these questions to reflect genuine anxiety on the part of the disciples. But why should they be anxious, unless, of course, there were some thoughts of betrayal in their minds? Perhaps this "Is it I?" is more a self-serving protest of innocence: surely, you don't mean me?

Isn't that how most of us would react? We would never betray Jesus. Judas did, but then Judas was a bad guy. Some think that Jesus said this so that Judas would realize that Jesus already knew what he was doing. But I believe that Jesus' "one of you will betray me" was also directed at the other 11. Judas was going to betray him this very night, but all of them would be tempted to betray him at some time.

Is It I?

Just as this accusation was appropriate for each of the 12, so it is appropriate for us today. In "Against The Sun," Ann Jackson writes of Judas:

"Men take the price of treachery
And swear their hands are clean."

So swear we all even though we claim him as Lord and then live our lives by standards that deny the both the words and spirit of his gospel. . . .

One of the clients of Whistler, the painter, told him that one of his paintings would not fit into his room. "Man, you can't make the picture fit the room," said Whistler, "You must make the room fit the picture." When we make the gospel fit us instead of fitting ourselves to it, we need not ask, "Is it I?" We have already betrayed him.

(Apologies: in some editions of this column that appeared elsewhere, the Background Scripture and Devotional Reading for the March 2 Bible Speaks were in error: they should have been respectively Mark 1:1-45 and Luke 4:14-21.)

Temperature-activated for on-target weed control.

Get weed control where and when you need it with Degree Xtra™ – the soil-temperature-activated premix corn herbicide formulated for longer-lasting weed control.

Patented encapsulation technology makes Degree Xtra work like no other herbicide. Degree Xtra is soil-temperature-activated – so it moves gradually into the soil as the soil temperature rises. The results are maximum crop safety for emerging seedlings and longer-lasting performance. And with the added power and convenience of atrazine, Degree Xtra controls more than 40 grasses and broadleaves, including tough weeds such as giant foxtail and velvetleaf.

Hit your weed control targets all season long. See your dealer today about Degree Xtra for the best residual control in corn.

Always read and follow label directions. Degree Xtra is a restricted-use herbicide. Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat and soybean bids were slightly higher. Corn and sorghum were lower. Some light buying in the wheat pits today with very little fresh news to give the market direction. Soybeans saw gains for the fourth consecutive day, while corn took slight losses for the second day. Traders have there sight on the USDA report tomorrow morning and is expected to give the market direction. Wheat mostly 2-4 cents higher. Corn steady to 1.00 lower, except Kansas City 3- 4 cents lower. Soybeans 2-3 cents higher. Sorghum slightly to sharply lower from 1-10 cents lower.

Corn Belt Feedstuff

St. Joseph, Mo.
April 8, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFF: Feedstuff prices were mixed for the week. Cold temperatures and more moisture swept across the Corn Belt area this past week. The moisture was welcomed but not so much the drop in temperature. Demand continued steady in most places. Many ingredients prices remained steady to slightly lower with Millfeed prices moderately to sharply lower due to ample supplies. Distillers dried grains supplies were tight in some areas while other producers sold their product wet for less. Last week's futures advances lent light support to some ingredients.

SOYBEAN MEAL: 48 percent rail was 4.00 higher at 175.00-179.00. 48 percent truck was 4.00 higher from 177.00-189.00 per ton.

CORN BY-PRODUCTS: Gluten Feed 21 percent, Interior Points was steady from 60.00-70.00; Chicago was steady to 1.00 lower from 60.00-70.00. 60 percent Gluten Meal, Interior Points was steady to 2.00 lower from 215.00-225.00; Chicago steady to 5.00 higher from 220.00-233.00 per ton. Rail Hominy Feed, Central Illinois Points was 3.00 to 4.00 higher from 71.00-78.00; truck 3.00 higher from 73.00-85.00. Crude Corn Oil was 25-50 points higher from 26.75-28.00 cents per pound.

MILLFEEDS: Northwest was 3.00 to 4.00 lower from 50.00-65.00; Buffalo 11.00 to 15.00 lower from 52.00-63.00 per ton.

ALFALFA PELLETS: Toledo, Ohio 17 percent dehydrated was steady at 170.00-179.00; meal steady from 173.50-182.50. 15 percent pellets steady from 170.00-176.00 per ton; meal steady from 173.50-179.50.

DISTILLER'S DRIED GRAINS: Central Illinois steady from 87.00-100.00; Chicago steady from 97.00-100.00; Lawrenceburg, Il, steady at 97.00 but supplies are very limited. Kansas was steady to 5.00 higher at 115.00- 120.00; Nebraska limited at 114.00-115.00; Minneapolis was steady at 92.00 per ton but supplies are also tight.

BREWER'S DRIED GRAINS: Newark, NJ was steady at 94.00; Williamsburg, VA was steady at 84.00 per ton.

Seed Treatments Not Holding Up to Corn Rootworm

Seed treatments have been touted as an easy effective way to control corn rootworm and other yield-damaging pests in field corn The premise for their use is that they eliminate the time and effort of using a soil insecticide at planting time

However, University of Illinois entomologists and researchers at other Midwest land-grant universities recently conducted trials for two recent additions to the seed treatment lineup – ProShield technology with Force ST insecticide and Prescribe insecticide seed treatment Neither provided consistent, acceptable control of corn rootworm larvae

In fact, University of Illinois root ratings trials conducted at three sites in 2000 placed the average root rating for ProShield at 3 9 and Prescribe at 3 6 In the same trials a T-band application of Lorsban* 15G insecticide provided an average root rating of 2 4 A rating of 3 0 or higher is considered unacceptable and leads to economic losses

A summary of the 2000 Iowa State University rootworm control study showed ProShield and Prescribe allowed rootworms to consume six to seven times as many roots compared to T-banded Lorsban 15G

Lorsban 15G is the time-proven industry standard for control of corn rootworm cutworms grubs seed corn maggots, wireworms and more It outperforms seed treatments because it provides residual control and lasts longer throughout the growing season which is vital in protecting corn from the intense corn rootworm feeding typically experienced throughout parts of the Midwest

And Purdue University trials[1] conducted since 1991 show that Lorsban 15G provides the greatest return on investment of all leading corn insecticides

To learn more about the benefits of Lorsban 15G, contact your local ag retailer

CHEESE PRICES STRENGTHEN

- Blocks, barrels show gains.
- Butter is steady.
- March Class III is $9.11 per CWT.

USDA reports that cash cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange rebounded to just under support price levels. It seems that sales of process and block cheese to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) may explain the price movement. As cheese plants gear up for sales to the government under the price support program, there is less need to discount cheese prices.

Butter was relatively steady this week, remaining 4 cents a pound above support price levels. USDA reports that production of cream-based holiday items for the upcoming Easter and Passover season may explain the slight rise in wholesale butter prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

USDA announced the Class III price for March last week. The Class III price was $9.11 per CWT, well below the support price of $9.80 per CWT and $0.55 per CWT below the February Class III price. The average cheese price used to compute the March Class III price was $1.0780 per pound. Weak cheese market conditions clearly resulted in a low Class III price.

The good news is that the dairy futures markets at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange are showing signs of strength. As of April 4, 2003, Class III futures indicate that prices for Class III milk will rise above $10 per CWT by June and will peak at $11.83 by October. Thus there appears to be more price strength in the latter months of the year. This is an indication that the market expects the milk supply to correct itself and for demand to stabilize later in the year.

Hoof Trimmers Share Talents At Clinic

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Talk to 10 hoof trimmers and you might hear 10 different opinions on the best methods for keeping cows' feet in good shape.

But hoof trimmers have a lot to teach each other, according to Nelson Nolt of Nelson & Sons hoof trimmers, Myerstown.

Nolt was one of several dozen hoof trimmers, including a number from other states and Canada, who participated in a hoof trimming clinic last week at the Lebanon Expo Center.

Several hundred local dairy farmers also attended the event, which was organized by trimmers from the area and sponsored by various agribusinesses.

Nolt said that much can be learned in a gathering of hoof trimmers where each one has a chance to have his work critiqued by others in the group.

At a hoof trimmers' field day that preceded the larger event, Nolt joined a group of about 15 hoof trimmers for the purpose of exchanging ideas and improving skills.

"I loved it," Nolt said of the information exchange. "Everyone had their own opinions."

The importance of hoof trimming has come more and more into the spotlight in recent years because of the increasing number of cows that spend most or all of their time on concrete.

George Lowery, Pierpont, Ohio, makes a point about hoof trimming at the clinic last week. Lowery has been trimming hooves for 50 years.

"If you keep them trimmed on a regular basis, you can get two or three extra lactations out of them," Nolt said. "It pays."

According to Dale Herr, one of the organizers of the clinic, the fact that hoof trimming is an unregulated industry mean that farmers and hoof trimmers alike need to learn what good foot care entails.

In addition to a number of hoof trimmers demonstrating their trade at the clinic, veterinarians Arlen Mills and Gary Brumble spoke about hoof diseases and demonstrated good foot care by using cadaver hooves.

Nelson Weaver, a dairy farmer from Manheim, said he found the sessions useful, especially on the topic of vaccines for foot problens such as hairy warts.

Dan McFarland, Penn State ag engineer, was also on hand to talk about facilities and cow comfort issues.

Using liye cows, hoof trimmers demonstrated their work on a variety of types of equipment, including tilt tables and upright chutes.

There is some debate about whether or not tilt tables are more stressful on the animals than upright chutes.

Herr cited a study reported recently in Hoard's Dairyman that showed animals demonstrate little difference in stress levels between the two methods.

Wolff said the move fits with the new administration's "vision of looking forward." He is reviewing resumes and expects to announce a new director "within the next week or two."

Grumbine was named Farm Show director during the Tom Ridge administration.

Ever since his days as a 4-H'er of 8 or 9 years old, the Myerstown farm native has had a long and illustrious relationship with the state's annual ag expo.

Prior to becoming director in 1996, Grumbine served on the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commision for 17 years. He has also been a leader in a number of related events and organizations.

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, Grumbine served as president of Pennsylvania Livestock Association and chairman of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition. For this work and his service on the Farm Show Commission, he was named to the Pennsylvania Livestock Hall of Fame.

He is vice-chairman of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, and will become chairman in December.

Grumbine's leadership skills were evident early in life. In 1965, he was named Pennsylvania FFA president.

A lot has happened at the Farm Show during Grumbine's tenure as director, beginning with his renovation of all the livestock pens and equipment, and ending with last year's $86 million expansion and improvement project.

Grumbine is on his way to visit his horse, housed on his son's property.

According to Grumbine, the Farm Show Complex — one of the largest ag expo facilities on the continent —is a model of a well-run exposition center.

"We have, without a shadow of a doubt, the most efficiently run facility of its kind in North America," he said. "Any measuring stick you want to use, we still come out on top."

Grumbine credited a loyal, dedicated staff for their help running the show and managing throughout last year's hectic expansion work.

"My staff is next to none in the industry," he said. "If there was a job to be done until 10 at night, there was never a complaint."

During the expansion project, Grumbine said he had some sleepless nights, and wondered at times if the work would get done in time for this year's show.

While the show for a record-breaking crowd went on as planned in the new facility, there was a tremendous amount of behind-the-scenes work involved.

"It looked like a duck going across a pond smooth on the surface and a lot of churning underneath," Grumbine said of the Farm Show this past January.

Under Grumbine and his staff, the Farm Show has received a number of national and international awards. In the past two years, it received four awards from the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, as well as being named America's number one rodeo and livestock facility in 1998.

A highlight for Grumbine through all of his years of involvement with the Farm Show is seeing what the event offers youth and families across the state.

"You see families that are there for the third and fourth generation," he said. "It has a tremendous impact on the rural community in Pennsylvania."

For Grumbine, seeing youth receive their first ribbon in the show ring is an unforgettable experience.

"The issue is not that it's a blue ribbon," he said. "The key is that they have the ribbon with the state seal of Pennsylvania and thousands of people witnessed that."

Of losing the director position, Grumbine said, "Evidently (the administration) has somebody they feel is more qualified than I am."

According to Grumbine, "about six people in the country" are qualified for the job.

Grumbine said he would have liked to help with the transition to a new director.

For now, he is at home on his farm near Myerstown, a few miles from the farm where he grew up. He lives with his wife Barbara, another person highly dedicated to Pennsylvania agriculture.

Barbara serves with the local Farm Service Agency and is a member of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

Two grown sons, Darryl and Darren, live nearby. Darren runs the family's 400-acre crop operation, and Darryl continues to keep sheep on the home farm.

A grandson, Dakota, will turn 1 year old in May.

Grumbine said he doesn't know what his future holds, only that "it will be something with agriculture."

And one way or another, he said, he'll stay connected with the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Dennis Grumbine, at his home near Myerstown Wednesday. He said he will maintain strong ties to the Pennsylvania ag community.

Maryland Ag Ed Foundation Hires Secondary Education Director

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. — The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation has hired Jamie Picardy as its first Secondary Education Director.

A native of Michigan, Picardy received a Bachelor of Science degree in Biosystems (Agriculture) Engineering and a Master of Science degree in Geography from Michigan State University in Grand Rapids. Her graduate research was in Community Supported Agriculture and she has worked on several small-scale farms in western Michigan and taught undergraduate environmental and social science courses.

This is a new position for the Foundation as it works to expand its Ag in the Classroom program into middle and high school curriculums. The Foundation has been highly successful in educating elementary teachers and students about the important role that agriculture plays in their daily lives through teacher training and mobile agriscience lab visits to schools providing hands-on learning experiences for students. Teachers are trained to infuse agricultural concepts into students' reading, writing, science, math, and social studies curriculum.

Picardy will be working closely with the Maryland State Department of Education in developing agricultural-based activities to be infused into curriculums such as science, math, and social studies at the middle and high school levels. She will also be developing and implementing agricultural career awareness programs for middle and high school students.

Another focus of this position, will be working with the Maryland Agriculture Teachers Association to provide professional development workshops, resource updates, and a new base-of-operations for the agriculture science teachers located throughout the state. Jamie is currently coordinating plans for the agriculture science teachers summer workshop set for July 9-11 in Grantsville, Md.

Since joining the Foundation in January, Picardy has attended the National FFA Agricultural Education In-Service in Indianapolis and has been busy meeting Maryland's agriculture and education communities and developing programs for implementation beginning in the summer of 2003.

Picardy said, "Maryland has provided me with a heart-felt welcome and I am excited to have this opportunity to work with the Foundation in developing a secondary education program." She welcomes guidance and input from Maryland's educators and agriculturalists. She can be contacted at (410) 939-9030.

Dairy-A-PhAIR Addresses Phosphorus, Air Quality

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

CONESTOGA (Lancaster Co.) — A group of 17 producers, speakers, and agriculture industry representatives gathered this week at the Frey Dairy Farm, Conestoga for "Dairy-A-PhAIR," a course designed to address phosphorus and Air quality.

Penn State Dairy Alliance sponsored the event.

Robb Meinen, Penn State, discussed the Pennsylvania Environmental Agricultural Conservation Certification of Excellence (PEACCE) program.

Following an environmental awareness course, an on-farm assessment and Environmental Review, and a conservation district checklist, producers can be certified in the program.

In addition, he discussed odor and manure application. Pennsylvania's nutrient management plans are based on nitrogen; however, future plans will include phosphorus, he said.

"Ten percent of the land contributes 90 percent of the Phosphorus that enters our waters," said Meinen. "The phosphorus Index allows us to identify that ten percent of the land."

Carissa Itle Westrick, dairy environmental consultant, discussed the correlation between agriculture and the Clean Air Act.

In the past, said Westrick, water quality and proper permit inspections were complaint driven, since "if you have an odor problem, you have a neighbor problem," she said.

Now, inspections are becoming increasingly routine.

In 2000 a large hog farm in Missouri was sued under the Clean Air Act (CAA), causing producers to look carefully at the link between the CAA and their farms. However "the science is just not there yet to regulate agriculture under CAA," she said.

Although odor and air quality "must be lumped together so odor can be regulated and enforced, from a producer standpoint, I do think it's two different issues," she said.

"For Pennsylvania, air quality concerns are likely to be odor driven, with most pressure coming in areas of suburban sprawl," said Westrick. "Make your neighbors happy, and it will return back to you ten-fold."

Alyssa Dodd, extension associate at Penn State, addressed nutrient management requirements.

Nutrient-related regulations in Pennsylvania include the Clean Streams Law, the Nutrient Management Act, and the Federal Clean Water Act.

Dodd also discussed the shifting focus to phosphorus. "Changing science reveals that dissolved phosphorus in runoff is immediately available" and "is not just sediment-bound," said Dodd.

Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act regulations, which became effective in 1997, are under review.

Dodd encouraged producers to participate in government activities and help shape policy. "This is an active time in Pennsylvania," she said, reminding the audience that their comments and concerns must be addressed, and "it does make a difference."

To read about nutrient management regulations, a manual is available through local conservation districts.

Roy Richardson, PDA, discussed the Plan Development Incentives Program, Agri-Link Low Interest Loans, Plan Implementation Grant Program, and Growing Greener Grants, state-funded programs to fund best management practices (BMPs).

Federal sources for BMPs include the Chesapeake Bay Program and the Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP).

Tom Frey, owner and president of Frey Dairy Farms, discusses the operation's nutrient management with the help of a farm diagram.

Funding for streambank fencing may come through the DEP, Ducks Unlimited, Pennsylvania Game Commission, or Agriculture Management Assistance Program (AMA).

Meinen also discussed manure storage management. He defined "freeboard," the area above the maximum engineered holding capacity, as an area usually designed to hold a 25 year, 24-hour storm event.

"Breaching freeboard without a major storm event could be considered negligent management," he said.

Besides installing new storage units to hold liquid capacity for storms, Meinen advised keeping weekly records such as leak detection, rain gauge measurement, and liner integrity, among others.

Local contacts for finding out the availability of funds include the Conservation District, USDA Service Centers, Watershed Associations, State Conservation Commission, and PDA.

Virginia Ishler, Penn State, discussed four departments with information on nutrient management.

A web user can find the departments' information at http://nutrient.psu.edu/.

News, key contacts, information on the Phosphorus Index, a self-test, website user survey, and animal units calculator are also included.

Jerry Martin, who works with the nutrient management education program for Penn State extension, discussed the phosphorus index. The index, which measures each field's ability to handle nutrients, takes into consideration source factors (How is it applied? Are the nutrients incorporated? What time of year is it applied?) and transport factors (how much erosion does the field sustain? What are the runoff levels? Is there subsurface drainage?).

These factors, and others, are combined in an equation to yield a number on a scale of 100. Top-scoring fields would be barred from further fertilization, according to Martin.

However, changing factors — such as adding a buffer or changing the time of application from fall to spring — may lower the field's score and allow more fertilizer application.

"It's not trying to eat the system but improve things," he said. The phosphorus index "Encourages those improvements along the way."

Tom Frey, owner, Frey Dairy Farms, discussed the dairy's nutrient management operation. The dairy includes two freestall barns, 600 stalls each, and almost 1,300 Holsteins that are milked three times a day.

The older milking parlor is still in use for fresh and treated cows, said Frey. The older barns are

Oklahoma Feeder Cattle Weekly

Oklahoma City, OK
April 9, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Weekly Cattle Summary — Compared to last week: Feeder and stocker cattle steady, with exception of 650-735 lb steers which sold 1.00-2.00 lower on questionable quality. Steer calves 2.00 higher. Heifer calves steady. Demand good for all classes. Beef demand is good as beef cutouts reach 134.00 with modest yet sufficient slaughter levels; feedlots continue an aggressive marketing regimen as futures lag cash values; moderate but positive movement in CME cattle pits; no more than normal numbers of May wheat cattle anticipated are all factors helping to maintain status quo of feeder cattle. Receipts this week 9260; last week 11,103; last year 6472. Supply consisted of 74% yearlings over 600 lbs; 24% calves and light yearlings; 2% cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 41% of feeder and calf supply.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
Friday, April 4, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week ending Apr. 4 Total Receipts: 418,000, last week 320,200, last year 302,300. Direct 103,100, last week69,000, last year 43,800. Video/Internet 24,800; last week 0, last year 3,000. Auctions 290,100; last week 251,200, last year 255,500. This week's reported auction volume included 51 percent over 600 lbs and 46 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, feeder steers and heifers sold 1.00-2.00 higher while stocker cattle and calves traded steady to 4.00 higher. Demand was very good for all classes and the only markets that did not post gains on stockers were those that realized sharp advances last week. Normally, the first week of April is a slow one for wheat cattle sales as the regular grazing term ends by mid-March and grazeout lasts until May. However, this years outstanding gains are causing an early sell-off. Many wheaties are coming off as much as 100 lbs heavier than expected. Those backgrounders who contracted their cattle months ago are just hoping their buyer has gumption to show up for delivery. The buyers who bought these cattle out-front are wishing they would have installed a dime slide at the projected weight instead of just a nickel. Although, a large percentage of this year's wheat cattle were not contracted and this was reflected both in heavy auction receipts and a large number of current-delivery direct sales. The active trading was also sparked by higher bids from aggressive buyers. Prices for 700 lb steers made their way into the 90.00 range in the Midwestern salebarns at Bassett, NE and Green City, MO.

The success that American forces are achieving in Gulf War II is having a dramatic effect on domestic attitudes. Consumer confidence, stock markets, and support for our President are all on the rise as the United States meets its objectives in Iraq. It also became evident this week that the fed cattle market is not going to go down just to align itself with April CME Live Cattle Futures, as feedlots were able to force prices north again at 79.00 and 129.00 in the beef. The driving force behind the slaughter market is the sharp decline in dressed steer weights, which have shrunk nearly 50 lbs since the first of the year to 793 lbs.

Grass cattle buyers headed to the auctions this week under the influence of the intoxicating and hallucinogenic drug of green grass. The sky was the limit for thin and weaned old-crop calves which outsold the fancier and fleshier new-crop calves by a mile. Everyone in the cattle business was happy this past week and so were their consumers as the warm weather produced the smell of beef on the grill.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to recent changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

The following are the March 2003 Class and component prices under the Federal Milk Order pricing system: Class II $10.54 (down $0.12 from February), Class III $9.11 (down $0.55); and Class IV $9.79 (down $0.02). The following are the product price averages used in computing Class prices: butter $1.0546, NDM $0.8051, cheese $1.0780, and dry whey $0.1599. The Class II butterfat price is $1.1529 and the Class III/IV butterfat price is $1.1459.

A major ice storm across much of Central New York cut power and transportation over the weekend from Rochester to Albany. Also, quite a bit of snow fell on parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Many areas of New York were still without power at the time of this report Farm milk pick-ups were delayed. There were reports of "high count" milk being picked up, but that would be normal for pick-ups that were late. At the time of this report, there were no confirmed reports of milk being lost (dumped) at the farm, but a few reports did say that some farmers did miss a milking before acquiring a generator or power was restored.

Milk production is about steady in the Northeast and milk supplies are heavy. In the Southeast, milk output is at or near its peak along the Gulf Coast, still increasing in other Southeastern states. Florida contacts thought that their milk flow had peaked, but cooler weather seemed to have given it an additional boost. Bottled milk demand is steady in most areas of the region, but the storm did cause some panic buying late last week. However, some bottlers noted that few "add on" orders, which would indicate little or no panic buying during this storm. In areas with prolonged periods of no power, some grocery stores cleared their shelves and did not restock until power came back on. Surplus milk volumes were heavier at most plants. Quite a bit of the Florida milk is finding its way into the Middle Atlantic area as well as other plants in the Southeast.

The condensed skim market is weak with prices unchanged to occasionally lower. Spot demand is slow and some producers are having to dry more skim. Traders are stating that offerings, particularly Class II, are far greater than current spot and contract demand can clear.

The fluid cream market is not as firm as it was. Like in the weeks past, supply and demand are relatively balanced early in the week, but loads are looking for a home after midweek. The storms have greatly slowed demand for ice cream and soft serve mix. Also, cream bottlers are not taking as much as they have been. Excess cream volumes are meeting with little interest and prices for cream headed to the churns are steady to lower. More loads are clearing to butter makers this week.

Hill-Dukehart Named Md. Breeder Of The Year

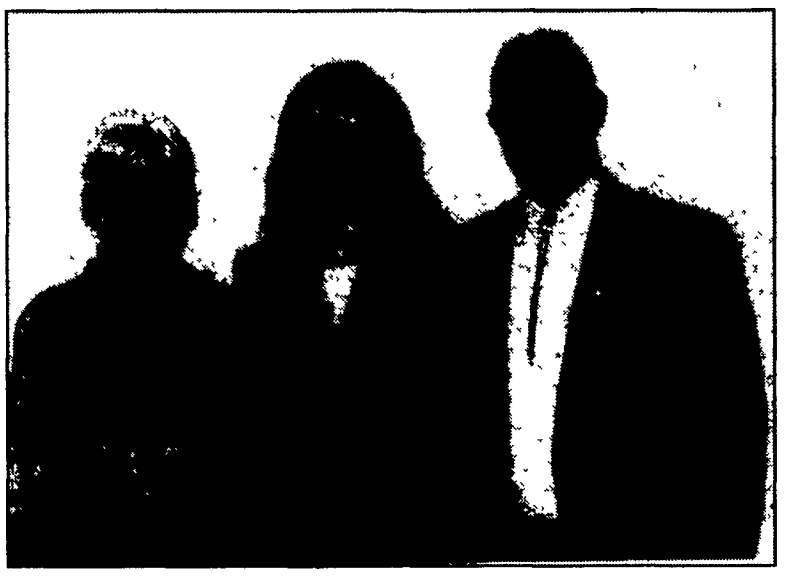
SYKESVILLE, Md. — Cortney Hill-Dukehart of Sunrise Sunset Farm in Sykesville, Md. was named the 2002 Breeder of the Year by the Maryland Angus Association.

Cortney has had success in both the show ring and performance testing with her herd of registered Angus cattle. During the past year, Cortney exhibited in many Angus shows where she won awards which included the reserve grand champion bred & owned heifer at the National Junior Angus show in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

SSF Famous Right Time 3051 was named champion Angus heifer in both junior and open competition at the Eastern National Livestock Show and The Great Frederick Fair; supreme champion at the Maryland State Fair and the Howard County Fair junior shows. She was also selected grand champion bred & owned at the Keystone Livestock Expo, the Maryland State Fair, and the Howard County Fair.

Cortney also exhibited the grand champion bull, SSF Rito Discovery 2132 at the Great Frederick Fair and the Howard County Fair as well as reserve champion at the Maryland Angus Association Breeders Show. For the past two years, Cortney's bulls have placed third overall in the Central Maryland Bull Test.

Cortney represented the American Angus Association as Miss American Angus 2002. During her reign, she traveled over 37,500 mile to various shows, sales, conventions, and conferences. She was the first Miss American Angus to represent the Angus Association in Canada at the Canadian Junior Angus Association Showdown.



Cortney Hill-Dukehart of Sunrise Sunset Farm in Sykesville, Md., was named the 2002 Breeder of the Year by the Maryland Angus Association. Presenting the award are Charles and Mary Sasscer of Cedar Hill Farm.

Grants Awarded To Northeast Farmers

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Fifty-two farmers in the Northeast were recently awarded $268,744 in grants under the Northeast Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Farmer/Grower program.

Awards ranged from $1,555 for a new marketing effort for local, additive-free pork in Maryland to $10,000 to see if certain delicate varieties of baby greens can be grown successfully in New York. The average grant was about $5,200. Projects are chosen for their relevance, innovative design, and potential impact on the sustainability of farms across the region.

Northeast SARE supports projects in sustainable agriculture for farmers, researchers, and educators, and is a program of the USDA. The region includes Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont. West Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

scraped with a skid loader into slots which go into a pit that serves as a gravity flow tunnel to a tank.

The two newer barns are flushed. The contents go through an underground to a reception tank.

"Being on a hill like this, we've worked hard to make gravity work for us, — it's a great benefit," said Frey.

Once in the tank, the particles in the slurry settle and outflow into a six-inch pipe which ends up in a lagoon.

In the lagoon, floating stainless steel screen filter the water further, which is then used for irrigation or goes back to flush the barn again.

Frey noted that although odor has never been a significant problem, it has abated even further since they have used this system and allowed the slurry to settle in the tank.

The slurry is taken out every 7-10 days and applied to fields or moved to other lagoons for storage.

Frey explained that he is also experimenting with methods of composting, "a good option for exporting nutrients off the farm," however, he added that "it's easy to spend more money composting than what the compost is worth."

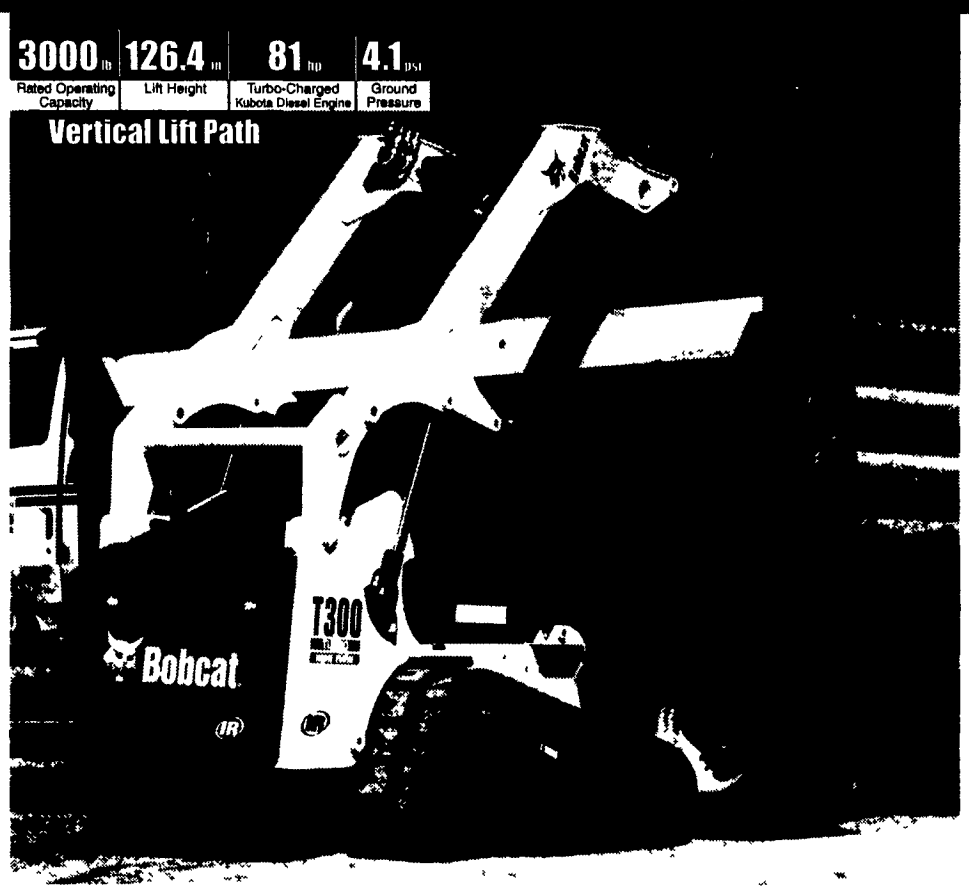
Tough Tracks for Tough Tasks

New Bobcat T300 Compact Track Loader delivers superior traction and loads of lift!



Get in earlier, finish faster
Extend your working season with the powerful, versatile T300 compact track loader! Keep crews working even when the weather won't cooperate!

Greater performance, comfort and value
Rugged rubber tracks give the T300 extra traction, greatly reduced ground pressure and low ground disturbance. Superior flotation, too, for working on soft, wet, or muddy ground where other machines stop dead!

Power to spare
You get great pushing power, plus lots more for running attachments, including the Brushcat® rotary cutter, dozer blade, landscape rake, stump grinder, tiller and others.

Vertical lift path
The T300's low-profile lift arms give the operator a great view to all four corners of the machine — and the vertical lift path delivers excellent reach and lift capacity for handling heavy loads!

See us for the full line of world-leading Bobcat equipment!

Yield Reporting Deadline

Dear Producer;

This is a reminder that April 29, 2003, is the deadline for crop insurance policyholders to update 2002 crop yield information for spring crops.

This information must be provided to your insurance agent by farm for each insured crop. Failure to report the yield information may result in reduced protection in 2003 and being ineligible for separate farm insurance units.

We hope that 2003 is an excellent crop year and complement producers who use crop insurance to help manage their production risk.

Thank you.

Dairy Alliance, Lancaster DHIA Offer Milking Management Systems Workshop

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A new training program from Dairy Alliance called Milking Management Systems focuses on managing and improving performance in milking centers.

"A lot of producers and their advisors know the technical details on how to do these things," said Richard Stup of Penn State's Dairy Alliance. "The problem comes in trying to implement the systems."

Lancaster DHIA will host this innovative milking management system workshop at their Manheim office on Friday, April 25 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Stup said participants in the workshop will learn to implement a system of milking management on their dairy that will maximize milk production, milk quality, and employee performance. Participants will learn

- how to build practices into their systems that promote milk production and udder health;
- how to design Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs);
- how to measure and improve key performance indicators;
- how to increase employee motivation, support, and cooperation; and
- how to communicate more effectively with employees and advisors.

Participants will receive a manual with helpful guides and reference material, a CD-ROM with example SOPs, templates, and a computer software package that facilitates the SOP design process.

Dairy managers and employees with management responsibility for milking operations should attend the workshop. Dairy advisors who are interested in helping their clients adopt a systems approach to milking management will find many useful tools at this workshop.

Stup, human resource specialist with Dairy Alliance, and Andrew Young, dairy manager with Red Knob Farm, will co-teach the program. The workshop incorporates techniques that effectively maintain interest and promote learning. Participants will gain hands-on experience and tools that they can immediately put to work in their own dairy operation.

The Milking Management Systems workshop will focus on the milking center. Management in this area is particularly important because many people must work together to consistently perform the vital work of harvesting quality milk in an efficient manner. The emphasis will be on building systems to ensure that work is done correctly and consistently. Participants will receive example materials and practical learning experiences that they can use in their own operations.

A related workshop on Reproductive Management Systems will take place in Greensburg, Westmoreland County. This workshop will focus on standard operating procedures (SOPs), monitoring tactics, and feedback tools that dairy farms need in order to improve herd reproduction. Reproductive Management Systems will be conducted Wednesday, April 23, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Donahoe Center in Greensburg.

Registration for each workshop is $65 and includes all software, educational materials, and meals. For more information, or to register for either workshop, call the Dairy Alliance office at (888) 373-PADA.

Land O' Lakes Cooperative is a key sponsor of Milking Management Systems. For questions about the program, contact Richard Stup at (814) 652-6430 or HYPERLINK "mailto:RichStup@psu.edu" RichStup@psu.edu.

Milking Management Systems Workshop

Participants will be able to implement a system of milking management on their dairy that will maximize milk production, milk quality, and employee performance

Program Topics:

- Integrating dairy science with management science for maximum profitability
- Designing Standard Operating Procedures
- Measuring and improving system performance
- Building employee support and cooperation
- Communicating more effectively with employees and advisors

Speakers include:

Richard Stup
Human Resource Specialist
Penn State Dairy Alliance

Andrew Young
Dairy Manager
Red Knob Farm

Special Program Highlights:

- Innovative management ideas from Red Knob Farm (Andy and the team at Red Knob continue building management systems for key parts of their operation. They started with the milking center and now have several years experience in managing and improving that system and others.)
- Demonstration of computer software to facilitate SOP design
- Example SOPs and Monitoring Charts
- Interactive program that allows managers and advisors to learn skills they can apply in their own business

What are producers saying about Management Systems workshops?

- This was one of the most helpful workshops that I've been to. Many workshops are so general and only touch the surface and let you know that an issue exists. This one actually presented useful steps to take in order to resolve the issue. Thanks.
- 'I am motivated to get SOPs written.'
- The part about getting employees to buy-into systems was important for me.

63 Bulls Average $1,635 At Pennsylvania Sale

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Sixty-three bulls sold for an average of $1,635 at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's 30th Annual Performance Tested Bull Sale, March 28, during the Pennsylvania Beef Expo.

The Honorable Dennis C. Wolfe, Secretary of Agriculture for Pennsylvania, addressed the huge crowd in attendance and offered some insight into the new administration's policies and their commitment to assisting and supporting the state's beef producers as well as all people in production agriculture.

Pennsylvania's performance testing programs are a cooperative effort between the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penn State University, and the respective species organizations. Penn State College of Agriculture's Dean, Dr. Robert D. Steele and the Head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Sciences, Dr. Terry Etherton, welcomed the crowd.

Starting the sale was an Angus bull who received an award from the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association for being the top-indexing bull over all breeds on test. This bull was bred by Joe and Bobbi McMullen, Peach Bottom, and was purchased by Stoney Acres of Honesdale, for $2,200.

The highest selling Angus bull, consigned by Oren Smith, sold to Nittany Farms of State College, for $2,900. The second highest selling Angus was a bull bred by Nancy Meyers that sold for $2,400 to Watchtower Farm of Walkhill, N.Y. The 33 Angus sold for an average of $1,714.

The top indexing Charolais bull owned by Raymond Bratton, and the second highest selling Charolais owned by John Meyers both sold to Andres Ruiz of Rincon, Puerto Rico. The highest selling Bull of the day was a Charolais consigned by John Meyers which sold to Muncy Charolais of Pipestem, W.Va. for $3,750. The four Charolais attained the high breed average with the selling price of $2,213.

The top-indexing Simmental was from Jamie Cowell and sold to Andrew Neff Jr. of Westover for $2,000. The top-selling Simmental bull owned by William Shoemaker sold for $2,900 to E & R Farms and Dale and Max Curfman. The Simmental bull average on 17 head was $1,465.

The top-selling Hereford was the red-necked bull consigned by Frank Phoenix, which sold to Lyn-Jon Acres of Midland for $2,500. The second high selling Hereford consigned by Dustin Heeter and Amy West, sold to Tom Mullinix Jr. for USDA at Union Bridge, Md. The five Herefords, averaged $1,510.

The lone Limousin, from David and Linda Miller was purchased by Bourbon Springs Farm, Newville, and the Shorthorn bred by Rinkhoff Ag Enterprises sold to James Hilty, Mount Pleasant.

The sale preceded the opening of a state of the art facility for future livestock performance testing programs that is being built at Rocksprings by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). The New Livestock Evaluation Center will house next year's performance tests and sales.

For further information on the Pa. Performance Bull Test or other livestock testing programs which the PDA offers, contact Glenn Eberly, director, at (814) 238-2527; (814) 865-5857 phone/fax; or e-mail: geberly@state.pa.us.

Hands-On Experience: Ephrata Students Learn On Their Own Farm

KARI MARTIN
Special To Lancaster Farming

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — This spring, Ephrata High School agriculture students will have the opportunity to exchange their textbooks for "hands-on" training.

For more than a year, the Ephrata Area School District has owned a 79-acre farm adjacent to the middle school, and rumors of a farm program have been circulated ever since.

Now, last-minute plans and details are being worked out to bring those rumors to reality.

The committee that is responsible for getting the farm project off the ground is the Agro-Science Committee. This group includes administrators, engineers, and teachers, including Agriculture Department Chair Ernest Orr.

The committee has worked together to head up plans and cost estimates for the farm program. Although not all the acres will be available for students, some will be used for farming and agriculture purposes.

Most students and teachers do not consider themselves farmers, but the farm will have four different areas that will serve both the students and the community. Local farmer Tom Bollinger will farm most of the 79 acres. He will be planting corn this spring.

There is a second area that will include corn trails. These trails will enable students to see how different methods of growing affect the overall yield of corn. Students will come in contact with different varieties of corn, tilling methods, and population density.

These areas of learning will also be available for the third station in a soybean trail. The last area will be comprised of several 25 by 25 foot plots that students will be able to do various projects in.

The agricultural students will mostly use the farm, but the opportunity will present itself to everyone in the school district, according to Orr.

"The farm will be available to every department for extracurricular work," he said. This means that students involved in the science fair and the FFA chapter will be able and encouraged to use the farm.

Work on the farm is taking place. Buildings are being restored or torn down, depending on their condition. This spring, agricultural students will be setting up the trail plots for corn and soybeans. By fall, students will be checking on yields, and in between these two intervals, plant growth and weed control will also be inspected.

Overall, students in the Ephrata Area School District will be given the chance to learn by "hands-on" experience and also look into career choices as they take their knowledge to a new level. It will not only serve them now, but later in their careers, as well.

"I'm excited about the opportunities that this will give students in Ephrata, from kindergarten to the 12th grade," said Orr.

Editor's note: Story originally was published in the April 1 issue of the Ephrata High School newspaper, The Mountaineer, and is reproduced courtesy of the school.

Biodiesel Meetings Set

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) and GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Two informational meetings have been scheduled on the prospects of building a biodiesel production facility in southcentral Pennsylvania.

Meetings are scheduled for April 16 at the Berks County Ag Center, Leesport, and April 21 at the USDA Service Center in Gettysburg. Both meetings will begin at 7 p.m.

The meetings will be led by the Harrisburg-based Regional Economic Development District Initiative (REDDI), which covers eight southcentral counties.

According to REDDI, if a feasibility study would show positive potential for such a project, the next step would be to form a group of farmers to invest and launch it.

A biodiesel plant in the area would use soybeans and possibly waste kitchen oils to produce a replacement for petroleum-based diesel fuel.

The Municipal Planning Act, amended in 2000, provides broad definitions for the preservation of agriculture, carrying the cause promoted by Farm Bureau. Farmers are allowed to adopt new procedures and new methods of efficiency to their operation to ensure the continued success of Pennsylvania agriculture.

Zaleski noted that with the new definitions, "your efforts to rule out intensive agriculture operations are doomed to fail."

Under the code, ag cannot be restricted where it has been traditionally present, noted the attorney. If you try to rule large-scale enterprises out, you have to provide sufficient evidence to justify that exclusion.

If supervisors don't come up with satisfactory, zone-based solutions, then the decision-makers in communities who didn't address the problems, warned Zaleski, "will be replaced with folks with very specific agendas."

The zoning can be specific and accommodate the needs of large-scale ag enterprises. At the same time, at that point, zoning regulations can deal with the issues of traffic, water, odors, dust, and other concerns.

Zoning to control use can define a lot of things, including what side of the roads can be used. Communities should put more effort into designating the areas where large-scale agriculture is desired, where it should go.

To enact these kinds of things could require "political guts," Zaleski said.

Supervisors should "jointly plan with other communities, using cooperative comprehensive planning and zoning," noted Christine Kellett, professor of law, Penn State Dickinson School of Law.

Kellett noted that if there are disputes, making use of good mediators can help both sides.

Mike Brubaker, president of the Brubaker Corp., noted that "intermunicipal cooperation" is key.

Brubaker commented on the changing nature of agriculture and the increasing need for large-scale production as the population has increased dramatically. "We're a world superpower in food production," he said.

Brubaker spoke about the new concentrated animal feeding operations (CAFO) rulings that focus not on concentration of animals, but on sheer numbers of livestock in a facility.

Kellett, of the Penn State Dickinson School, reviewed a history of the Clean Streams Act of 1939 and the subsequent development of the Clean Water Act of 1975, in addition to the Right To Farm Law. The key: the court interpretation of the law, which is up to a judge's decision.

Brubaker noted that municipalities can work to ensure the viability of agriculture. Those in agriculture can host ag summits, encourage roadside stands (he believes the future of agriculture is either large-scale or niche markets), distribute a monthly newsletter, host community gardens, provide conflict resolution services, and conduct open houses to the community.

During the convention, Agriculture Secretary designee Dennis C. Wolff hosted visitations to two Lancaster County large-scale farming operations, also CAFOs, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors PSATS State Convention, Sunday afternoon.

"It is my hope that these visitations will provide local officials with a better awareness and understanding of what CAFOs are and how they help both the farm families and their surrounding communities," Wolff said.

Approximately 80 township supervisors traveled to Lancaster County to gain first-hand information about CAFO livestock facilities.

Farm owners provided officials with an in-depth discussion on how they manage their operation, how they address neighbor relations and nutrient management plans, and the importance of their businesses to the local economy.

Community character is exemplified by the Brubaker Farm, Mount Joy. This CAFO, owned by Luke and Barbara Brubaker in partnership with their two sons, Mike and Tony, lies on the outskirts of Mount Joy and provides a beautiful green expanse among community development.

Luke Brubaker believes in his investment. "I believe agriculture and the community can live together. Agriculture is going to move where the infrastructure is. Lancaster County has the infrastructure." The Brubaker family has made use of Lancaster County's fine agricultural landscape. In 1929, Luke's father started the operation with only eight cows. Under a formal partnership between Luke and his two sons, the Brubaker Farm consists of 600 dairy cows, 450 young stock, and a 48,000-bird broiler chicken operation.

Over the years, growth and expansion of the Brubaker Farm was undertaken to keep the operation profitable. The farm's income sustains the three farm families that rely on it for their economic well-being.

Mike Brubaker noted three reasons why they chose to farm as a family: 1) to support their family financially; 2) to provide their families with a better quality of life; and 3) to meet environmental requirements.

The Brubaker Farm has approximately 1,300 animal units and is therefore considered a CAFO. The Federal CAFO program is administered in Pennsylvania by the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). This program regulates farms based on size and density of the operation. Any farm with greater than 1,000 animal units (an animal unit is considered to be 1,000 pounds of animals), or any Concentrated Animal Operation (as defined by Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act) with greater than 300 animal units, is considered to be a CAFO.

The Brubakers have obtained the necessary CAFO permits from DEP to allow them to operate their CAFO facility.

In adherence with an Erosion and Sedimentation Control Plan as well as conservation and nutrient management plans, the Brubakers have implemented practices including stream bank fencing, grassed waterways, barnyard roof runoff management, a manure storage facility, a filtration and sedimentation basin, stripcropping and contour farming, and dead bird composting.

Community development is important to the Brubakers. Many of the necessary products and services needed to run the farm are purchased from local businesses, contractors, and builders. In addition, the Brubaker Farm supports eight local employees and their families.

The farm has also been preserved as agricultural land through the Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation Program.

The group also visited a different type of CAFO. Eugene and Charlene Nolt and their three children Sarah, Katie and Ryan, own the Nolt Farm in New Holland.

This farm operation includes the production of animal feed crops, tobacco, a swine finishing facility, a dairy heifer facility, and several beef show animals. In the late 1800s, Gene's great-grandfather purchased the farm, and it has been handed down ever since. In 1986, Gene purchased the farm from his father. At that time the farm had 100 steers and produced tobacco and feed crops.

Since that time, Nolt's family size and financial needs changed without a corresponding increase in commodity prices. To earn the income needed to support his family, Nolt decided to grow finishing hogs under contract. Now, with more than 4,000 hogs, the Nolt operation is considered a concentrated animal operation (CAO) and is regulated under Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act (Act 6).

Any animal production farm in the state that has an animal density of greater than 2,000 pounds of animals per acre of cropland is considered a CAO.

This regulatory program required the Nolts to have a nutrient management plan, which they have been implementing since 1998. With approximately 640 Animal Units, the farm is also a CAFO.

The Nolts have obtained the necessary CAFO permit from DEP to allow them to operate their CAFO facility. Nolt's operation is a vital part of the local economy in the New Holland area. His farm has developed into a sustainable and effective family business.

For more information about the CAFO or CAO, contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's State Conservation Commission at (717) 787-8821 or at www.agriculture.state.pa.us.

Editor's note: The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture contributed to this report.

Is my dairy cow or heifer operation a CAFO?

Your operation is a CAFO if it is an animal feeding operation (AFO) and it meets one of the following conditions

Large CAFOs

Your dairy cow or heifer AFO is a Large CAFO if it has at least

- ✓ 700 dairy cows
- ✓ 000 heifers

Medium CAFOs

Your dairy cow or heifer AFO is a Medium CAFO if it has at least

- ✓ 200 dairy cows
- ✓ 300 heifers

and

- ✓ a man made ditch or pipe carries manure or wastewater from your operation or
- ✓ your animals come into contact with surface water running through the area where they re confined

Designated CAFOs

No matter what size your operation is if it is an AFO it can be designated a CAFO If your permitting authority inspects your operation and finds that it s adding pollutants to surface waters your operation might need a CAFO permit

My operation is a CAFO. What do I have to do?

You must apply to your permitting authority for a permit Most states have the authority to manage CAFO programs and issue permits State CAFO programs are based on the revised national regulation You can use this pamphlet to help you learn about the permit requirements for a permit You should contact your permitting authority to find out what your state s requirements are and how to apply for a permit Check the insert to this pamphlet for your permitting authority s contact information

What will my operation's permit require?

Your CAFO permit will require you to meet certain conditions for your production and land application areas The specific requirements of your permit will depend on whether your operation is a Large Medium or designated CAFO

The production area is the area where you put animals are housed and manure is stored

Requirements for all dairy cow or heifer CAFOs

You can expect your permit to require you to

- ✓ Implement a nutrient management plan
- ✓ Submit annual reports to your permitting authority
- ✓ Keep your permit current until you completely close your operation and remove all manure
- ✓ Keep records of your nutrient management practices for at least 5 years (See the pamphlet What Are the Federal Record Keeping and Reporting Requirements?)

Nutrient management plans for all dairy cow and heifer CAFOs must include provisions for

- ✓ Assuring adequate manure storage capacity
- ✓ Proper handling of dead animals and chemicals
- ✓ Diverting clean water from the production area
- ✓ Keeping animals out of surface water
- ✓ Using site specific conservation practices
- ✓ Developing ways to test manure and soil
- ✓ Assuring appropriate use of nutrients when you spread manure
- ✓ Keeping records of your nutrient management practices

The land application area includes all the land under your control where you spread manure

Your permitting authority might set more requirements for any size CAFO

Requirements for Medium and designated dairy cow or heifer CAFOs

Your permitting authority might set more requirements for your nutrient management plan These requirements will depend on the permit writer s best professional judgment and could be like the requirements for Large dairy cow or heifer CAFOs

Requirements for large dairy cow or heifer CAFOs

Nutrient management plans for Large dairy cow or heifer CAFOs have more requirements for production and land application areas

Production area

- ✓ Design your production area to contain all of your CAFO s manure plus the runoff from a 25 year 24 hour rainfall event (large storms) (Overflows from large storms are allowed only if your operation is designed and operated to meet these specifications)
- ✓ Install depth markers in liquid manure storage structures
- ✓ Inspect your production area weekly and all water lines daily
- ✓ Correct any problems you find as soon as possible
- ✓ Properly handle dead animals

Land application area

- ✓ Apply manure at rates that meet your permitting authority s standards
- ✓ Analyze manure for nutrient content at least once a year
- ✓ Analyze the soil from your land application fields for phosphorus amounts every 5 years
- ✓ Avoid applying manure to any land within 100 feet of surface water
- ✓ From time to time inspect your land application equipment for leaks

Some Large dairy cow or heifer CAFOs may qualify for equivalent discharge allowances If you use innovative technologies like treating wastewater in your production area ask your permitting authority about your options

Transferring manure to other persons

- ✓ Keep records for at least 5 years on the date recipient amount and nutrient content of the manure you transferred
- ✓ Information about the nutrient content of your manure must be given to the recipient

Maryland Brown Swiss Recognizes Breeders And Youth

NEW MIDWAY, Md. — A crowd of about 100 Brown Swiss breeders attended the annual meeting of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association recently conducted in New Midway, Md.

Maryland Brown Swiss posted another successful year throughout the state and also had success on the national level. National Brown Swiss Executive Secretary Dave Kendall, from Beloit, Wis. was the evenings guest speaker.

"I've been to a lot larger dairy states than Maryland, and not experienced this kind of attendence," said Kendall. He went on to bring news from the national office on the progress of improved services from the association, especially the classification program which will now be done with hand-held palm-pilot computers in the field. This will give the breeders instant results on the farm for their pedigrees.

Kendall also reported on university research projects being conducted on Brown Swiss discovering the benefits of Brown Swiss, not only as a cow that is rugged and can produce large quanities of component milk, but particularly the uniqueness of Brown Swiss milk and its health attributes.

The data from these herds have shown that Brown Swiss milk is naturally low in triglycerides, and also has naturally occuring levels of CLA, a cancer-fighting component.

Among all breeds, Brown Swiss were shown to have the lowest somatic cell counts as well.

"These will be long-term projects as we work with the university herds, but we need the data to educate others about the unique, profit-oriented Brown Swiss cow," said Kendall.

Kendall reported that beginning Jan. 1, 2004, federal law will require each breeder to have in place permanent double ear tags with visible ID. The ID will be the Animal Identification Number (AIN). This system was developed to trace the animal back to the country of origin, and breeder in case of any threatening health outbreaks.

The award for top-producing herd went to Edwin C. Fry, Fair Hill Farm, Chestertown, Md. for herds of more than 20 cows with 27, 532 ECM (Energy Corrected Milk). Vales Pride Farm, Emmitsburg, Md. won the award for the category of 19 cows or less with an average of 23, 128 ECM on eight cows.

Individual award winners were named as follows:

Jr. 2-year-old: Erin Burall, New Windsor, Md.

Highlighting the awards program were the recipients of the first Maryland Brown Swiss Association's Youth Scholarship Awards. This scholarship program became a reality from funds generated by member donations, Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss calf sales, and hosting the successful 2000 National Convention.

The scholarships are offered to qualified 4-H and FFA youth from Maryland and surrounding states who have been active in Brown Swiss for at least three years.

The winner of the $1,000 scholarship went to Emily Yeiser, Arnold, Md. The $500 winner was Laura Sigler, Middletown, Md.

2002 4-H record book winners are as follows:

Jr. Division: 1. Brianne Hevner, 2. Allison Perdue. 3. Hannah Hood.

Intermediate Division: 1. Hannah Smith. 2. Andrew Herbst. 3. Trenton Smith.

Senior Division: 1. Heather Molesworth. 2. Catherine Perdue. 3. Suzanne Perdue.

Tracy Webb was named youth sweepstakes winner. Representing the association's Brown Swiss Royalty was Miss Suzanne Perdue serving as the Swiss Miss, and Emily Yeiser as the Maryland State Dairy Princess.

Scholarships were presented for the first time at the Maryland Brown Swiss Association annual meeting. From left are Laura Sigler, recipient of $500 scholarship, and Emily Yeiser, $1,000 scholarship recipient.

in Pennsylvania is out of control," said Guy Donaldson, president of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "This problem affects almost everyone, and it will undermine our economy if we don't do something about it. Builders, retailers, manufactures, food processors, small business owners, and farmers have come together to focus on the problem."

Recent studies on health insurance indicate that Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) are seeking rate increases in 2003 that will average 22 percent. As health insurance rates increase, it causes additional strain on small business owners and farmers to find affordable health insurance coverage for themselves and their employees. Additional studies show rising insurance rates causing employers to consider health plan revisions to compensate for escalating premiums.

Speaking on behalf of the Pennsylvania State Grange, State President Betsy Huber said, "The Pennsylvania State Grange is pleased to participate in this rally today, but we are not pleased that it is necessary. The health insurance crisis is real in our rural areas and especially with our farm families."

Huber also noted that 90 percent of Pennsylvania farm families have one spouse working off the farm, citing health insurance coverage for the farm family as a large reason for this.

However, the problem stretches beyond the farm to include a wider cross section of Pennsylvania's industries.

"There is a health care crisis in Pennsylvania," said Roger Zimmer, president of the Pennsylvania Builders Association. "Keeping health insurance rates affordable must be a matter of great urgency to the general assembly and the governor."

To address the health insurance concerns rising in Pennsylvania, a concurrent Resolution (H.R. 95) to form the Health Insurance Affordability Commission is pending before the House of Representatives. The panel would be comprised of consumers, legislators, regulators, insurers, and health care providers. Findings and recommendations would be due to the general assembly by the end of the year.

Joining the seven organizations in support of seeking an answer for more affordable health insurance for Pennsylvania were Rep. Nicholas Micozie (R-163), chairman of the Republican House Insurance Committee, and Rep. Anthony DeLuca (D-32), chairman of the Democratic House Insurance Committee, sponsors of HR 95.

Micozie noted that a partisan discussion has begun on how to address the health insurance crisis in Pennsylvania resulting in the introduction of HR 95 and development of working groups to begin the search for possible solutions.

"We need to start immediately to meet with all interest groups to decide a course of action," said Micozie.

In his remarks, DeLuca stressed, "We have a health care crisis and it needs to be addressed. The numbers and statistics speak for themselves. As insurance costs increase, the number of uninsured will continue to increase."

DeLuca also noted that Pennsylvania has more than 2.4 million people uninsured.

Nationally, health insurance annual premiums for family coverage increased an average of 15 percent in 2002, the largest increase in a decade. In Pennsylvania, the average premium has doubled in 10 years.

As noted at Tuesday's rally, finding a solution for affordable health insurance will take time, but steps are being taken to arrive at the answer.

Like agriculture, members of this informal health insurance alliance stressed the importance and need for affordable health benefits.

"Reliable supplies of quality food products and access to affordable health insurance have much in common," said Robert Gueldner, president of PennAg Industries Association. "Both are essential to the people and economy of Pennsylvania."

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau President Guy Donaldson spoke about the importance of health care insurance reform at the State Capitol in Harrisburg. President Donaldson was joined on the capitol steps by members of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB), Pennsylvania State Grange, PennAg Industries Association, National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), Pennsylvania Builders Association (PBA), Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, and Pennsylvania SMC Business Councils.

Participating in Tuesday's rally were organizations representing nearly every sector of Pennsylvania economy. Pictured: Rep. Nicholas Micozie; Betsy Huber, Pennsylvania State Grange; Rep Anthony DeLuca; Guy Donaldson, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau; Kevin Shivers, National Federation of Independent Business; Roger Zimmer, Pennsylvania Builders Association, Brian Rider, Pennsylvania Retailers Association; and Robert Gueldner, PennAg Industries Association

cluding sustainable agriculture, natural resources, land use, and various aspects of community life. We realize that our rural land and communities are woven together. As extension agents, we provide research-based information to help people in their efforts to build and sustain healthy farms and healthy communities.

Our team has six members. Let's introduce them:

• Steve Bogash is extension agent for commercial horticulture, vegetables, and small fruit. Based in Franklin County, Bogash also works in Adams and Cumberland counties. His major responsibilities include developing and implementing educational programs and applied research improve sustainability for produce farmers, including marketing assistance, production consulting, and enterprise development.

• George Hurd, an environmental/resource development agent, serves Cumberland, York, and Adams counties from his Franklin County base. He develops implements and evaluates educational programs in environmental issues, community and economic development, and local government education.

• Lynn Kime works in Adams County and is an extension agent for agricultural economic development. His programming includes business plans, "Tilling the Soil of Opportunity," global positioning systems and geographic information systems mapping and applications, alternative forms of agriculture, the plum pox virus, and crop insurance.

• Tom McCarty is extension agent for water quality and community development. Housed in Cumberland County, he also serves Adams, Dauphin, Franklin, Lebanon, and York counties. He is responsible for water quality and quantity issues; testing, treatment, and protection of water supplies; and agriculture's impact on the environment. He assists clients in assessing and minimizing environmental impacts. McCarty also is interested in interactions of farmers and residential communities. His work with this clientele includes problem solving using evaluation, helping with communication, and counseling on regulatory requirements.

• Winifred McGee is Lebanon County extension director with program duties in community and economic development in Lebanon and York counties. She teaches about small business development and expansion through strategic planning, value-added product development, strategic marketing for small business, electronic business and electronic government, community conflict resolution, community leadership skills, grassroots group dynamics, meeting management, farm financial record keeping, and enterprise analysis.

• Tim Collins leads the Penn State Capitol Region Community and Economic Development Team. Based in Adams County, he also serves York and Cumberland counties. His major program areas include land use and farmland preservation, local government, mobilizing public support for a diverse agricultural economy, community capacity building, conflict resolution, participatory learning, network building, and leadership.

As you can see, this team has a broad depth of experience and skills. We look forward to sharing our knowledge and expertise with you in the coming months.

Gelbvieh Junior Show Schedule Set

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The American Gelbvieh Junior Association has set its summer show schedule with two regional shows and the AGJA Sunflower Classic in Hutchinson, Kan.

The season begins with a regional show in Lebanon, Tenn., sponsored by the Tennessee Gelbvieh Junior Association. The event is scheduled for May 30-June 1 at the James E. Ward Agricultural and Community Center. Cattle can arrive on Friday, May 30. A full day of contests and leadership seminars is scheduled for Saturday, May 31. Among the contests are Poster, Quiz Bowl, Sales Talk, Showmanship, and a Female and Bull show.

For more information on the Tennessee regional show contact Michael Butler at (615) 286-2799.

A regional show is also planned for June 13-15 in Columbia, Mo.

The Heart of America Gelbvieh Junior Association is the sponsor of the show. Show chairs are Brian and Tonya Myers. They can be reached at (573) 756-6757 for more information.

A leadership seminar is scheduled for the Friday afternoon, June 13 at the Boone County Fairgrounds from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The contests are set for Saturday, June 14, including Poster, Photo, Quiz Bowl, and Showmanhip. A Female and Bull Show is scheduled for Sunday morning, June 15.

The summer events culminate with the AGJA Sunflower Classic set for the Kansas State Fairgrounds July 6-11. The Kansas Gelbvieh Association and the Kansas Gelbvieh Junior Association will roll out the red carpet to welcome junior members and their families to the heartland. The Sunflower Classic features a week of contests, events and a cattle show on Friday, July 11.

To participate in these AGJA-sponsored activities individuals must be an active AGJA member by May 23, 2003. All cattle need to be in the exhibitor's name by June 1, 2003. For more information visit the AGA Website at www.gelbvieh.org or contact Lori at the AGA office (303) 465-2333.

Protect Apples from Pest Damage with Intrepid*, SpinTor*

Codling moth, leafrollers, worms and many other insects are major threats to apple quality and profitability. Through the unique activity of Intrepid* 2F insecticide and SpinTor* 2SC Naturalyte* insect control, apple growers have new ways to fight these insect pests.

Intrepid offers a new mode of action that causes molting acceleration in insects for effective, long-lasting control of key lepidopteran pests, such as leafrollers, codling moth, lesser appleworm, tufted apple budmoth and oriental fruit moth.

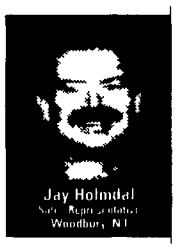
When ingested by the pest, Intrepid mimics the insect's natural molting hormone and induces a premature lethal molt of the larvae within hours. It offers extended residual activity of 14 days or more on treated foliage.

SpinTor is a member of the spinosad family of chemistry and provides excellent control of obliquebanded leafroller, spotted tentiform leafminer and tufted apple budmoth through both contact and ingestion activity. It is an outstanding rotational partner with Intrepid.

Both SpinTor and Intrepid were awarded the U.S. EPA's Presidential Green Chemistry Challenge Award, which recognizes technologies that incorporate the principles of green chemistry into chemical design, manufacture and use

Intrepid and SpinTor are perfect in IPM programs because of their safety to beneficial insects like bees, ladybeetles, parasitic wasps, predatory mites and lacewings, allowing these natural predators to suppress secondary pests like aphids and mites.

Peach growers will also find SpinTor valuable for controlling pests like leafrollers and thrips. In addition, Intrepid, when used in an integrated spray program, will help tackle oriental fruit moth, peach twig borer and leafrollers



Jay Holmdal
Woodbury, NJ

For more information about using Intrepid and SpinTor to control a broad spectrum of insect pests, contact your local ag retailer.

The proposed facility will convert corn into ethanol, a renewable gasoline additive used mainly in automobiles. It is projected to produce more than 50 million gallons of ethanol from as much as 20 million bushels of corn per year, ranking it in the top 15 of the nation's 70 ethanol facilities.

At this point, the nearest ethanol plants to Pennsylvania are in Michigan, Indiana, and Kentucky.

Co-products generated from the ethanol production process include dried distillers grain — a high-protein livestock feed, and carbon dioxide used for carbonating soft drinks and in food-processing facilities. According to planners, a major part of the project's success depends on the marketing of these co-products.

A feasibility study completed last year by an independent consulting firm showed good economic prospects for the project. One of the bright spots in assessing ethanol's future is that the fuel oxygenate MTBE is being phased out in many states because it has been shown to be an environmental and health hazard.

Ethanol is an environmentally safe fuel oxygenate.

Penn-Mar plans to have a final site chosen for the facility by May and to begin construction late this year or early 2004, according to Dan Wolf, Penn-Mar president and corn producer from York County.

Wolf led a press conference on the topic Thursday in the new lobby of the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex. Also speaking on behalf of the project were Dennis Wolff, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture designee; Russ Montgomery, president of the Regional Economic Development District Initiative (REDDI); Scott Welsh, project manager; and state Sen. Mike Waugh (R-28).

"Currently, we are focused on a short list of sites in Adams, York, and Lancaster counties," Wolf said. The proposed $80 million facility would be built on about 30 acres adjacent to a railway, in order to have access to corn shipments by rail from the Midwest.

In March, Penn-Mar signed agreements with Lockwood Greene, a global engineering firm, to design and construct the facility, and Buchart-Horn, Inc., an international multidiscipline company, to perform permitting and land development planning.

According to Project Manager Welsh, about a third of the corn for the facility would come from the Pennsylvania and Maryland area, with the rest being railed in from the Midwest.

Russ Montgomery, president of Regional Economic Development District Initiative, said an ethanol facility will be a boost to the region's economic development.

Penn-Mar was formed last summer to pursue an ethanol facility in the area. The 13 founders of the company represent the farm and agribusiness community in southcentral Pennsylvania and northern Maryland. To date, the company has a total of about 45 investors.

"As lifelong residents and farmers from Pennsylvania and Maryland, those of us who have worked long to make this project a reality are truly excited about the opportunity that Penn-Mar will bring to agriculture, the economy, and the environment of our home region," Wolf said.

In response to a question on how the production of distillers grain will impact the livestock business in the region, Wolf said, "We're actually importing more distillers grain today than this plant will produce."

Ag Secretary Wolff praised the initiative.

"I want to thank the farmers who stepped out of the box to promote a project like this," he said. "Pennsylvania is a natural fit for this project."

Russ Montgomery, REDDI president, said the facility will generate $85 million per year in economic activity and require 30-35 employees to operate.

According to Montgomery, ethanol production in Pennsylvania "can help reduce our need for foreign oil" and benefit farmers, the urban community, and the economy as a whole.

"Agriculture is no longer just about food and fiber," he said.

Waugh said the project promotes "innovation, good stewardship, and a solid ag economy in our state."

Waugh also praised the joint effort of planners across the Mason-Dixon line in launching the project.

"Biofuels, in my mind, are a win-win," he said.

Dan Wolf, president of Penn-Mar Ethanol, LLC, outlines the final planning stages for a new ethanol facility in the area that would produce more than 50 million gallons of ethanol from corn per year.

Search Committee Seeks Gelbvieh Executive Director Candidates

DENVER, Colo. — The American Gelbvieh Association (AGA) board of directors has formed a search committee seeking candidates for the AGA executive director position.

Current AGA executive director, Don Schiefelbein, has chosen to return to the family farm and not seek a contract extension.

The executive director manages the affairs of the American Gelbvieh Association, an 1,800-member organization. The AGA office is headquartered in Denver, Colo., and Gelbvieh breed is the seventh largest beef breed organization in the country.

For a complete description of the position, visit the AGA website at www.gelbvieh.org r contact search committee chairman Bill Wilkinson via email at bnwbulls@amigo.net. Applications for the position will be accepted until May 15.

Qualified applicants should send a complete resume, list of references, and a cover letter to: Bill Wilkinson, c/o AGA.

point out that this is what farming, and living in the country, is all about.

These are the kind of elected officials we need in office. In the southern end of our county, however, supervisors have tried passing illegal antifarming ordinances to stop large hog farms from forming. One township has done their best to make applying biosolids illegal.

Some people wonder that with townships running on extremely tight budgets, if supervisors should be wasting dollars on passing illegal ordinances. Anti-agriculture groups are actively pushing elected officials to pass their ordinances that prohibit farmers from changing or expanding their operations.

Last year marked a tough year for Farm Bureau members in their effort to stop local over-regulation and illegal regulation of agriculture, according to a Pennsylvania Farm Bureau spokesperson.

The time has come for us to encourage our farm neighbors to run for township supervisor, planning commission member, or school board director, according to many. Too many people with their eye on big spending and urbanization, at the cost to farming, are elected to key positions.

The time is now for us to step up and take the lead in protecting our vital resources according to several farm residents. As the Honorable Sam Hayes once said, "Farmers have to be the board supervisors and be the township legislators to prevent these things from happening."

Editor:

Agriculture, nutrition, and conservation groups sent a joint letter to budget conferees on April 3 opposing any cuts that would effect the programs under the oversight of the House and Senate Agriculture committees and the House Education and Workforce Committee.

The full letter and list of organizations follow.

April 3, 2003
The Honorable Don Nickles,
Chairman
Budget Committee
United States Senate
621 Dirksen Senate Office
Building
Washington, DC 20510
The Honorable Jim Nussle,
Chairman
Budget Committee
U.S. House of Representatives
309 Cannon House Office
Building
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Chairman Nickles and Chairman Nussle:

The Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (FSRIA) was enacted less than one year ago following two years of exhaustive debate in the House and Senate. It is not even fully implemented. The new farm law represents a delicate balance by effectively addressing the stability of our agricultural production base, protecting our important natural resources and enhancing nutrition and food assistance programs for our citizens. The careful allocation of resources evidenced by the new law should not be upset so soon after its enactment.

The mandatory programs administered by the Department of Agriculture (i.e., commodity, conservation, crop insurance, nutrition, forestry, and other valuable programs) are of enormous importance to farmers, ranchers, rural businesses, low-income Americans, and all our nation's children. Therefore, we respectfully urge the conferees to avoid reconciliation instructions to any committees other than the Finance and Ways and Means committees.

In addition, we urge the conferees to adequately fund discretionary spending, and ask that you adopt a discretionary spending total at the level of the Senate resolution, which is similar to the President's budget.

The undersigned organizations respectfully urge the conference committee not to include any reconciliation instructions in the final budget resolution to the Senate Committee on Agriculture, the House Committee on Agriculture, or the House Committee on Education and the Workforce.

Thank you for consideration of our views.

Pa. Beef Expo Junior Heifer, Steer Show Winners Announced

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "Where's the Beef?"

That question was easy to answer for those who attended the 2003 Pennsylvania Beef Expo, March 27-30.

This year, Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association (PJCA) members from six states came together to compete in one of the biggest Expo Junior shows to date.

Conducted at the Penn State Agricultural Arena in State College, the 13th Annual Pennsylvania Beef Expo Junior Show was dedicated to Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. in recognition of his outstanding support of the PJCA.

Dan Eversole, professor & livestock coach at the Virginia College of Technology served as the 2003 Beef Expo judge.

The Junior Heifer Show began Saturday, March 29, at 3 p.m. with record attendance and quality animals. Nine breeds competed for overall grand champion heifer.

Reserve champion overall heifer was exhibited by Sara Jo Campbell of Sycamore, with her Shorthorn heifer.

Expo activities resumed Sunday morning with the showmanship competition beginning at 8 Am.

Chelsea Wieben captured senior champion showman honors followed by Cortney Hill-Dukehart, who won the reserve senior showman honors.

In the intermediate division, Jack Clark won intermediate champion showman, and reserve champion intermediate showman went to Dayna Filges.

Luke Phipps was chosen as junior champion showman; reserve junior champion showman honors went to Katrina Frey.

The novice division champion showman honors were captured by Jessi Bruss with reserve champion novice showman going to Samuel Wingert.

The Junior Steer Show started immediately following the showmanship competition boasting record numbers this year with 165 steers competing for grand champion honors.

When the dust settled, the banner went to Matt Fogle of Woodbine, Md., with his champion heavyweight steer.

Jacob Wheeler of Somerset exhibited the reserve overall champion steer.

PIT POWER
Farmers and composters - Here is a breakdown for compost and manure pits and manure piles! Pit Power is bacteria and bacteria feeders that break down solids in manure pits and septic tanks and breakdown compost faster.
Clean out your pit with ease, use Pit Power! One gallon of Pit Power per 10,000 to 20,000 gal. of pit volume. Should be repeated approx. 2 times a year! If aeration of the pit is possible, it will help the bacteria to grow and work faster to break down solids Pit Power's purpose is to add life (bacteria) in the manure, which then is returned to the soil where a bacteria is working. The smell of pit manure is not so strong. Pit Power is a non-toxic product - Life to Feed Life!
Price is $58.00 per gallon
(6 gal or more - $55 per gallon) Full UPS fee will be charged if payment is not with order Send orders to

New York Beef Producers Association Announces Bull Test Sale

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The New York Beef Producers' Association (NYBPA) is facilitating a Central Bull Testing program as a tool for evaluating and merchandising potential herd sires.

Following a 112-day feeding period, the top indexing bulls will be presented for sale on April 26 at the NYS Fairgrounds in Syracuse. The 65 bulls, representing seven breeds, are being fed and managed at Erwindale Farm in Waterloo, N.Y.

The purpose of a Central Testing Program is to compare individual performance of potential herd sires, provide an opportunity for seedstock producers to market individual bulls, provide a source of bulls for commercial and seedstock herds, and provide an educational opportunity for sellers and buyers alike.

Not all bulls that complete the test will be sold. Of the 65 bulls consigned, no more than 40 will sell. Bulls will not be allowed to sell if they fail either of the following exams:

• Reproductive soundness. Each bull will undergo an internal and external exam by a veterinarian to evaluate his potential to breed females. A passing score indicates that from a reproductive standpoint, he is determined structurally fit to breed. Libido, which is his desire to find and service females in heat, will not be determined, nor will semen be evaluated, as the results are inconclusive on young bulls.

• Structural soundness. A herd sire is expected to travel a lot of ground to fulfill his duties in a short breeding season. Therefore bulls will be evaluated for defects in feet and leg structure that may inhibit their ability to service cows. As the evaluation can be subjective in nature, leaving it open to criticism, it will be completed by an individual with no direct ties to the consignors or the NYBPA.

Those that pass the above tests will be ranked by an index which takes into consideration average daily gain (ADG), weight per day of age (WDA), ultrasound measured backfat (BF), intramuscular fat (IMF) and ribeye area (REA). These factors will be weighted to represent the relative importance to the commercial industry: ADG, WDA, and REA will make up 90 percent of the index, the remaining 10 percent to be placed on BF and IMF. Bulls that rank 95 or better will be eligible for sale.

Following the bull sale, 20 Empire Heifer Development Program certified heifers, and some select purebred females will be offered for sale. This will be an excellent opportunity to improve the genetics of an existing herd or begin a herd with some of the best cattle to be offered in the northeast.

To receive a sale catalog, or for more information contact Connie Kelley, NYBPA Executive Secretary at (315) 245-3386.

Cabinet Secretaries To Speak At Ag Issues Forum

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture nominee Dennis Wolff and Secretary of Environmental Protection nominee Karen McGinty will be featured speakers at a special meeting of The Agricultural Issues Forum on Tuesday, April 22 at the Gathering Place in Mount Joy. Breakfast will begin at 7:30 a.m., with the forum beginning at 8 a.m. and concluding at 9 a.m.

The two departmental secretaries will discuss "The Environment and Agriculture — Plowing Common Ground."

Mike Brubaker, coordinator of the Ag Issues Forum, said this is an unprecedented opportunity for discussing topics of concern for the future of agriculture with two cabinet secretaries. They were named by Gov. Ed Rendell in January, and are in the early stages of setting policy for their respective departments.

Wolff owns and operates a 700-acre, 500-head dairy farm in Columbia County, and was named a Master Farmer in 1994. He was one of the early successful marketers of embryos internationally. He founded the Nicholas Wolff Foundation and Camp Victory, a nonprofit summer camp for handicapped and chronically ill children. Wolff serves as a committee member of the World Trade Organization, is on the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders, and served as an agricultural representative on the Penn State board of trustees.

McGinty served as counselor to former vice president Al Gore and was President Bill Clinton's senior policy adviser on environment, natural resources, and sustainable development issues. She was vice president for asset management at Natsource LLC, a financial services firm specializing in energy and environment-released transactions. A Philadelphia native, she has extensive experience in both domestic and international environmental policy issues.

Reservations for the breakfast can be made by e-mailing Brubaker at mike@mwbrubaker.com. Cost for the breakfast and meeting is $15, and payment and registration are requested in advance of the meeting.

Cowboy Poet To Entertain At York Farm And Natural Lands Trust Dinner

YORK (York Co.) — The Farm & Natural Lands Trust of York County has announced that York County native Robert L. Kilgore, rancher, cowboy poet, and story-teller, will be the guest entertainer at a benefit dinner, May 1, at the Valencia Ballroom in downtown York.

Reservations for the dinner should be made by April 18 by calling the Farm & Natural Lands Trust at (717) 843-4411. Cost for this evening of family entertainment is $32.50 per person and includes a social hour, full course dinner beginning at 6 p.m., and entertainment by Kilgore.

Robert L. Kilgore is a native York Countian who went West in the 1950's to seek "fame and fortune" when the cowboy bug bit him. Unfortunately fame and fortune were not found so he returned to Pennsylvania and spent the next 40 years as a professional horse trainer. Upon retirement, he returned to Southern Arizona to continue his love of the cowboy life on his own ranch south of Tucson. Bob has performed at numerous venues and is well known for his humorous cowboy stories and poetry.

Marty Grey, formerly the host of WSBA's Farm Report, also returns to York to serve as Master of Ceremonies for the event. Grey served on the Board of Directors of the Farm & Natural Lands Trust for five years prior to his move to St. Joseph, Mo. in 2002. He works at KNAZ Radio in Kansas as their Farm Service Director.

Proceeds from the dinner will benefit the Farm & Natural Lands Trust of York County. The Farm & Natural Lands Trust has preserved over 4,800 acres of farm and natural lands in 18 communities in York County. For more information contact the Farm & Natural Lands Trust at (717) 843-4411 or by e-mail at www.farmtrust.org.

Md., Pa. 4-H Judging Team European Trip Fundraisers Ongoing

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Brown Swiss Association has always been a great supporter of the Junior Brown Swiss Association on state and national levels, as well as working with youth in Maryland and surrounding states.

This year the association recognizes the 2002 Maryland and Pennsylvania 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Teams for their accomplishments.

Maryland and Pennsylvania 4-H team members, along with the Wisconsin 4-H team, have been invited to participate in an international competition at the Royal Highland Exposition in Edinburgh, Scotland this summer. Many different fund-raisers are presently under way to help support the 17-day trip through Scotland, England, Belgium, Germany, and Switzerland.

At this year's Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale, embryos have been donated by Dennis Smith, Dublin Hills; Mike Birch, Secret Hill; Jeremy Daubert, STOX Farm; and Joshua Hushon, Brothers Three. These four embryos will sell as one package at the sale. Each embryo is a high level offering from the breeder, all of them with All-American in the pedigree.

Proceeds from this embryo package are being donated and divided equally between the Maryland and Pennsylvania Judging Teams. Also highlighting the sale is another donation of a September calf which will benefit the Maryland Judging Team. This calf is the donation of Fair Hill Farm, Mr. Ed Fry, and is a Hilltop Acres PR Dominate ET out of Sunny Acres Precise Darlene. The calf writes a very nice pedigree, and all proceeds from the sale of this calf will go towards the Maryland Judging team of which Mr. Fry's grandson, Dylan Fry is a member.

Dairy Banquet Honors 4-H'ers, Leaders

VIRGINVILLE (Berks Co.) — The Berks County 4-H Dairy Banquet was recently conducted at the Virginville Grange Hall. During the evening many 4-H'ers, leaders, and coaches were recognized for their hard work and dedication to the 4-H program in 2002.

During the evening four young individuals were recognized for their dedication to the 4-H program in Berks County. Nathan Schantz, Katherine DeTurk, and Tyler Sattazahn were all recognized from their individual clubs as Rookie's of the Year. Nathan Schantz was then recognized as the Overall Charles D. Care Memorial "Rookie of the Year" for the county. Keri Houp, was also recognized for receiving the Joyce Miller 4-H Career Advancement Award.

Each dairy club in Berks County nominated a first or second year member as their "Rookie of the Year" and then an overall winner was chosen for the Charles D. Care Memorial Award, which went to Nathan Schantz. Nathan, the son of David and Katherine Schantz of Alburtis, is a member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club. Nathan attended all of his clubs' meetings and also participated in the business meeting discussions. He could also be found helping other 4-H'ers at his clubs activities and took an initiative with the club's good housekeeping at the local fairs.

Also recognized for the "Rookie of the Year" were, Katherine DeTurk of Mohrsville, who is a member of the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club, and Tyler Sattazahn of Womelsdorf, is a member of the Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club.

The Joyce Miller 4-H Career Advancement Award for 2002 was awarded to Keri Houp, daughter of Gerald and Ilona Houp of Oley. Keri is a member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club and is currently a sophomore at West Chester State University where she is studying keyboard performance and music education. Throughout her years in 4-H, Keri has served as the club treasurer for two years and vice president for one year. She also attended the Pennsylvania Governor School for Agricultural Sciences. Keri said, "though I am not pursuing a career in agriculture, my participation in 4-H has helped me to develop the essential qualities of responsibility, leadership, teamwork, and service that allow me to confidently pursue the career of my choice."

Record Book Awards were presented to the following: Large Herd — Jordan Rice (Northern Berks), Matthew Schantz (Eastern Berks), and Megan Schantz (Eastern Berks). Small Herd — Matthew Werley (Northern Berks), Melissa Harper (Eastern Berks), and David Sattazahn (Western Berks). Judge for the project books was Jerry Johnson, a former Berks County 4-H parent.

Dairy Herd Journal Awards were presented to the following: Large Herd — Brittany Haag (Northern Berks), Brett Treichler (Eastern Berks), and Marisa Koinski (Northern Berks). Small Herd — Brittni Treichler (Eastern Berks), Melissa Schuler (Eastern Berks), and Kara Brendlinger (Northern Berks). Judges for the herd journals were Steve and Karen Mohn, former 4-H members.

Officer Book Awards were presented to: Treasurer book — Eric Troutman, Northern Berks Club, Secretary book — Rebecca Dietrich, Northern Berks Club; and Scrapbook — Brittany Haag, Northern Berks Club.

Many other 4-H members were also honored for participating in 4-H programs and events during 2002. Kellie Phillips, 2002-2003 Berks County Dairy Princess, presented her skit during the banquet and also played a dairy jeopardy game in which five 4-H members competed against five parents. The overall winners in a fun competition were the parents. Lindsay Fessler, 2002-2003 Berks County Little Miss Dairy Princess, sang her song, which says, "I Like Milk ... How About You?"

Other program participants were Kara Brendlinger and Kristy Gross, toastmistresses; Rebecca Dietrich; Brennan Johns; Debbie Dietrich, Berks County Extension Agent; and Linda Youse, 4-H Dairy Council President.

Seventh Annual Eastern Alpaca Jubilee Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Mid-Atlantic Alpaca Association (MaPACA) is hosting the seventh annual Eastern Alpaca Jubilee, April 25-27, here at the Farm Show Complex.

The MaPaca Jubilee has been the largest Alpaca halter show in the country for the last two years. This year, 265 Alpaca breeders from Maine to Florida, and to the Midwest, will be attending the show.

With more than 900 Alpacas entered in halter, agility, and showmanship classes, alpaca fiber will also be judged at the Jubilee fleece show.

The Jubilee also includes more than 30 vendors selling everything from alpaca supplies to products made out of alpaca fiber — sweaters, yarn, and teddy bears — to name just a few items. In addition, visitors can watch alpaca shearers at work as the alpacas get rid of their "winter coats."

Alpacas are originally from South America and are related to llamas. They are a fiber animal that is shorn once a year to harvest its luxurious, cashmere-like fiber. Alpacas are an environmentally-sensitive option for the land since they have low water and forage requirements, and feet with soft pads that do not disrupt the soil. In addition to being gentle and intelligent, their manageable size and tidy habits make them perfect for small acreages and family involvement. There are approximately 50,000 alpacas in this country.

The MaPaca Eastern Alpaca Jubilee halter classes are scheduled for Friday through Sunday. The agility and showmanship classes and the fleece show will be Friday and Saturday. The public is welcome from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. all three days. Admission is $4 for adults and children are free.

For more information about the MaPaca Eastern Alpaca Jubilee, go to www.mapaca.org or contact Nick Melfi (908) 369-3276.

Franklin County Dairy Calf Sale Set

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The annual Franklin County Dairy Calf Sale will take place Saturday, April 19, beginning at 7 p.m. at the C.V. Antique Engine Show Grounds, Chambersburg.

Take Rt. 30 west from Chambersburg for five miles to Twin Bridge Road. Turn right onto Twin Bridge Road and proceed for about 1.5 miles. Turn left at the Twin Bridge Campground office onto Criders Church Rd. and proceed a short distance to Peckman Drive. Turn left onto Peckman Drive and the show grounds entrance will be on the left.

The sale, which is open to the public, will feature approximately 20 calves and several embryo selections. Franklin County 4-H Dairy Council sponsors the sale with the commission fees going to support 4-H Dairy Club educational activities in the county.

This year's sale chairman is David Koons, Waynesboro. Sale catalogues will be available at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Franklin County. Call (717) 263-9226 for more information.

Crowd Smaller But Enthusiastic For Rescheduled Dairy Day

CAROLYN MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

ATHENS (Bradford Co.) — The crowds were a bit smaller and some exhibitors could not come, but that didn't stop many Bradford County farmers and industry representatives from learning and sharing at the 2003 Bradford County Dairy Day. Conduted at the Harlan-Rowe Junior High School in Athens, the event was rescheduled for Saturday, March 29, after a major winter snowstorm forced organizers to cancel the event, which is usually conducted in February.

"We served over 300 lunches," said Bradford County Dairy Agent Gary Hennip. "The number was down from what we had expected in February, but we were pleased. Most of the exhibitors were able to come. We had over 50 exhibitors."

Dr. Ken Bailey, associate director of dairy marketing and policy with Penn State University, served as the key speaker for the event.

"He spoke about why the price of milk is where it is, and he was able to do it in a positive way," said Hennip. "The bottom line is that it's still a situation where demand is relatively soft and there are concerns about the war and other things. Dairy goes as the economy goes."

Also speaking at the event was Dr. Zhiguo Wu, Penn State assistant professor of ruminant nutrition. He elaborated on his research on corn silage cutting height.

During his presentation, Wu summarized current research indicating that increasing the cutting height will increase the silage quality that will possibly compensate for the reduction in yields.

In other sessions, Tioga County Dairy and Agronomy Agent Craig Williams highlighted options for bird control on area farms. Penn State Agronomy and Water Quality Agent Mark Madden offered 1 core and 1 category credit for farmers who participated in his talk on understanding how adjuvants make herbicide applications safer.

The Bradford County Dairy Princess and her court kept youth entertained with dairy trivia and games and manned the booth offering free ice cream and milk to all.

One highlight of the event was the annual pie auction that raised $760 for the 4-H dairy program and the Dairy Princess program. Sixteen pies crossed the auction block. For the third year in a row, Morrissey Insurance purchased the high-selling pie. In all, they purchased two pies for $180. Others who supported the event were all three Bradford County commissioners, McNeil Farm Service, Grange Mutual Fire Insurance Co., C&N Bank, East Smithfield Hardware and several individuals including Hennip and Bradford County 4-H agent Tom Maloney.

"They made me pay $55 for my wife's pie," said Hennip with a laugh. "But it was worth it, because it forced Tom Maloney to buy his wife's pie for $45."

During the event, visitors could also take advantage of free hearing checks and blood pressure screenings.

"We found nine individuals with some hearing loss," said Hennip. "The screenings are good because they give you an idea of what you have."

In all the extension staff agree that the day was successful.

"We were pleased with the turnout," said Hennip. "We also want to thank the Athens School District for all their help and the use of the school."

What Are The Priorities Of Cuban Ag?

BRIAN SNYDER
Centre Co. Correspondent

HAVANA, Cuba — The following list of current initiatives was presented to the Food First delegation by Luis Garca, an agronomist who is director of The Center for the Study of Sustainable Agriculture at the Agrarian University of Havana.

Entitled "The Cuban Model for Sustainable Agriculture," the list reflects challenges facing Cuba's farmers since the beginning of the current economic crisis, but serves also as a pretty good menu of priorities for sustainable farmers anywhere.

- Integrated Pest Management
- Organic fertilizers and biofertilizers
- Soil conservation and recuperation
- Animal traction and alternative energy
- Intercropping and crop rotation
- Mixing crops and animal production
- Alternative mechanization
- Urban Agriculture and community participation
- Alternative Veterinary Medicine
- Adjusting to local conditions
- Reverting rural emigration
- Increasing cooperative use of land
- Improving agrarian research
- Changing agrarian education.

Extension Services

A key to the success of sustainable agriculture in Cuba has been the reinvention and rejuvenation of university extension services.

Throughout the country, extensionists, as they are called, adhere strictly to a model of "popular education" that is described as "emancipatory" in nature. By this model, the teacher is never considered more important than students, but both learn and share in the process together.

The principle goal of extension services in Cuba is to integrate new technology with the traditional knowledge of farmers, in support of traditional production systems.

Farmers are thought to be the best judge of what to produce and how it should be done. As one extenstionist put it, "What the farmer would not eat, the farmer should not grow."

Intensive Vs. Extensive Agriculture

Of the many interesting perspectives gained from listening to farmers and other agricultural specialists in Cuba, one of the most intriguing was the concept of "extensive agriculture."

Cubans use the term "intensive" to describe industrialized systems of agriculture that are very familiar to us in the U.S., like confined livestock feeding operations and monocultural cropping practices that depend heavily on chemical inputs.

But in describing the alternative, Cubans talk about "extensive" systems that consist of vast networks of sustainably run, smaller plots of ground that emphasize cooperative labor, local marketing, farm-based enterprises, and a farm's inherent responsibility to the social fabric of its community.

In contrast to intensive agriculture, extensive agriculture represents an altogether different philosophical orientation. Cubans use the word "extensive" to emphasize how big their plans for establishing sustainable food and farming systems really are.

Lancaster County Weekly Cattle

New Holland, Pa.
Report Supplied By USDA
Friday, April 11, 2003

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2707	1153
LAST WEEK	2658	1491
LAST YEAR	2522	1280

Compared to last week, slaughter steers sold firm to .50 higher early in the week; trending steady to weak on Thursday The Western direct feedyards moved the bulk of their show lists mid-week from 80.00-81.00 live, and 130 00-131.00 on a dressed basis. This put a higher undertone in the red meat market as boxed beef was over 4.00 higher by Thursday. However, local steer prices failed to break steady even in the face of the extremely bullish national markets. For the first time in a few months the current contract at the Merc is at a discount to the cash trade, as the April contract is trading at around 77.00; with the mid to late summer contracts remaining bearish as they trade in the upper 60.00 range. Slaughter Holstein steers sold fully 1.00-2.00 higher early in the week, with the late week supply trading steady to weak. The demand for steins continues to remain fairly good, as buyers are able to take some of the sting off of their colored loads by tossing a few spots in the mix. Although, most of the Holsteins that have been on offer the past few weeks have been very well fed, and once the hides are pulled off most could probably go on the same Choice rail with their black counterparts Slaughter heifers sold steady to firm on a light test Slaughter cows sold 2 00-4.00 higher for the week due to very good demand The cow runs are beginning to taper off a little in Lancaster County, with the runs expected to get fairly light as we head into summer; as the grass greens up many farmers will turn a lot of their cows out to graze instead of selling them. This week's reported supply in Lancaster County included 1282 head of steers, 144 heifers, 966 cows, 98 bulls, with 217 head of feeder cattle

Note: The first feeder cattle specials in Lancaster County this spring will begin in a couple of weeks. The Vintage Sales Stables will hold a special feeder sale on Monday April the 21st, with New Holland Sales Stables holding a feeder special on Friday April the 25th

Calf Summary. Compared to last week, slaughter calves continue to trade steady, as buyer competition is all but void Holstein bull calves going into special-fed veal barns sold sharply higher at the two graded sales this week Northeast special-fed veal sold mostly 2.00 lower this week, with the 5797 head reported by the USDA trading from 185.00-192.00 for 215-275 lb hide-off carcasses. Holstein heifers continue to remain under 300.00 at most area sales, with buyer interest moderate to light. This week the PA Department of Agriculture graded 733 head of bulls and heifers for the two graded sales in Lancaster County, which is around 200 head less than last week.

New Director For Bureau Of Ride And Measurement Standards

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary designee Dennis C. Wolff announced that Governor Ed Rendell has appointment Kent D. Shelhamer Jr. as the new director for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Ride and Measurement Standards.

A member of several boards, committees and community groups, Shelhamer sustains a commitment to agriculture while holding more than 30 years of management experience in retail and wholesale operations. From 1982 to the present, Shelhamer served as a member of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) Association.

As a member of the PFB State Executive Committee from 1998 to the present and a State Board member since 1995, Shelhamer has testified and voted on issues of seasonal farm labor, drought relief, property taxes and various farming issues on behalf of the association's 28,000 members.

Shelhamer also serves as an adviser to the State Agriculture Labor Committee and Farm Safety Committee. Since 1999, he has been a member of the Penn State Cooperative Extension Board.

Shelhamer attended Bloomsburg State Teacher's College after graduation from Central Columbia High School and received accreditation in soil analysis from Penn State. Shelhamer resides in Berwick.

Managers Can Improve Reproduction, Milk Production

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Modern dairy farms must have management systems that help people to do the right jobs the right way and at the right time. This may sound simple enough, but it takes a lot of thought and planning to design and implement such systems with a workforce.

Dairy Alliance will conduct two workshops that will help dairy managers and advisers to greatly improve day-to-day performance from their employees in specific dairy production areas.

The Reproductive Management Systems Workshop is scheduled Wednesday, April 23, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Donahoe Center in Greensburg. The workshop will focus on the standard operating procedures (SOPs), monitoring tactics, and feedback tools that dairy farms need in order to improve herd reproduction. Participants will receive example SOPs, monitoring charts, training materials and other useful materials. They will learn practical steps that they can use immediately in their own operations. At the end of the program, participants will be able to implement a system of reproductive management on their dairy that will maximize the number of pregnant cows they get and minimize reproductive losses.

The Milking Management Systems Workshop is scheduled Friday, April 25, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Lancaster DHIA's office in Manheim. The workshop will focus on the milking center. Management in this area is particularly important because many people must work together to consistently perform the vital work of harvesting quality milk in an efficient manner. Once again the emphasis will be on building systems to ensure that work is done correctly and consistently. Participants will receive example materials and practical learning experiences that they can use in their own operations.

Registration fee for each program is $65 and includes all software, educational materials, and meals. For more information, or to register for either workshop, call the Dairy Alliance office at (888) 373-PADA. Visit the Dairy Alliance Website at www.dairyalliance.org.

Dandie says... "Everybody likes to hear a good deer tale..."

Here's One Success Story

Lots of Milk with 70% Forage Ration & Less Deer

A Bedford County farmer discovered how our high energy forage program makes the puzzle fit for the whole farm and keeps it profitable even with low milk prices. His cows have been producing 75 lbs of milk this winter on just 16 lbs of grain and lots of high energy haylage and silage.

The ration consists of (on a dry matter basis):
17.3 lbs of Italian Ryegrass alfalfa mixed haylage
15.9 lbs of BH 705 corn silage with Millennium BMR
4.4 lbs of Grass Hay
14.4 lbs of corn and roasted bean mix

The cows were healthier on this diet, had improved conception rates and better body condition. When they ran out of Italian Ryegrass haylage and switched to cereal rye, production dropped and more beans were required.

Italian Ryegrass: In Fall 2001, Green Spirit Italian Ryegrass was seeded into some of his corn silage ground and also no-tilled into his older alfalfa stands. In Spring '02 this was chopped and put into the silo.

Corn: The highly digestible Baldridge 705 corn was chosen for his silage. Just before the last tillage pass, he broadcasted about 6-8 lbs of Millennium BMR Forage Sorghum, worked it in lightly, and then planted the corn. He's found that the sorghum helps keep the deer out of the corn and provides extra tonnage, especially in a dry year. The Millennium adds sugar to the mix, and since it is a BMR variety, the digestibility is excellent. The BH 705 performed extremely well last year in the drought! The mix is chopped with a conventional corn head which gets most of the crop.

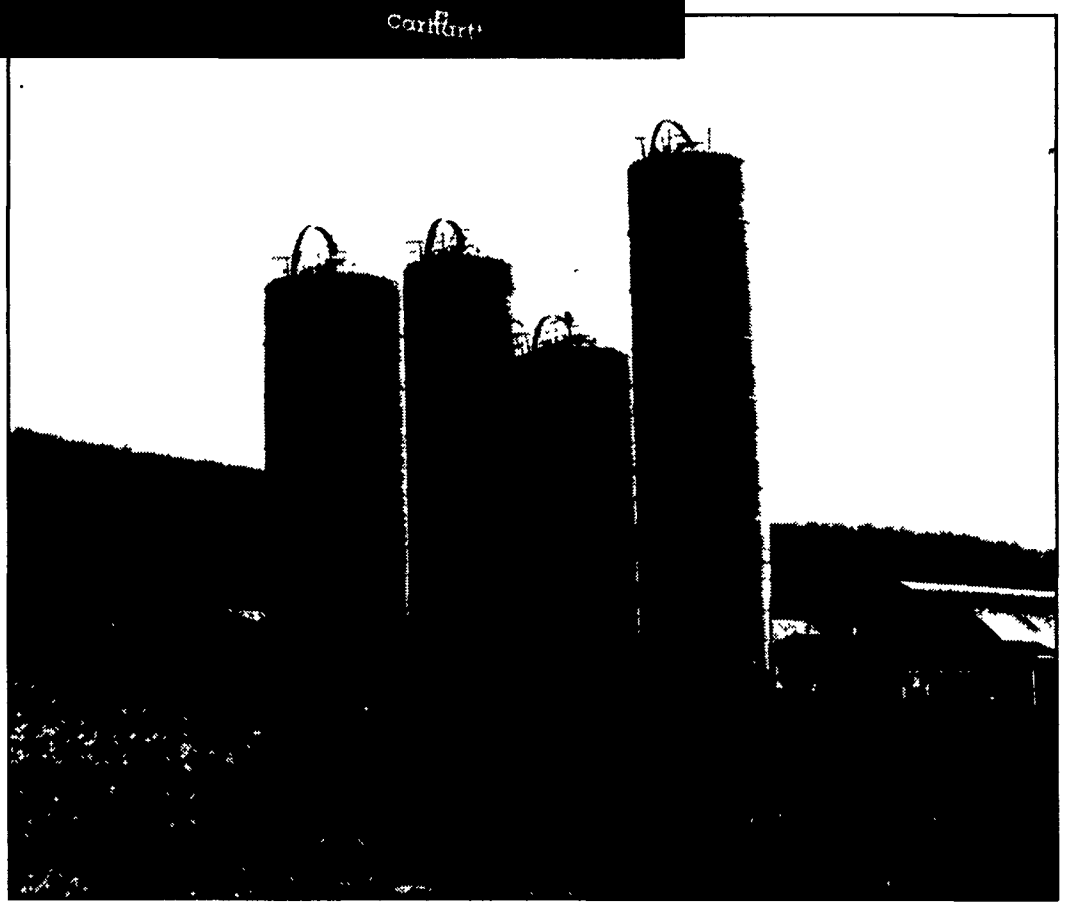
Peoples Dairy Farm

McAllisterville, Juniata Co., Pennsylvania

Farming with Harvestores since 1977

Joe Peoples (right) with stepfather Lee Glass and son Colby

"We recently installed a 25-ft. Series 92 remanufactured Goliath Unloader in our 25x80 Harvestore. Best unloader we've had to date! Cut down on our feeding time--the delivery is impressive."



Peoples' feeding program consists of 80% haylage, 20% corn silage and high moisture shelled corn. The 130-cow dairy is averaging 66lbs. of 4.0% butterfat milk and off-farm feed purchases (protein, minerals, calf feed) works out to 16% of their milk check.

Thanks and congratulations!

PEANUT BUTTER EGGS

1 cup peanut butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1½ cups rice crispy cereal

Beat together peanut butter, confectioners' sugar, and butter. Stir in cereal. Roll into egg shapes. Dip in melte. chocolate.

Newport

CANDIED PINEAPPLE CHUNKS

1 ripe medium pineapple
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
⅓ cup light corn syrup

Peel pineapple and slice into bite-sized chunks. In heavy saucepan bring sugar, water, and corn syrup to a boil. Add pineapple chunks. Cook over low heat until fruit becomes transparent. Drain fruit on rack and allow to dry. Store in airtight container.

Quarryville

MELT-IN-YOUR-MOUTH TRUFFLES

1½ cups sugar
¾ cup butter (no substitutes)
5-ounce can evaporated milk
2 packs (4.67 ounces each) Andes Mints (56 pieces)
7-ounce jar marshmallow cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
22-ounces white baking chocolate, divided
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
green food coloring (optional)

In heavy saucepan, combine sugar, butter, and milk. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat, cook and stir until a candy thermometer reads 236 degrees (soft-ball stage).

Remove from heat. Stir in candies until melted and mixture is blended. Stir in marshmallow cream and vanilla until smooth. Spread in buttered 15x10x1-inch pan. Cover and refrigerate one hour. Cut into 96 pieces; roll each ball (mixture will be soft). Place on wax paper-lined baking sheet.

In saucepan or microwave, melt 18-ounces white chocolate chips. Dip balls into melted chocolate. Place on wax paper to harden. Melt remaining white chocolate. Add food coloring if you wish. Drizzle over candy. Store in airtight container. Yield: 8 dozen.

PEANUT BUTTER HEARTS

1 cup peanut butter
2 pounds confectioners' sugar
½ cup butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
8-ounce package cream cheese

Cream peanut butter, cream cheese, butter, and sugar. (Hands often work best). Form into heart shapes, about 2 to 3 bite-sizes. Refrigerate overnight. Dip into melted 8-ounces semi-sweet chocolate coating. Keep heated over warm water. Place on waxed paper-lined cookie sheet.

Bird's Nest Cookies add a festive touch to the dinner table.

BIRD'S NEST COOKIES

1⅓ cups flaked coconut
2 sticks butter or margarine, softened
½ cup granulated sugar
1 large egg
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups M&M's Speckled Milk Chocolate Eggs

1. Preheat oven to 300°F. Spread coconut-greased cookie sheet. Toast in oven, stirring occasionally, until light golden, about 25 minutes.
2. Remove coconut from cookie sheet and set aside.
3. Incrase oven temperature to 350°F. In large bowl, add butter and sugar and whip until light and fluffy; beat in egg and vanilla.
4. In medium bowl, combine flour and salt. Blend into creamed mixture.
5. Form dough into 1¼-inch balls. Roll heavily in toasted coconut.
6. Place coconut cookies 2 inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheets. Make indentation with thumb in center of each cookie. Bake 12 to 14 minutes or until golden brown.
7. Remove cookies and cool completely. Fill indentations with chocolate eggs.

BUMBLE BEES

Starburst Fruit Chews or yellow construction paper
3 Dove Truffle Eggs or Snickers Eggs
1 tube decorative yellow icing
M&M's Milk Chocolate Candies for Easter or Skittles Candies for Easter

1. To make wings, unwrap fruit chews and soften in microwave for 5 seconds. Then thinly roll and cut into teardrops for bumble bee's wings. Or cut 12 teardrops from construction paper for wings.
2. Unwrap eggs and place both halves flat on a counter.
3. With decorative icing, pipe lines over eggs. Dot candy with icing and press onto eggs for eyes.
4. Dot each wing with icing and press underneath eggs, one wing on either side of egg.

BONNETS

1 package refrigerated sugar cookie dough or ten 4½-inch cookies
10 medium cupcakes (2½-inch), store bought or homemade
2 containers (16 ounces) white frosting
Food coloring
1 bag M&M's Milk Chocolate Candies for Easter
Starburst Jellybeans
Skittles Candies for Easter
Starburst Fruit Chews

These Easter bonnets are fun for kids to decorate and tasty to eat.

1. Roll sugar cookie dough to ¼-inch thickness and press out ten 4½-inch cookies. Bake the cookies according to directions on the package. Set aside.
2. Remove paper cupcake liner from cupcakes. Slice off rounded top of cupcake.
3. Ice top of cupcake with 1 tablespoon frosting. Turn cupcake upside down and place on the cookie. Set "cookie hats" on wire rack.
4. Divide icing into 4 bowls. Beginning with a few drops of food coloring, tint icing to desired pastel shade. One at a time, place icing into microwave for 15 seconds. Stir icing and check consistency for pourable consistency.
5. Pour frosting over "hats," covering them completely. Set aside for 10 minutes.
6. Decorate using candies.
7. To make hat ribbons, unwrap fruit chews and soften in microwave for 5 seconds. Then thinly roll and cut into thin ribbons and wrap around the hats.

Makes 10 bonnets.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Lately, it's been feeling like we live in the midst of a family of squabbling youngsters.

Their names are Winter, Spring, Summer, and In-Between, offspring of Mother Nature and Father Time. Another child, Autumn, is on an extended tour of the other side of the world.

Winter is the early riser, first up in the morning, bouncing out of bed with a gust of cold air and scattering snow about as he rips through the place. He tosses around loose twigs, leaf residue, stray bits of litter and generally makes a mess about the place before disappearing off into the neighborhood. And, that's not dust settling behind his wake, but probably frost.

Winter, the rabble-rouser of the group, has really tried Mother Nature's patience this year. Yet he has his loving side, bringing the lifegiving gift of clear, plentiful water to Mother's extended family.

Spring is the gentle child, softly creeping onto Mother's lap singing sweet bird songs and carrying a bouquet of daffodils. She's been especially busy lately rescuing her signature early blooms from coatings of snow repeatedly dumped on them by her mischievous and untiring brother.

One of Spring's favorite activities is cloring. She particularly favors green, using it lavishly, accented with yellows, pinks, and a smidgeon of crimson on some early tree leaf-buds. Once in awhile, Spring plays the normal child and throws the temper tantrum act. She'll storm around throwing rain and wind and occasionally a bit of sleet snitched from brother Winter's stash.

And then revert to a big, crayon-box rainbow smile that just melts everyone's heart.

Summer stays in her room most of the time right now, creating elaborate game plans for her big appearance later on. As evenings lengthen, Summer will no doubt spend more time around. For now, she mostly just wafts through on occasional late afternoons, dropping hints of her future starring role, then vanishing off into stunning pastel sunsets.

Like many families, Mother has the peacemaker, little brother In-Between. In Between tries to unite the crew when they get into heated tug-of-war games over temperatures and conditions. Sometimes In-Between bridges their extremes rather smoothly. Other times, he barely manages a brief interference run as the squabbling siblings struggle for the same space at the same time.

Spring showed me a surprise a few days ago when we spent some time together outside, cleaning up the residue from last year's garden. It took a second look at a dirty, whitish clump among the dead stems and leaves before I realized it was not an old piece of wind-blown paper. Instead, the clump was a wadded-together section of floating row cover, apparently hidden there by Winter under his heavy snow and ice cover.

A rememberance came back.

The small section of lightweight protective covering had been tucked about mid-November around a tiny, but vigorously thriving, patch of looseleaf lettuce. The gauzy white fabric kept leaves fresh and crisp, even when weighted down by an early snow dumped on it when Winter rudely shoved aside his bright and breezy sister Autumn.

Retrieving the flattened folds of row cover, I was amazed to find beneath it a healthy lettuce plant which had survived through all Winter's worst behaviour. Although somewhat squashed, and an anemic shade of green, it was still very much alive.

Figuring that the garden would be tilled up just about the time the lettuce plant would recover from Winter's harsh treatment, I dug it up and moved it to a safer spot in the flower beds. Spring thought such a hardly plant was worth saving for seed to plant for Autumn's garden.

But, even as we gardeners eagerly rushed outside to cavort with Spring, planting potatoes and onions, peas, and radishes, Winter dashed through our work with another nasty, white disruption just a few days ago. We hope he didn't land a fatal blow on our now-uncovered lettuce survivor.

Frankly, most of us have just about had it with this naughty Winter.

Home School Day At Landis Valley Museum

LANDIS VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Landis Valley Museum will host Home School Day on Wednesday, April 16 from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. During this all-day event, the museum provides Home School students and their families an opportunity to explore the museum's crossroads village, and participate in educational hands-on activities at their own pace. Landis Valley Museum renders a perfect environment that encourages home school families to learn and interact together with Pennsylvania Dutch Heritage.

Arrival time is 9 a.m. with activities scheduled from 9:30 a.m. through 2:30 p.m. Each participating family will receive a schedule of events. Tickets purchased at the gate are $7 for adults, $10 for students ages 6 to 17. Children under 6 are free. For additional information, or to register by phone, call Nancy Landis at (717) 569-0401, ext. 254.

TOUGH & NIMBLE

When Guil Waddell isn't using his AGCO ST45 compact tractor to mow grass or haul round bales on his 25-acre horse ranch, he's putting it to work as owner of GTW Landscaping in Rougemont, NC

"With the price of gas the way it is, I don't want to be towing a 5,000- to 7,000-pound tractor around on a trailer," he says. "That's one reason I like the AGCO compact so well. It has enough power and weight to handle heavy 3-point hitch implements; yet it's light enough to haul around on the job."

With an engine horsepower rating of 44 1 and shipping weight of more than 3,700 pounds, the ST45 is the heavyweight powerhouse of compact tractors To learn more about the productivity, reliability and operator comfort that only an AGCO ST series tractors can provide, stop by and see us today

Ida Risser

As years go by it seems that we change our attitude on many things. If we are lucky we become more patient in dealing with others. Even though we do not intend to raise our children differently — we do. If we have several children, then the younger ones may have more opportunities to do things. Maybe money is not as scarce and so they can attend more functions. Or, we can buy more things for them.

One of our grandchildren expects to travel to Germany for a second time. His high school orchestra will be playing there this summer. Then he in turn will host a German student in his home. He has been studying the German language for several years in school.

Talking about traveling, our daughter's family will be going to Hawaii during their spring break from school. They have been planning this trip for months. This is something that I probably would not do today. But, 20 years ago I thought nothing of taking this big trip. Although, an Amish lady did ask me if I was going to drive there. That would be rather difficult to do.

Another older daughter is going to fly to Seattle for a week. Her family owns a house there which must be checked on every now and then. As she lived there more than ten years there will be many people to visit too.

We are expecting a visit from our youngest daughter too. She lives in Maine and will drive here with her two youngest boys who don't go to school. It is a long day's drive to make by herself. At one time I might have attempted such a trip but not now.

Guess my traveling days to Europe and Hawaii are finished. But I certainly enjoyed going overseas on three occasions and driving across the United States too.

Editor's note: Readers who want to correspond with Ida, should send letters to Lancaster Farming to forward. Address: Ida Risser, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522 and we will be glad to forward them.

Berks County Grange Helps Cowell Family

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — More than 140 basket enthusiasts convened on Sunday, March 2, at the Fleetwood Grange Hall, Route 662, Fleetwood, to participate in raising nearly $4,000 for the Elaine Cowell Children's Fund.

Hosted by the Berks County Pomona Grange, this fundraising event successfully combined bingo and baskets in support of a family involved in an unfortunate tragedy.

The Elaine Cowell Children's Fund has been established to support the Cowell family in their future needs and as a memorial to Elaine Cowell, wife and mother of three, who died as a result of injuries suffered after her mini-van was struck by a falling chunk of ice.

The bingo players' participation as well as the generous door prize donations and volunteer efforts of over 150 Grange members and numerous businesses, enabled the Berks County Pomona Grange to raise $3,460.73. The Berks County Pomona Grange will donate an additional $539.27 to make the final contribution $4,000.

Goat Changes Life Of Uganda Child

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — The Iraqi War prevented Beatrice Biira from attaining a United States visa, but more than 750 Lancaster Countians attending Heifer International (HI) fund-raising dinners this week heard how a goat changed Beatrice's life in Uganda.

"Some things in life are too important not to share," Ellen Baber, local contact for HI, said of Beatrice's story, which has been presented on the "Opra Show" and on "Good Morning America."

Beatrice was a 9-year-old girl growing up on war-torn Uganda, East Africa. She desperately wanted to attend school but her family was too poor. She had only one dress to wear and not enough to eat when her family received the gift of a goat from HI.

The goat provided milk for the family, and the kids were sold for profit. The manure was used for biogas to create heat and light, and the leftover fertilizer nourished the family's garden plot.

One goat helped Beatrice's impoverished family become self-reliant for food and income. It enabled her to attend school. Now, Beatrice is 19 years old and plans to attend college in the U.S. to become a veterinarian.

Beatrice is only one of more than 4½ million people whose lives are different because of HI. For more than 50 years, HI has provided a gift of livestock and training on its care. Each gift multiplies because every recipient promises to pass on the gift by giving one or more or their animal's offspring to another family in need.

The program began when Dan West, a relief worker during the Spanish Civil War, was ladling out cups of powdered milk to hungry children. Sometimes there wasn't enough milk.

West realized that if a family had their own cow, they become self-reliant and not need to depend on handouts. In return, they could help another family become self-reliant by passing on the first female offspring.

Rosalie Sinn of Heifer International said one animal can change a recipient's life from poverty to prosperous.

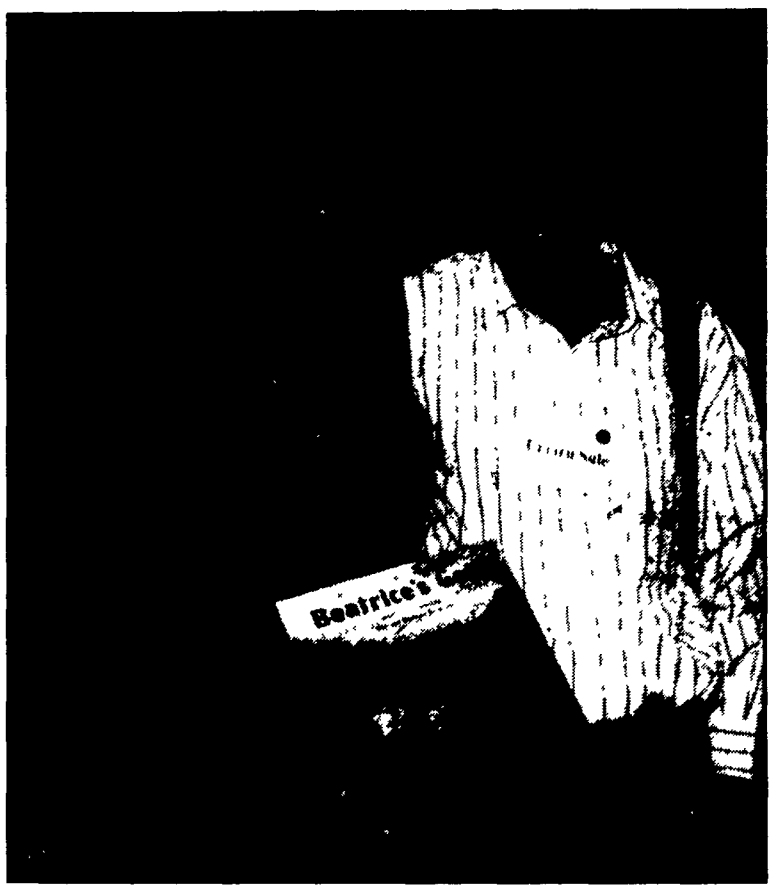
At first, West had his friends donate heifers with the concept, "Not a cup but a cow."

Since then, HI has provided many different kinds of animals depending on the country. These include llamas, rabbits, honey bees, chickens, ducks, and much more.

Heifer International supports 400 projects in 48 countries, including the U.S. that creates sustainable small-scale farm enterprises to improve nutrition and supplement income. Local community groups conceive and manage heifer projects, empowering them to solve their own problems and equipping the next generation to face challenges successfully.

"HI offers hope and love to counteract war and sadness," said Pamela Stone, HI representative.

For more information about HI, call (800) 696-1918 or visit the HI Website at www.heifer.org.



Heifer International representatives Pamela Stone and Umaru Sule hold a copy of "Beatrice's Goat," which tells how the gift of one goat from Heifer International helped her fulfill her lifelong dream to attend school.

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Recently MidAtlantic Farm Credit conducted a string of six annual stockholder meetings in Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

The events included a continuation of the patronage program, a distribution of $17.9 million based on last year's earnings.

Almost 600 people attended the meeting at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

According to Bob Frazee, chief executive officer, 436 new members joined the organization last year. He also highlighted that there were $4.8 million in claims paid to purchasers of crop insurance.

Election ballots were also collected. Results will be tabulated after the final meeting.

Renae Bender, Cochranville, daughter of Roy and Ruth Bender, was recognized as one of three scholarship winners from Pennsylvania.

Other winners from Pennsylvania include Brent Landis, Quarryville, and Katherine Harwick, Kempton.

Keynote speaker Jolene Brown combined laughter and insight as she addressed the audience. She encouraged the group to "pause a minute and reflect on the good things in our life."

Brown highlighted her husband's grandmother, "Grandma Great," who delivered wisdom "wrapped in her old time sayings," according to Brown.

"If you are green you're growing, but once you're right, you start to rot," is one of her sayings that urge the listener to "learn something new, stretch and grow. Keep an open mind, look for new ways to see things," said Brown.

Another of Grandma Great's sayings is "beauty is only skin deep, but ugly goes clear to the bone," said Brown. She illustrated this by saying that "thoughts affect behavior, which affects habits, and hardens into character," she said.

In closing, Brown urged the audience to "celebrate the blessings we've been given, appreciate the people we have around us, and get some education along the way.

"It is not what has been given to you that counts, but what you do with what you have," she said.

Brown is active on her family farm crop operation near West Branch, Iowa. a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP), she has made numerous guest appearances on television and radio.

Wayne County Plans Spring Garden Expo

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The Penn State Master Gardeners of Wayne County and Penn State Cooperative Extension are making plans for their second annual Spring Garden Expo at Lakeside Elementary in Honesdale, Saturday, May 17.

The event will consist of commercial exhibitors along with educational exhibits and workshops on a variety of gardening topics. This years' Garden Expo is featuring Ralph Snodsmith, host of the "Garden Hotline" radio show which is broadcast nationwide on the ABC Talk Radio Network.

The Garden Expo planning committee is actively seeking vendors and exhibitors for the event. Last year over 500 local gardening enthusiasts attended the Garden Expo and more are expected in 2003. Those interested in exhibiting at the Garden Expo, please contact the Master Gardener Program at the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in Wayne County at (570) 253-5970, ext. 239.

The "bottle babies" are especially friendly and inquisitive.

A nursing education has transferred well to the goat herd, said Ebaugh, who has delivered many kids not only in her own herd but also in the community around her.

Goats, Kids Keep Nurse Ebaugh Busy In York County

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

DELTA (York Co.) — If there is a "goat guru" in York County, Sharon Ebaugh has earned the title.

Involved in sheep and goat 4-H clubs since 1960, Ebaugh has not only educated 4-H'ers about goats, but has liberally doled out her expertise and experience to members of the community since she began her career with goats — almost by accident.

"When we first moved here there was a man down the road who had a goat he didn't know what to do with and he asked us if we wanted it," she said. The goat found a home with the family's already-existing flock of sheep.

Farming life was a natural step. Ebaugh and her husband Paul grew up on farms. Paul worked in Lancaster County as herdsman for a hog operation before the couple purchased their present farm in 1960.

Market sheep and goats are actually very similar, according to Ebaugh, and "we just learned along the way," she said, about how to pick and breed quality animals.

Since goats would be useful in giving lambs milk when the sheep didn't have enough, when their daughter Linda asked for a goat, Paul and Sharon purchased another goat. When that nanny kidded and presented the Ebaughs with triplets — Olivia, Newton, and John — the Ebaugh's herd began.

I guess everything came from them, said Sharon. Pretty much, they've all come from those first two goats.

One of these two goats was a Toggenburg billy. However, as time went on, we found that we had a lot of people that wanted goat milk to drink, and Toggenburg milk tends to be pretty strong, so we mixed in other breeds," she said.

Although Sharon is no longer milking her herd, dairy breeds are still represented in her cross-bred herd.

The Boughs use some of the acreage of their 50-acre farm for hay and rent out the remainder.

Sharon stays home to take care of the operation's 51 kids, 26 nannies, and three billies.

Her husband Paul works part-time at a nearby meat market. The Ebaughs have raised three children: the oldest daughter works as a meat cutter, their second daughter is a York County 4-H, dairy and animal science extension agent in York County, and their son owns Holtwood Pork, a hog farm.

Sharon, a registered nurse, has worked part-time as a nurse and uses her skills in the community and church, but has enjoyed transferring her medical education to her now-exclusively goat herd.

Since she leaves a maximum of two kids on their mother, this year Ebaugh had seven bottle-fed babies to take care of.

Kidding season comes at once and with a vengeance to Ebaugh's herd. In the last 10 days of January, 50 kids arrived.

"On one day the nannies had a set of twins, a set of triplets, and a set of quads," she said. This means more work for Ebaugh.

This year she had seven bottle-fed babies to take care of.

"It works better (to bottle feed) because the goat only has two feeding places, so the kids must compete with each other and none of them do well," she said.

Ebaugh prefers a short kidding season, "since I'm always there, tending them — I just live in the barn. Especially when it's cold, I'm there to clean them off." This year was a successful one for Ebaugh, who didn't lose any kids. "We had a beautiful kidding season — everyone's fine."

A regular schedule of feeding and lighting tends to keep the nannies from kidding at night, according to Ebaugh. In fact, many of the nannies kid between 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., and occasionally later in the evening.

Those last days of January put her nursing skills to the test.

"If the mother is in strong labor for more than a half hour, I'll go in and check on it," she said. In addition, if the nanny has had one kid and is still in labor 15 minutes later, she will check for a foot or head in the wrong place or an upside-down presentation. That's the nursing part, she said.

Understandably, Ebaughs nursing/kidding skills are in demand. "I go around the community delivering, then I teach people how to do it," she said.

She tells the story of delivering goats for 4-H'ers, during a snowy, treacherous Valentine's Day for a neighbor, and even talking friends through a delivery over the phone.

"People get a little panicky with their first kids," she said. "Most people are not prone to putting their hand in the back of a goat."

After two weeks the kids are separated from the nannies. "I don't let them run with their mothers full time, which allows both the nannies and kids time to rest and grow," she said.

The kids may go to area 4-H or FFA participants or to the ethnic market in Baltimore.

Besides supplying 4-H'ers with goats, Ebaugh has been involved as a leader, adviser, and a 4-H mom to her own children in the Airville Community 4-H Club since 1960.

"The goat projects teach the kids responsibility," and are also ideal "since goats don't need a lot of property," she said.

Goats also make a good project since they are so hardy, according to Ebaugh. Most of her medicine cabinet includes only dewormer.

A nursing education has transferred well to the goat herd, said Ebaugh, who has delivered many kids not only in her own herd but also in the community around her.

"Worms. That's the main thing, worms," she said. "You just have to really keep on top of it." She also vaccinates for liver problems associated with overeating.

"I think it's not a project that you really lose your shirt if it doesn't do well," she said. "It's not a get-rich-quick thing, but it's not an expensive hobby. It's coming on — there are a lot of people wanting goats."

Besides 4-H, another passion is the meat goat show at the Mason-Dixon Fair. She serves as superintendent of the show. The event is the only open meat goat show of eastern Pennsylvania, she believes.

Another pet project of Ebaugh's is the fair's "older and bolder" show, where parents, community members, interested passers-by, and anyone willing to go into the ring can try their hand at showing the 4-H goats. This July will be the fifth year for the relatively new fair.

The growing goat shows in Pennsylvania are a barometer of the growing goat business. "When we got our first goat, the guy couldn't even give the goat away. But then, I would say that in the next 20 years, people became interested in goat milk for their babies," she said. Also, interest in goat milk products is growing among lactose-intolerant adults, according to Ebaugh.

Goat milk fat globules are smaller than those in cow's milk, which makes them easier to digest. Although the globules are smaller and take longer to separate, goats milk is not naturally homogenized as widely believed, she pointed out.

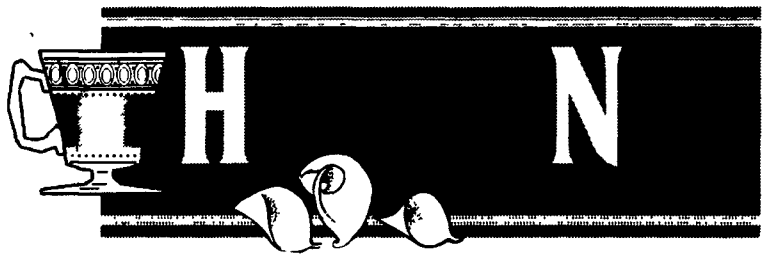
Also a growing ethnic market has created demand for goats. Also, "people are finally getting smart about the meat, which is good for a low-cholesterol diet," she said.

As Ebaugh moves into the next phase of her life (she is looking forward to moving to a new house and caring for elderly members of her family), she is cutting down on the herd. However, a few goats will remain on the farm, she said.

One of her favorites is the aging Goldie. "I'm hoping to find some papers to find out how old she is," said Ebaugh.

"She was taken to the county (elder care) home, and she always thought she was a person after that." Although goats can remain productively in a herd for 8-10 years, she believes Goldie to be much older than that average age.

Also a favorite is Clifford — named after the children's storybook dog — a large red goat that Ebaugh hopes to teach to pull a cart.



Kitchen Kaper Tour Features Home, Food, Flowers

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The GFWC of Ephrata will sponsor its 16th Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour on Monday, April 28, from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m.

Nine stops along the way of this year's tour will feature kitchens primarily and other areas of homes. Most of the locations will feature floral arrangements donated by local florists and food samples prepared by local restaurants.

• The tour begins at The Eicher Arts Center, Museum, and Shoppe, located along the Cocalico Creek in the Ephrata Park where tour tickets with brochure and map can be picked up. In addition, a rest area with rest rooms and refreshments are offered. Ephrata T.R.A.C.K. (Teens Responding To Adult Caring and Kindness) will have a table of crafts for sale. The Eicher Arts Center offers educational, artistic, and cultural events free to the public.

• The Boxwood Inn Bed and Breakfast. This building is located at 1320 Diamond Street, Akron, a 1768 farm house boasting a dining room with original built in china cabinets and two corner cabinets with handmade lattice woodwork. The living room shows a handmade wooden corner wall cabinet and mantle. Original hardwood floors and doors with original hardware have been preserved.

Situated on three acres plus of peaceful countryside, the Boxwood Inn offers solitude, hospitality, and comfort. A 30-foot garden room overlooks a slate patio that leads to the gardens, a natural stream and an expansive landscape of holly, chestnut, walnut, and willow trees.

The owners, Greg and Betsy Fitzpatrick, have renovated the four rooms in the Inn and a carriage house over the garage. However, the ambiance of the 235-year-old property has been maintained.

• Lynn Barnes and Richard Smith are the proud owners of 114 Brickyard Circle, Ephrata, built on the site of the old Ephrata Brickyard, once playground for children, hunters, and ducks. Lynn and Richard decided to retire here exciting years of teaching for the U.S. Department of Defense. They brought with them collections of antiques and artifacts from France, Austria, Germany, England, and other locations.

• The home of Roger and Lynne Kline, 650 Ridge View Drive, offers some of the very best views of Clay Township and Northern Lancaster County. The federal style construction has been remodeled in the past two years to compliment and open up a view both from within and outside. While each room has its own style, the spaciousness allows for family unity room to room.

The Klines are amateur gardeners, always trying new things — flowers, plants, and garden vegetables as the yard matures. A water garden was added during the remodeling that affords relaxation from the sound of water flowing year round.

• The Old Carriage House Shoppe, at 2425 West Main Street, Ephrata is a quaint country shop located on Rt. 322 in the village of Clay. The proprietor is Sherrie L. Miller. This 200-year-old lime and sandstone building features original wood beams, a walk-in stone fireplace and brick flooring. It offers customers a unique shopping experience for floral creations, antiques, and unusual gifts.

• The residence of Owen and Beulah White, 1131 Marilyn Avenue in Ephrata, will be a delight to anyone who has but one bear in their own home. Beulah has 300 bears in her collection.

• The Ephrata Church of the Nazarene along Rt. 322 west of Ephrata at 110 Durlach Road moved into its new location on Easter Sunday of 2001. The sanctuary seats 750 in a building that houses both church and school (K thru 12).

• Robert and Jan Johnson II, Snavely Mill Road live in a house originally built in 1802, superseded only by the barn, a year earlier, where the Snavely's lived until the house was constructed. The house is of stone with deep window sills and soft wooden floors. The entrance/dining area was once the kitchen and the present kitchen was once the gathering room. Two bedrooms are part of the original building. The present living room, added 30 years ago, was once a summer kitchen. The family room, laundry, baths, and an upstairs bedroom were added 14 years ago. Kitchen cupboards were crafted from planks of wood recovered from the original attic. This functional house is cool in summer and kept warm in winter by a large stone fireplace. Situated on five acres of land, an original bank barn stands across from the old Snavely Mill.

• James and Amy Artz, Martin Avenue, have a pleasant two-story brick dwellingm where a number of antique items are found in the kitchen. A fully finished basement features a wide collection of fire fighting memorabilia which was begun by James' parents at his early age of two years. Included are more than one hundred miniature fire trucks and various patches.

For reservations, call Marion Shook at (717) 733-7677 or Edith Graff at (717) 336-4719. Tickets are limited.

The Boxwood Inn is one of nine stops featured during the annual Kitchen Kaper Tour. Tickets are limited and should be ordered in advance for the opportunity to tour residences, sample food served by area restaurants, and view indoor and outdoor floral displays.

Rooms-To-View Tour Benefits Historical Landmark

BETHLEHEM (Lehigh Co.) — Some of the Lehigh Valley's most distinctive historic and contemporary homes will be open for a rare view of their furniture, antiques, interior design, and landscaping as part of Historic Bethlehem Partnership's (HBP) 11th annual Rooms to View house tour, Saturday April 26 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The nine houses on the tour are located in Bethlehem, Fountain Hill and the Saucon Valley. Tickets for the house tour, if ordered in advance, are $20 for the general public and $15 for members of HBP. All tickets are $25 if purchased the day of the tour.

A boxed lunch is available for $12 if ordered by April 18.

Preceding the tour, on Friday, April 25 from 6:30 p.m.-8:30 p.m. will be a preview evening, cocktails and hors d'ouevres at an extraordinary farmhouse estate. Tickets for the preview evening are $75 apiece and include the tour the next day.

Proceeds of the tour benefit the preservation and educational work of Historic Bethlehem Partnership.

To order tickets in advance or for more information, call (610) 882-0450, ext. 10. Tickets may also be purchased at the Moravian Museum, 66 W. Church Street, the Kemerer Museum of Decorative Arts, 427 N. New Street and the 1810 Goundie House, 501 Main Street between noon and 4 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday. Tickets may be purchased the day of the tour at the Moravian Museum, 66 W. Church Street, Bethlehem.

QUESTION — A Mifflinburg reader would like a recipe for a yellow cake mix. The reader has seen one in a cookbook but does not recall where, and would like to use it like any other cake mix and wouldn't mind if it is a recipe in bulk amounts.

QUESTION — An Ephrata reader would like granola bar recipes that taste like Sunbelt chewy honey and oats granola bars.

QUESTION — Gloria Craley, Navon, is looking for a recipe for "bag pudding," where dough and fruit are kneaded in a muslin bag, then the mixture is cooked in the bag in boiling water.

QUESTION — Alice Rohland, Lititz, recently purchased a home grain mill and now grinds her own whole wheat flour. She wonders if anyone had any pointers for using freshly ground whole wheat. She has read varying suggestions, such as adding wheat gluten or Vitamin C powder, dough enhancers, etc. Also, she would like to know where other Lancaster County breadbakers purchase their whet, rye, and oats to grind into flour. She wants to make rye and pumpernickel bread, but has not found rye.

QUESTION — A Fleetwood reader would like a recipe for Amish Friendship Bread using fruit juice. She has heard that it is delicious, but cannot find a recipe.

QUESTION Charles Mason, West Decatur, would like to have a recipe for blueberry cake that the berries do not sink to the bottom of the pan.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, wants a recipe for cherry vanilla pie (like those sold at Nell's Surefine Market in Hanover and East Berlin. The cherry pie has almond slivers on top and vanilla flavoring.

QUESTION — Jean Mitchell, Lewisburg, is looking for a recipe to make blueberry whoopie pies.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for McKinley Pie and any history on the pie.

QUESTION — Nancy Wallace, New Holland, is looking for a place in Lancaster County where she can purchase fresh coconut that is already grated. She needs it to make Easter eggs and fresh coconut cake for Easter. Years ago, she writes, it could be purchased at farmers markets.

QUESTION — R. Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants a recipe for hamburg pin wheel with gravy.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants to know if sesame seeds can be sprouted. She is familiar with alfalfa seed sprouting.

QUESTION — Ralph Kieffer, Halifax, wants a recipe for Aunt Flossie's tomato soup, which he heard is printed in a Lancaster County cookbook.

ANSWER — Peggy Wilson wanted descriptions for "shorts," a fireless cooker, and a Gem pan. These were referenced in a 1911 Inglenook Cookbook in recipes calling for graham flour. Shirley Smith writes that "after some research of my own I found that wheat flour is made from the centers of the wheat grains, bran is made from wheat grain hulls, and "shorts" or "middlings" is a mixture of bran and flour. . . these old cookbooks can be very interesting."

Mary Stauffer, Ephrata, also said that bran is the first layer of kernel wheat; shorts is the middle layer of wheat.

ANSWER — J. Howdyshell wanted to know how to preserve honey. Mary Templon, Grantsville, W.Va., writes that "being beekeepers for almost 20 years we found that the best way to keep comb honey is to freeze it in a sealed plastic bag or a freezer jar. It will keep fresh and keep moths off of the comb. Do not refrigerate any honey liquid at room temperature." Additionally, Jane Heckman, Effort, writes that the best way to preserve honey in the comb is to freeze it. It freezes well and does not turn sugary.

ANSWER — Several readers wrote in to ask about complete baking instructions for a Dump Cake recipe. Following is a recipe for the cake:

Dump Cake

One 16-20 ounce can of crushed pineapple, do not drain
1 box of yellow cake mix
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup butter

Grease a 9X13-inch pan. Spread pineapple on bottom of pan.

Dump in pie filling. Gently spread out. Blend of don't mix up — your choice.

Pour cake mix over this. Sprinkle nuts. Drop butter by spoonfuls on top. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

ANSWER — Richard Deckner, Quakertown, wants a recipe for a dropped Welsh cookie. Thanks to Renee Kanaskie, Lewistown Valley, sent in her grandmother's recipe, writing that "she made the best Welsh cookies (or cakes, as she called them) around."

Welsh Cakes (Cookies)

1 stick butter and 10 heaping tablespoons shortening
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
5 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
5 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 box raisins

Cream shortening and sugar; add eggs. Sift dry ingredients together. Add gradually to shortening mixture alternately with milk. Stir in raisins. Drop by rounded tablespoons on cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. Makes six dozen.

ANSWER — In response to the request for a pineapple pocket pastry — possibly Polish — here is one from Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville.

KOLACHKY

1 cup potato water
1 cup hot milk
2 yeast cakes
1 cup flour
2 eggs
6 cups flour
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons salt
½ cup melted butter

Heat milk to the boiling point, then add cold potato water. Crush two yeast cakes into liquid, add one cup flour, beat until smooth, and let rise a half an hour. Add remaining ingredients except butter and knead until the dough forms a soft ball. Cover and let rise until doubled — about two hours. Roll out on a floured board until it reaches one inch thick. cut into two-inch squares. Fill squares with fruit filling or jam. Pinch corners of squares together, being sure that fruit is enclosed. Place in a buttered pan and let rise one hour. Brush tops with melted butter and bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes or until brown.

Make sure all the ingredients used are room temperature.

Shirley also sent in the following Polish recipe,

Pastry Fingers

1 pound dry cottage cheese
4 cups flour
½ teaspoon vanilla

Put cheese through the grinder. Make with soft butter add flour, first cutting in with a knife, then lightly kneading. Make little balls the size of a walnut and set in refrigerator overnight. Roll each ball until very thin. Fill with dates, prunes, or jam. Seal edges and make small rolls (or pockets). Bake at 350 degrees until light brown, approximately 15 minute. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Shirley writes that she had a hard time finding out what dry cottage cheese is. The closest product that she has found is the "farmers cheese" in the deli. Do not use regular cottage cheese, she writes.

For another pineapple recipe, Cristin Crile, Washington County Dairy Princess, sends the following:

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

1¼ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup granulated sugar
4 tablespoons butter, softened
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons butter
½ cup packed brown sugar
4 pineapple slices, cut into wedges
1 cup pecans; broken meats

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift together three times. Add butter.

Combine egg, milk, and vanilla. Add to flour mixture, stirring until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously one minute. Melt four tablespoons butter in an 8X8X2-inch pan or an 8-inch skillet over low flame. Add brown sugar and cook and stir until thoroughly mixed.

On this arrange pineapple wedges and sprinkle nuts over top. Turn batter out on contents of pan. Bake 350 degrees for 50 minutes, or until done. Loosen cake from the sides of the pan with a spatula.

Turn dish upside down on dish with pineapple on top. Garnish with whipped cream if desired. Other fruits may be substituted for pineapple and nuts in this recipe. These fruits include sliced apples, sliced peaches, cooked apricots or prunes, or canned or fresh cherries, seeded.

ANSWER — David Manilla asked for BBQ sauce recipes, and Shirley Orfanella sent in the following:

Black Jack BBQ Sauce

1 cup strong black coffee
1 cup Worcestershire sauce
1 cup catsup
½ cup apple cider vinegar
½ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups minced onion
¼ cup minced hot chili peppers
6 cloves minced garlic

Combine all ingredients in a pan and simmer 25 minutes. Strain or puree in blender. Makes five cups.

Traditional BBQ Sauce

¼ cup salad oil
6-ounce can tomato paste
½ cup water
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup white vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons liquid smoke
2 teaspoons tobasco sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 beef boullion cube
1 large garlic clove, minced

In medium pan, saute onion in oil until transparent. Add the rest of ingredients and mix well. Simmer 15-20 minutes.

Plan Together — Share The Load!

When I was growing up, we used to go for rides on Sunday afternoons. My mom, dad, sister, uncle, grandmother, and I would all pile in the car and take off for a pleasant drive down country roads. The route was always explained prior to our departure — and we would be assured that there would be a stop along the way to get a quick snack, or we would be home in time to share a good dinner.

Today, very few of us have time to take these excursions — stopping to visit cousins and such. However, many folks do "pack their families in the car" for another type of trip that is not so pleasant for the driver, or the passengers. They do this by taking all the cares and concerns of the farm on their own shoulders, never sharing the plan for the future, or projecting the bumps along the way. In doing so, they cause themselves stress (and all the mental and physical symptoms resulting from it) and cause everyone else in the "car" great anxiety.

This problem can be easily fixed with two specific actions:

- Developing a written plan for the farm
- Sharing the plan's goals and the actions needed with the rest of the family

Farm ventures move forward when they have a plan. The plan is like a road map for our trip. We can look on a physical piece of paper to see where we are now and where we would like to be in the future. The plan tells us about a specific set of actions that we can do to get from our current status to the one in the future. Just like the map assures us that there are roads from here to there, rest stops available on the route, and towns to stop in for the night, a business plan shows us that it is indeed possible for things to get better, be more profitable, and be more prosperous. For this reason, plans are not just needed when a loan is required, but they serve as an everyday tool to keep our actions on track.

Just as important as having the plan is sharing what the plan says with others who are "on the trip."

When everyone knows that tightening the belt will be temporary, and they understand what waits ahead once the pennies have been saved, no one feels that their needs are not being recognized. Everyone becomes a team player. When farm families plan together, sharing the concerns and goals, the load gets spread out, and individuals are more willing to take their share, because they know where they are headed!

Working for more than 15 years helping people start and expand their businesses, I have always realized the importance of making a written plan. A number of my fellow agents and I began teaching a class called Tilling the Soil of Opportunity, to help farmers put together business plans. Our original goal was that each student would "graduate" by writing a plan. However, shortly after we began teaching the class, we made an interesting discovery. The students started talking about going home from the class and talking about the lesson with their family members. They were really excited about the way that spouses, children, brothers and sisters responded to their ideas — and suggested ideas of their own. As the 12 weeks of the class went by, we came to realize that the written plan we originally wanted each student to create was only a "map" - and discussing the "trip" with everyone in the "car" was the really important part. Suddenly, time lines and to do lists were developed.

While originally we had only one person (or a couple) from each farm who was willing to commit to go to the series of classes, now we heard about entire families gathered around tables adding their ideas and "buying in" to the overall plan. As the first class concluded in Spring 2002, one of the students said, "This course has given me a starting point for involving family in my business. Prior to this course I was overwhelmed with the volume of topics and decisions to be made. My spouse would insist that I make all decisions independently. My spouse is now more involved. Now the business plan will be "Our Business Plan."

This student did not have a full, written plan, but she had achieved great success!

The Sunday drives of years ago were fun for everyone because we all knew where we were going, how we were going to get there, and that no one would be asked to do something she or he wasn't capable of doing along the way. The driver had no more stress than the passengers. That's how our farm businesses can be too — if we plan together and share the 'ride."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Computers made it possible to reprint the map Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day"

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology -- the STREAM MAP OF OHIO was created

PEPPERMINT FUDGE

2-ounces cream cheese, softened
2 cups confectioner's sugar
3 tablespoons baking cocoa
½ teaspoon milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ cup chopped nuts

Peppermint Layer:

2-ounces cream cheese, softened
2 cups confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon milk
½ teaspoon peppermint extract
¼ cup crushed peppermint candy

Line bottom and sides of 8x4x2-inch loaf pan with foil. Grease foil with 1½ teaspoons butter; set aside. In a small mixing bowl, beat cream cheese. Gradually, beat in confectioners' sugar, cocoa, milk, and vanilla. Stir in nuts. Spread into prepared pan. Chill for one hour or until firm.

For peppermint layer, beat cream cheese in a small mixing bowl. Gradually beat in confectioner's sugar, milk, and extract. Stir in peppermint candy. Spread evenly over chocolate layer. Chill for one hour or until firm. Using foil, lift fudge from pan. Gently peel off foil. Cut into squares. Yield: 1¼ pounds.

EASY MARSHMALLOW SNAILS

1¼ cups miniature marshmallows, divided
1 package (4-serving size) gelatin, any flavor
½ cup warm water
24 (1-inch) pieces red string licorice
Ready-to-spread vanilla frosting

Set aside 12 of the miniature marshmallows.

Mix gelatin and water in medium microwavable bowl. Microwave on high 1½ minutes; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved.

Stir in remaining marshmallows. Microwave on high 1 minute or until marshmallows are partially melted. Stir gently until marshmallows are completely melted. Pour into 9-inch square pan sprayed with no stick cooking spray.

Refrigerate 30 to 45 minutes or until set. Run sharp knife around edges of pan to loosen gelatin layer from pan.

Starting at 1 edge, roll up gelatin layer tightly. Cut into 12 (¾-inch-thick) slices. Unroll each about 1 inch when ready to decorate. Stand 1 of the reserved marshmallows on unrolled portion of each spiral for the "snail's body," securing with frosting. Insert 2 pieces of licorice into each marshmallow for "antennae," securing with additional frosting if desired. Makes 12 servings, 1 snail each.

DIPPED PRETZEL BLOOMS

1 package (8 squares) semi-sweet baking chocolate, melted
12 Spring Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookies, finely chopped

Roll in cookie crumbs.

Place on waxed paper-lined baking sheets; let stand about 1 hour or until chocolate is set. Makes 12 serving.

CREATIVE CRITTERS

Have chocolate sandwich cookies and miniature marshmallows on hand as well as shoestring licorice, mini pretzel twists, decorating gel, melted chocolate and ready-to-spread frosting. Now your family is ready to make ants, cookie flowers and critters to inhabit their dream garden.

CENTIPEDE

Stack 9 Spring Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookies together, spreading ready-to-spread white frosting between each cookie to secure; stand on edge.

Secure an additional cookie with "smiley face" design, slightly higher than the other cookies, to one end with additional frosting to form the "centipede's head."

Attach desired number of miniature marshmallows to each side of centipede with additional frosting for "legs" and 2 small pieces shoestring licorice to head for "antennae." Makes 1 centipede (5 servings).

COOKIE FROG

Attach 2 mini pretzel twists to the bottom of a Spring Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookie with ready-to-spread white frosting for "frog's legs." Attach 2 miniature marshmallows to top of cookie with additional frosting for "eyes." Color eyes with decorating gel, if desired. Makes 1 frog.

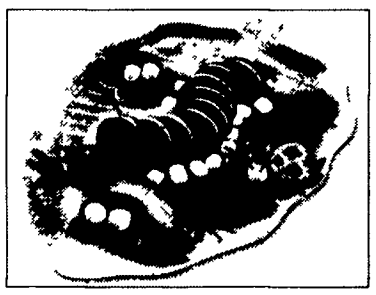
Variation — Cookie Butterfly: Attach pretzels to bottom of cookie as directed above for "butterfly's wings." Turn cookie pretzel-side up. Attach 1 miniature marshmallow in front of wings for the "butterfly's head." Insert 2 small pieces of shoestring licorice into marshmallow for "antennae." Use decorating gel to draw "face." Makes 1 butterfly.

FLOWER POP

Insert a wooden pop stick into a Spring Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookie for top of "flower." Use ready-to-spread white frosting to attach Jet-Puffed Miniature Marshmallows around outside edge of cookie for "flower petals." Makes 1.

CHOCOLATE-COVERED ANT

Dip 2 miniature marshmallows in melted chocolate; attach end-by-end to form "ant's body." Place on sheet of waxed paper. Insert 6 small pieces shoestring licorice into sides of ant for "legs" and 2 pieces into front of ant for "antennae." Let stand about 1 hour or until set. Makes 1 ant.



Children of all ages will enjoy making and eating these critters: Centipede, Cookie Frogs, Cookie Butterfly, and Chocolate-Covered Ants. For more information and fun ideas, visit www.kraftfoods.com and www.jetpuffed.com

Dairy Promoters Participate In Susquehanna County Dairy Day

SUSQUEHANNA (Susquehanna Co.) — Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Rebecca Place and her court were at the 14th annual Susquehanna County Dairy Day held at the Elk Lake High School. Educational presentations and commercial exhibitors were represented.

The Princess, Dairy Ambassadors Abbey Puzo, Alyssa Sprout, Amanda Miner, Amy Roe, Ashley Franklin, and Dairy Maids Abbey Hewitt, Alicia Roe, Jenna Sprout, Jessica Roe, Karin Mowry and Lydia Carlin served many dishes of ice cream. 'Got Milk' posters, erasers, pencils and milk stickers were given to visitors. Free milk and cheese were also handed out.

Visitors were reminded of the nutritional importance of drinking calcium packed in wholesome milk. If we don't get enough calcium from the food we eat, our body will steal what it needs from our bones leaving them fragile and weak later in life. Calcium is not just for strong bones and healthy teeth. Studies suggest a healthy diet including adequate calcium from foods like milk may also reduce the risk of high blood pressure and other serious diseases.

Free health screenings were provided by Barnes Kasson Hospital, Beltone Hearing, Endless Mountains Health Systems and PA Department of Health.

Dairy Day was sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension of Susquehanna County, farm supply dealers, marketing firms and farm organizations.

Smart Stuff
with Twig Walkingstick
Dear Twig: I saw a sick house finch at our bird feeder. Its eyes were gunked up and it didn't seem to see me. Any idea what was wrong?
It sounds like a disease called mycoplasmal conjunctivitis Infected birds — almost always house finches, and those living east of the Rockies — have red, swollen or crusted-shut eyes
Which is gross to see and worse to have Conjunctivitis itself usually isn't fatal But it leaves birds weak or blind, and then they may starve or get eaten by predators East Coast house finch numbers have fallen by an estimated 40 percent since the illness appeared in the 1990s (Their numbers now seem to have stabilized)
A parasitic bacterium, Mycoplasma gallisepticum, is the cause It poses no threat to people And few other birds seem to get it Scientists think eastern house finches are especially suspectible because they lack genetic diversity All are descended from caged birds released in New York in the '40s
Best way to help? Keep bird feeders clean If you see a sick finch at a feeder, take down the feeder, wash it with a 10 percent bleach solution (1 part bleach 9 parts water), dry it and put it back up
Scrubbingly,
Twig

Pioneer Braid Quilt Workshop

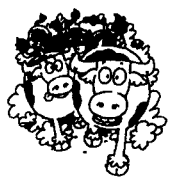
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Are you a beginner who wants to get started in quilting or an experienced quilter wanting to learn something new?

This Penn State Cooperative Extension workshop teaches you an easy way to make a Pioneer Braid design, which will give you two different designs when you are done.

You can make a wall hanging or table runner in class but later you might want to use this design as a border for other quilts. Registration is required. A supply list will be sent when registration is received. A sewing machine is needed for this class.

This workshop will be conducted at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster, Saturday. May 10 from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. The cost is $35. Class limit is eight. No refunds or cancellations can be made after the registration deadline, May 1. The instructor is Carol Lee Shirk.

Call Penn State Extension at (717) 394-6851 for information.



Hear History Connected With Farm Machinery

A history lecture will examine the beginnings of the New Holland Machine Company founded by Abraham Zimmerman. Hear about Edwin B. Nolt photographed testing the model 77 baler, the first New Holland to have the pickup on the right side. Production models had the outboard wheel tucked under the pickup. Nolt had already redesigned the knotters for about 100 percent reliability. Ivan Glick, former employee of New Holland Machine will relate interesting stories about farm machinery during the free program conducted at Christian Aid Ministries, 2412 Division Highway, five miles south of New Holland on Route 322, May 2 at 7 p.m. For more information, call (717) 354-4301 or (717) 354-7139.

Simplify Your Life

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Have you ever thought that your life was too chaotic?

If so, then plan to attend Penn State Cooperative Extension's Spring Fling event, "Simplify Your Life." The annual event will be conducted on Thursday, May 8, at Keystone College from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

The program will feature Diane Albright, a professional organizer and founder of All Bright Ideas, Inc. Albright will discuss how to get organized and stay organized in her presentation, "Organizing Made Easy." Kerri Gorton and Deanna Wollack will present "Gardening Simplified" and energy saving tips, methods, and equipment.

The cost of the program is $12 per person which includes a hot buffet lunch.

To register, call Penn State Cooperative Extension at (570) 963-6842 by April 25.

He would be willing to consider another brand if it has an inkjet printing system. Call (717) 484-0515.

ANSWER — In answer to the request for a used golf cart, Toni Kellers, Bedminster, writes that a tree farm near her has several used golf carts for sale for about $1,500. Check out the Website www.agafarms.com or call (215) 795-0660. Toni writes that she drove one, and liked it so much she might buy one when she gets a few years older.

ANSWER — David Diseroad, Lineboro, Md., is grateful for this column that enabled him to find a used home milk pasteurizer and cream separator in working condition.

ANSWER — Debbie Mullinex, Woodbine, Md., wanted to know how to clean a large copper apple butter kettle in order to restore it to the proper copper color. Lizzie Stoltzfus writes that she has cleaned pennies and smaller copper items by using salt and vinegar. Wet the item with vinegar and put salt on it while it is still wet. Let it soak awhile with the salt on it. Then scrub with steel wool or a green scouring pad.

ANSWER — Gideon L. Stoltzfus, Gordonville, wanted a Champion juicer with a burned out motor. He wants to mount one on an air motor. He also wants a Vitamix blender that is in good shape except for the motor. Thanks to Christ Yoder who writes that he has a Vitamix that looks like new without a motor. He will sell for $50. Call Christ at (717) 529-3474.

ANSWER — Janet Spangler has a few Balsam or Lady Slipper seeds to share. She also has some Angel Trumpet seeds for anyone interested. These have blossoms that open in the shape of a white trumpet cup each morning. They die in 24 hours and new ones open the following morning. She cuts them early in the day and the blossoms last about 36 hours in the house. They bloom from mid- summer until mid-September. The trumpet measures about 7-inches in length. Send her a self-addressed, stamped envelope for seeds to 7033 Carlisle Pike, York Springs, PA 17372.

ANSWER In answer to a request, a reader sent in these words taken from an old 78 recording by Roy Acuff. He believes the music was originally published by Acuff-Rose music publishers in Nashville, Tenn.

When I've Come To The End Of Life's Journey

When I Come to the end of life's journey, and I've gone the last mile of the way. When friends come to cry and bid me goodbye, I wonder what they will say.

When they lay me to rest in a casket of white, from this troubled old world I'll be free, O what will they say, as they walk slowly by, when they take that last look at me?

When they stand 'or me weeping and mourning, then the crowd will walk slowly away, when they lift up the lace that covers my face, I wonder just what they will say.

When they lay me to rest in a casket of white, from this troubled old world I'll be free. O what will they say, as they walk slowly by, when they take that last look at me.

When I'm left all alone at the graveyard and they've laid me beneath the cold clay, when the flowers they gave are placed on my grave, I wonder just what they will say.

When they lay me to rest in a casket of white, from this troubled old world I'll be free, O what will they say as they walk slowly by, when they take that last look at me.

Master Gardener Plant Sale May 3

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Penn State Master Gardeners of Lancaster County will conduct their first annual plant sale on Saturday, May 3, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. inside the auditorium at the Farm and Home Center, located at 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster. Few plants will be over $5. Most perennials are in two-quart pots.

Featured plants include groups for native and drought-tolerant plants, plants to attract butterflies and hummingbirds, vegetable starts, and herbs. Also included are division perennials from Master Gardeners' gardens such as ground covers, shade loving plants, long blooming varieties, old favorites, climbing, and many other types.

Master Gardeners will be available to offer how-to's for planting and maintaining purchased plants, and to answer any other questions gardeners might have about gardening in general.

Penn State Soil Test Kits will be sold for $6 and a Master Gardener will explain the process and review the lab report form that will arrive from Penn State labs a few weeks after the soil test is mailed in.

Handouts and brochures applicable to spring gardening will also be available.

HOLMESPUN: AN INTIMATE PORTRAIT OF AN AMISH AND MENNONITE COMMUNITY, by Laura Hurwitz, with photographs by Amanda Lumry and Loren Wengerd. Eaglemont Press, 2002, 190 pp., $45.00. ISBN 0-9662257-6-7

When I was a child, I was in a dangerous bicycle accident.

It must have been some stroke of good luck, or perhaps some distant prayers, fortunately I suffered only a minor concussion.

If you have ever lived through something so physically traumatic, it can be hard to describe. The memory of falling off the bike, headfirst, with the handlebars smashing into my stomach . . . the glaze of slow motion, almost as if you are watching something in a movie, not in real life, happening to you . . . the vague memories of padded and abrupt silence, like cupping your hands with gloves . . . and then waking up in a place, lying on the bed, holding a cold compress to the side of your face, wondering how all of a sudden you went from riding bike to lying in bed, in an instant. . . .

What I was told was that, lying in a bleeding mess on the asphalt, an Amish buggy came by, and a Plain lady stopped to treat me, I was told. I was told she used peroxide on the wounds. I was told she took good care of me until somebody found my parents. How I got home is still a mystery, but apparently I could walk. . . .

Growing up in New Holland, the Plain community was a common thread, and we've grown up with them here in Lancaster County and Pennsylvania Dutch Country all our lives. Without a doubt, they have affected us all.

Perhaps the authors of HOLMESPUN, with the Plain communities in Holmes County, Ohio, feel the same way. The community is interwoven throughout. The scenes are eerily similar in Holmes County to many places in Lancaster County. Even the tourist spots in a place such as Mt. Hope, Ohio look like they were borrowed from Intercourse, Pa.

In the book, filled to the brim with simple and eloquent photography, author Hurwitz provides a history of God's people extending back to 1525, with the start of the Anabaptist movement in Zurich, Switzerland. It details some of the story of Menno Simmons, the Catholic priest from Holland, and the formation of the Mennonites and how, in 1693, a bishop of the church, Jacob Amman, established the Amish Mennonites.

What became most enjoyable about HOLMESPUN, by far, were the family profiles, interviews with various family members who make up life in Holmes County. They include the Millers, the Schrocks, the Wengerds, the Keims, the Bowmans, and others.

Everybody will enjoy the barn raisings, the benefit auctions, a peek into shop work, and scenes on and off the farms.

Loren Wengerd was born into a Mennonite family in Holmes County, He grew up in the heart of Amish country on an exotic animal farm and petting zoo for handicapped children.

ARE YOU READY TO GET MILKED . . . OR JUST GLAD TO SEE ME! By Scot Alan Bly. www.jerseycowbook.com, 2003, 198 pp., $25.

In light of today's depressed dairy world, a little humor can certainly help. Looking on the bright side of things, Bly provides us with baskets of sunshine in this humorous look at dairy farming, ARE YOU READY TO GET MILKED!

Bly grew up on a registered Jersey cow farm in western New York and practices law in Hershey, Pa. His experiences with bringing up several prize-winning cows, his award-winning times at fairs, and his fond memories growing up on the dairy are reflected here.

And yes, the author assures us there really was a Babe (Luv-Li Generators Fern Babe) and Angel (Luv-Li Golden Angel), which he talks about with a lightness and lore in the book.

Bly mixes whimsy, lighthearted despair, cowering humor (OK, you don't have to excuse the puns) and fair time frolics in MILKED. He gives Angel the cow some loving testimony (Chapter 15, and she was Classified 95 with 5.5 percent butterfat). You can't help agree with his assessment of dairy farming in general in the title to Chapter 18, "It's an Economist, It's a Mechanic, It's a Vet, It's a Nutritionist, No, It's a Farmer!"

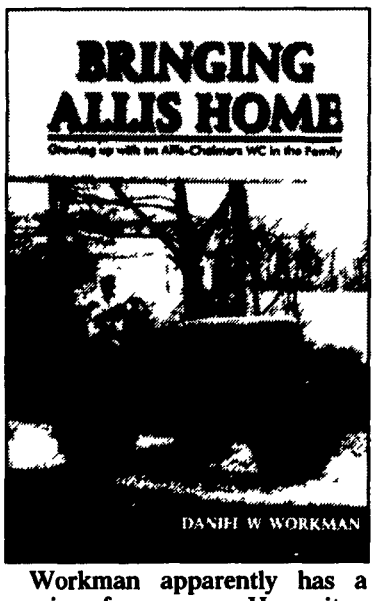
Order from Bly at P.O. Box 341, Hershey, PA 17033, (717) 533-8315.

BRINGING ALLIS HOME: Growing Up With An Allis-Chalmers WC In the Family, by Daniel W. Workman. Sharodan Educational Enterprises, 2002, 115 pp., $12.95 U.S. plus $3 s&h, ISBN 0-9717437-0-3



Workman apparently has a passion for orange. He writes, "My dad had purchased a new WC around 1947 and from that time on, the beautiful and unforgettable Persian orange or near-Persian orange was in my system. What a splendid and handsome tractor that WC was. We had no idea how much this addition to our family would alter our lives then and even now."

Workman details the many ways — in many accounts — of the passion. From escapades in bringing a "rusty, bent, abused" Allis-Chalmers WD from an old barn near Ashland, Ohio, home to the what the orange meant for the entire family, this is an unforgettable book.

Confessions Of A Plant Addict

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — On Monday, April 28 at 7 p.m., join Kelly Dodson for Confessions of a Plant Addict.

The $29 lecture fee includes a dessert buffet following the lecture. Additional information and a printable registration form is available on Longwood's Website, www.longwoodgardens.org. To receive a course catalog, call the continuing education office at (610) 388-1000, ext. 516, or write to Longwood Gardens, PO Box 501, Kennett Square, PA 19348-0501.

Kelly Dodson has been interested in plants since he was young. He has a horticulture degree from Washington State and has been a propagator at the Rhododendron Species Foundation. Kelly has traveled to exotic destinations including Yunnan, China on seed-collecting trips. Several plants have been named after him. He is currently looking to start a new nursery.

Highlights From Unusual Two-Day Auction

HATFIELD (Bucks Co.) — The Alderfer Auction Company offered its bidders more than 1,000 lots of fine merchandise over the course of their two-day auction recently. The auction house hosted more than 800 bidders over the two days as well as more than 1000 registered bidders on www.ebayliveauctions.com.

Comprised of many lots covering almost every collecting category, the diverse auction garnered an auction total just shy of $1 million. Session One held on March 5 included a coin collection, estate jewelry and fine art. Session Two offered decorative accessories, textiles, ephemera, furniture, oriental rugs, a paperweight collection and a stein collection.

Session One of the auction featured coins from the ships Atocha and Santa Margarita that sank off of the coast of Florida in 1622. The fleet of ships was leaving Havana, bound for Spain and encountered a hurricane as it entered the straights of Florida. Eight out of twenty eight ships sank in this storm just off the coast of the Florida Keys. The Atocha and Santa Margarita were two of these eight. The Atocha was loaded with 24 tons of silver ingots, 180,000 silver coins, 582 copper ingots and 125 gold bars. In 1969, the quest to salvage this treasure began. By 1980, Mel Fisher and his crew had found a significant portion of the Santa Margarita. On July 20, 1985, Fisher's son found the Atocha's cargo. Alderfer's sold a two hundred-piece collection on March 5. This collection featured one of the rare gold bars that were noted in the Atocha's inventory. This top priced lot sold to a live bidder on the Internet for $18,000. (NOTE: Prices given do not reflect the buyer's premium.) The bar measured 5 " long, 1" wide, and ⅝" thick.

Other noteworthy pieces sold were two very large silver bars. One bar weighed in at 74 pounds; it sold for $7,500. The other silver bar weighed 71 pounds and it sold for $5,000. The remainder of the items from the ships were silver coins. These sold for a wide range of prices from $60 to $800 depending on weight and condition; most fell in the $200-300 price range.

Following the coins was the estate jewelry. Highlighting this grouping was a collection of Art Deco diamond and sapphire jewelry. These pieces came to Alderfer's from an estate in the Allentown, PA area. The magnificent platinum bracelet was laden with nearly 8 carats of diamonds and about 2 carats of sapphires. This wonderful piece sold to a collector at the auction center for $5,750. A similar bar pin of diamonds, sapphires and platinum sold for $1,200. A jewel encrusted platinum wristwatch sold for $1,600. Two of the diamond engagement rings in the auction sold for $3,500 and $3,000; both featured round brilliant cut stones set in platinum. A man' s Rolex watch in 18K yellow gold with a mother-of-pearl face with sapphire number indicators sold for $7,500. A rare collection of Dudley Masonic Pocket Watches and Masonic watch fobs was also on hand at Alderfer's. Five of the Lancaster-made pieces crossed the auction block, the top lot being a model one having a 14K white gold case. It sold for $3,000. Another Dudley Masonic watch, also model one, in a 14K yellow gold case sold for $2,750. A fine Masonic 3-part fob that contained a .40-carat diamond sold for $375. Other fobs brought, $250, $225, & $200.

Winter landscape with village houses with figures sledding on street, oil on canvas, 30x36-inches by John E. Berninger, Pa., sold for $22,500.

The auction gallery held over 200 paintings and works of art. The pieces spanned many time periods and styles. Several paintings set auction records.

One record setting work was the painting titled "South Seas" by New Hope artist Joseph Meierhans. The gilt frame also hand-crafted by the artist complemented this full-bodied piece. The painting measured 32x40-inches. It sold to a phone bidder for $14,000. The John E. Berninger painting that was sold also set a new auction record for his work. The painting measured 30x36-inch and depicted a winter landscape with village houses and figures sledding. The oil on canvas painting sold to a bidder on the phone for $22,500. Bucks County artist Arthur Meltzer painted the top Pennsylvania scene in the auction. This piece was featured on the front cover of the catalog and it depicted a stone house and bridge in a wooded landscape. It was dated 1925 and it measured 20x24-inches. This wonderful piece sold for $40,000 to a collector of Pennsylvania art who was bidding on the auction floor. Another small painting by Meltzer titled "Pennsylvania Farm" sold for $8,000.

There were 12 paintings in the auction by Walter E. Baum. The top painting by Baum in the sale was titled "The Brook- Zero." It sold for $32,500. This piece measured 20x24-inches and was dated 1928. The Sellersville artist also had many small works in the auction including a winter landscape that measured 4x6-inches; it sold for $2,500. A 6x8-inch painting titled "The River" brought $3,250 and a 12x14-inch work of a mill and stream sold for $15,000. Baum's "Berks Co. Brook" measured 8x10-inch and sold for $4,750.

The back cover lot was a street cafe scene with figures and buildings by Francois Gailliard. The oil on canvas piece was dated 1884. The painting sold to a phone bidder in London for $40,000. A small painting by Hudson River Valley artist Thomas Doughty was included in Alderfer's auction as well. This painting depicted a river valley landscape with a house, figures, and animals; it measured 13x18-inches. The painting sold to a Southern collector for $11,000. William Trego's painting of a weary soldier sold for $9,500. The North Wales, PA artist's work measured 21x17-inches.

Session Two on March 6, started out with a diverse group of decorative accessories including a grouping of Mount Washington sugar shakers. One was of cranberry colored glass with enameled decoration. This fig shaped shaker in excellent condition sold for $3,500. Another fig shaker was of white glass with blue paint decoration and enameled floral design. This shaker sold for $1,800. A Handel lamp with an 18" reverse painted shade with a chipped ice finish came to Alderfer's from a Norristown estate. This lamp with much presale interest was knocked down to an Internet bidder for $4,250. The shade was decorated with a landscape scene with ruins and palm trees.

A large Grueby pottery floor vase sold for $12,000. This baluster form vase in a matte green glaze with applied and tooled leaves measured 23" tall. This large piece of art pottery came to Alderfer's from a local house. Another fascinating piece that received much of the presale attention was a hand-painted KPM porcelain plaque. This large rectangular plaque depicted "Psyche". The nymph figure was seated at the water's edge. The plaque remained in a gilt gesso frame. Eight phone bidders vied with the floor bidders and Internet bidders. After much competition the top phone bidder won out and bought the piece for $5,500.

Topping the furniture lots in the auction was a Sheraton banquet table. This beautiful mahogany table comprised of three sections all with reeded legs; it sold to a bidder in the audience for $12,000. Other highlights of furniture in the auction included a New England barrel back corner cupboard that sold for $4,250; a miniature Sheraton chest of drawers that brought $1,600; a Hepplewhite chest of drawers that sold for $2,500; and a centennial Chippendale corner cupboard that brought $3,750. There were several rugs in the auction. The 8' 11" x 12' 6" Antique Heriz sold for $4,000. A Karaja Heriz sold for $3,500 as did a Karaja Serapi rug.

Ending out the day at Alderfer's was a stein collection followed by a paperweight collection. The two were highly sought after with bidding competition from the floor, phone bank, and Internet. The stein collection was mainly Mettlach pieces with some regimental steins. The Mettlach pieces ranged in price from $100 to $600, while the two highest priced regimental steins sold for $375 & $350. The paperweight collection was highlighted by a Kaziun weight that sold for $850. It was amethyst in color and contained a silhouette portrait of a woman in a bonnet with flowers. The other Kaziun weight in the auction was the top lot. It was a pedestal form paperweight with a yellow rose having green leaves. This lot sold for $1,200. A grouping of two weights sold for $1,700. Included in this lot was an older French weight of swirled turquoise and white glass with a center floral design.

Italian Art Glass Varies Widely In Price

Italian art glass of the 20th century can range from a couple of hundred dollars to the high thousands when it comes to auction. Prices depend not only on the quality of design but who made it and when.

At the March 2 Treadway/Toomey auction of 20th century art and design a Venini hanging light fixture estimated at $900 - $1,100 didn't sell. A pair of Seguso glass figures from the 1950s fetched $350. A Venini "a canne" bottle vase, c. 1968 sold for $300.

One reason for the disparity in bidding is that buyers and collectors are more knowledgeable than they were a decade ago when the Italian art glass craze began.

CLUES: Serious collectors know better than to pay too much for common place made-for-export pieces or reproductions. A case in point are the Venini clown figures.

They were made for export. Not studio-designed. Many were whimseys or throw-aways filled with liquor. However, these aren't to be compared with the figural pieces designed by fulvio Bianconi for the Venini glassworks. A pair of his chickens, c. 1950 have sold for $19,000 at auctions. Humorous glass animals were designed from the 1920s until 1931 by Paolo Venini. Collectors pay top dollar for them.

Many Italian glass factories made figural animals. Their paper labels have long ago disappeared, which is good news for iffy dealers and bad news for beginning collectors.

Another problem for collectors is that the Venini Glassworks is reproducing designs from the 1940s through the 1960s. Among them the popular commedia del l'arte figures, handkerchief vases and bottles. Since a variety of signatures and paper lables were used by Venini over the years, it pays to go to the many Modernism shows and talk to dealers.

They will be happy to point out important facts.

If you are serious, purchase one of the John Toomey Gallery auction catalogs featuring Italian glass. They feature prices and various Venini signatures.

When beginning collectors think of 20th century Italian glass, Paolo Venini most readily come to mind. Yet, there are many other important designers to consider. Among them is Ercole Barovier, whose work encompassed not only the 1920s but into the Modern period. Another, Fulvio Bianconi, is considered one of the most important Italian glass designers of the postwar years. Their works can sell in the high thousands.

Some tips for recognizing the works of leading designers can help.

For example, the designs used by Barovier and his firm, "Barovier and Toso" are abstract sculptural forms with minute bubbles and spots of color within the glass, and some also feature colorful, irregular and abstract squares.

Fulvio Bianconi, designed the commedia del l'arte figures. They

Heritage Day Focuses On Mennonite Arts And Smokehouse Restoration

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Mennonite decorative arts and the restoration work on the Schaeffer Farm smokehouse are the topics of Historic Schaefferstown, Inc.'s April 26 Heritage Day program.

Clarke Hess, author of the book Mennonite Arts, will give an illustrated talk on the furniture and decorative arts of the Mennonites. Alan Keyser, one of the project coordinators for the restoration of the circa 1750s smokehouse roof, will talk about the historical aspects and documentation of the project.

The program begins at 1 p.m. at the Schaefferstown Fire Company hall located at the intersection of Oak and Locust Streets (directly behind Plain and Fancy Custom Cabinetry off Rt. 501). Light refreshments will be served.

The Brendle Museum and Rex House will be open for tours after the talks from 3 p.m.-4 p.m. Admission to the Heritage Day program and the two museums is free. For more information, call (717) 949-2244.

CLUTCHES/GEAR REDUCTION ASSEMBLIES

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined out puts, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies

For 8-30 HP Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1–2 cyl.)
- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1⅛", 1⅞"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

AGCO WHITE PLANTERS

You've picked the perfect seed –

FIELDSTAR READY

- Superior Seed Singulation
- ½ inch to 4-inch planting depth
- Improved Seed Meter Access
- Easy-to-View Seed Depth Indicator
- Quick Release Hoppers

INTRODUCING THE WHITE 8000 SERIES PLANTERS

You've done your research, prepared your field, and picked the perfect seed variety Now plant that perfect row, with the 8000 Series planter from White With 49 models to match your needs, they're packed with features that save time and plant 4 to 31 rows of corn or soybeans with unmatched precision. The 8000 Series features an improved seed meter design for outstanding accuracy with a wider variety of seed sizes And standard walking beam gauge wheels along with increased planting depth range of ½ inch to 4 inches give superior depth control over larger surface irregularities Select models feature "on-the-go" seed rate adjustment from your tractor cab. FlexFrame designs range from 30' to 60' for an "acre-eater" performance from one end of your field to the other.

It's time to plant the perfect row Stop by your White Planter Dealer today and get it right with WHITE

Rolabar® rakes better by far –

Don't settle for second best when it comes to rakes. Choose the original – a dependable New Holland Rolabar® rake. The rake more farmers buy over all other brands combined. Why? Because its rugged construction makes it one hard-working, hay-grabbing machine.

See the original Rolabar rake today.

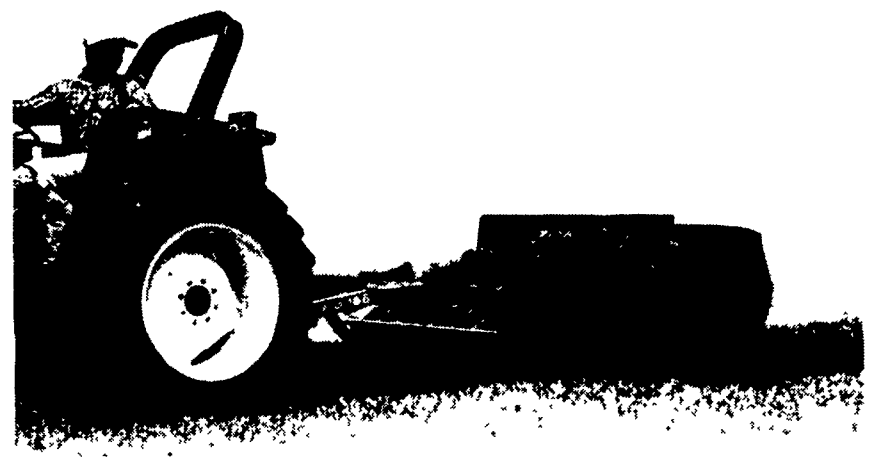
NEW HOLLAND

Fluffed up... never roughed up

If a storm hits while you're making hay, you'll need the New Holland Model 166 windrow inverter. It helps to dry hay fast, so you can bale or chop sooner. The 166 gently lifts, fluffs and turns windrows without roughing up the hay. So, you move your windrows onto dry ground for faster drying and retain valuable leaves.

For hay that's fluffed up not roughed up, check out the 166 today.

NEW HOLLAND



Why wait for the sun

Speed up drying time with a New Holland tedder. It lifts downed crop up so air flows through it. Choose from three tedders – 8'6" Model 157, 16'5" Model 163, or 22'8" Model 169.

Stop in. We'd like to show you how our tedders can help you put up quality hay.

Auctioneer Attends NAA Winter Conference

SPRING CITY (Chester Co.) — Ken Reed of Ken Reed Auction Company, Inc. likes to stay one step ahead of the game. He knows this is a must for a thriving business such as Ken Reed Auction Company, Inc.

That's why he recently joined about 150 auctioneers from around the country at the National Auctioneers Association (NAA) 2003 Winter Seminar Jan. 12-15 in New Orleans.

Marketing tips, tools for expanding traditional business, and implementing on-line auctions were just some of the many topics offered during the three-day conference. Members also brainstormed and shared business tips during roundtable discussions.

A highlight of the event was a Fun Auction, where more than $13,000 was raised for NAA's Political Action Committee (PAC). PAC represents the interests of auctioneers in local, state, and federal government.

The annual conference is just one of many educational opportunities afforded to NAA members each year to allow them to grow their businesses and keep up with the latest technology and practices in the industry.

Founded in 1948, the NAA is the world's largest professional auctioneers organization with more than 6,300 members nationwide. Members abide by a code of ethics that protects the public against fraud and unethical auction practices. NAA members are viewed as trusted and experienced marketing professionals by consumers nationwide.

Growers Plant Corn Up To Four Weeks Earlier With 'Intellicoat' Seed Coating

MONTICELLO, Ind. — Is knowing when to plant one of the most difficult decisions you face as a corn grower?

If you plant too early, your crop may not pull through harsh early spring conditions. If you wait, you may not get all your acres planted on time and suffer yield loss, by as much as 20 percent, from late planting.

A new "intelligent" seed coating with a built-in temperature switch set to keep moisture out before soil temperatures reach 55 degrees fahrenheit and let moisture in after that can help to make your decision easier.

During the planting season, every minute counts. Most years your window of time when weather and soil conditions are right for corn planting is typically very short — usually 7-10 days.

Lancec Ag, Inc. senior agronomist Claude Butt said, "If you wait for your optimum planting date, you may not get all your acres planted before your yield potential starts to drop."

Have you tried the risky practice of planting uncoated seed in cold early spring soils in order to get a jump on the corn-planting season? Having corn in the ground early can help avoid the yield loss associated with being shut out and forced to plant later in the season.

Farmers have long recognized that earlier planting can help to create additional days for the crop to reach maturity and dry-down. However, there is potential yield loss related to planting uncoated seed early. When a seed germinates in cold soils, it is vulnerable to chilling injury, which impairs its development and may kill it, thus reducing stand counts.

If you're looking to plant in colder, earlier season conditions, even in no-till applications, you can drastically reduce your risk and maximize your profit potential with Intellicoat Early Plant coated seeds, noted Butt. "Compared to uncoated seeds planted early, Intellicoat coated seeds have produced more uniform emergence, higher stand counts, and higher yields in hundreds of on-farm field trials on more than 16,000 acres in the past two years."

"Comparing Intellicoat coated seeds to uncoated seeds in these early-planted trials, the Intellicoat coated seeds have consistently shown better, more uniform emergence and higher stand counts for maximum yield potential, even in no-till."

Butt said, "The new Intellicoat Early Plant seed corn coatings actually control germination in cold, early spring soils to protect the seeds and help ensure they germinate only under optimum conditions. The result is a more timely, uniform emergence — even in no-till applications."

"Intellicoat" is available on Fielder's Choice Direct hybrid corn, Beck's Hybrids, and Hubner Seed Co. brands. Several other hybrid corn companies are testing Intellicoat and it may be added to more brands by spring planting 2004. Growers may ask their favorite hybrid seed corn dealer if they have Intellicoat yet.

Kubota Adds New Member To B Series

TORRANCE, Calif. — Kubota Tractor Corporation (KTC) presents the all-new B7800HSD compact tractor, built on the platform of the already proven, top-of-the-line B2910.

Kubota has recognized the demand for a well-balanced, 4-wheel drive, compact tractor for the economy tractor buyer. The result is the B7800HSD with a powerful Kubota E-TVCS, 4-cylinder, liquid cooled, 30 gross hp diesel engine.

The B7800HSD is equipped with Kubota's advanced hydrostatic transmission (HST) offering single-pedal operation for control of speed/direction between forward and reverse without clutching. For increased efficiency, three speed operating ranges are provided.

Unusual for smaller displacement equipment, the B7800HSD uses dual hydraulic pumps to improve hydraulic performance. Two pumps ensure versatile implement operation with more than enough power for efficient work. The system also increases volume and pressure flow of the power steering for smooth and easy operation.

The Category I, 3-point hitch incorporates a new quarter inching valve that acts as a regulator, enabling the operator to make smaller adjustments at the lower link end. The lever guide can move in ¼-inch increments making attaching/detaching implements easier while enhancing grading performance.

The B7800R, (rigid ROPS) is equipped with a standard rear PTO and has an optional mid-PTO. The B7800F, (foldable ROPS) has the rear and mid-PTO as standard equipment.

Optional implements include a front/rear blade, rotary tiller, box scraper, front loader, backhoe, grass catcher, trencher, front/rear snowblower, rear mount mower, and mid-mount mower. The mid-mount mower and loader have a quick attach design allowing easy installation, no tools required.

The front loader operates at a fast cycle time thanks to Kubota's series valve regenerative hydraulic circuit allowing for simultaneous operation which is usually found on larger and more expensive tractors.

Bobcat Of Lancaster Opens In Ephrata

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Bobcat of Lancaster has been named a dealership for Bobcat Equipment, according to Lane Weber, North American sales manager for Bobcat Company, West Fargo, N.D.

Located at 4122 Oregon Pike in Ephrata, the new dealership is authorized to provide sales and service for the Bobcat line of skid-steer, compact track and mini-track loaders, compact excavators, loader backhoes, utility vehicles, and telescopic tool carriers in the Ephrata area.

Bobcat Company introduced its original self-propelled loader with the unique skid-steer drive system to the industry in 1958. Today, Bobcat is recognized worldwide as the leading producer of skid-steer loaders, compact track loaders, all-wheel steer loaders, telescopic tool carriers, compact excavators, and attachments. Bobcat of Lancaster is part of a network of some 900 Bobcat dealerships in 75 countries.

SNOW

Heaviest Snow Load in Pole Buildings!

Some companies state "40 # per square foot snow load" - but really they are stating they have a 30 pound live/snow load on the top chord, plus a 5 pound dead load (required) on the top chord and a 5 pound dead load on the bottom chord and then add them all up to equal "40".

CONESTOGA uses the heaviest duty trusses available - a true 35 pound live or snow load on the top chord and a 5 pound dead load on the top chord and a 5 pound dead load on the bottom chord - so in their terms, CONESTOGA has a "45 pound" truss load!

Imported from Holland, ORLANDO is a black 17.1 Hand Dutch Harness Horse Stallion.

The Dutch Harness Horse is a wonderful horse to cross with existing breeds of horses used for driving and work. Dutch Harness Horses have been bred in Holland for over 80 years. The sole purpose is to increase trot and stride, thus producing driving horses that move more efficiently and cover more ground with less effort.

Exciting opportunities exist for the serious breeder looking to be involved with the induction and infusion of these great horses into today's breeding programs.

ORLANDO is standing at Mogadore, Ohio for the 2003 breeding season, shipped semen is available. The 2003 introductory stud fee is $1000.00 and includes a live foal guarantee.

Really nice filly. She has 15 days training on her and should make an excellent all-around horse when she matures. She has never been shown, and would make a great trail horse. She is gorgeous and quiet in her stall and for handling. Hauls, clips, bathes etc Has great bloodlines and is current on all her shots and farrier work She has a very sweet personality and loves attention. Her grandfather is Zips Chocolate Chip and her great-grandfather is the Investor.

THE ADVANTAGES OF ROASTED CORN

* Earlier Harvest - Our roaster will dry corn down eight to ten points of moisture.

* Higher Digestibility - Research studies show that roasted corn is more digestible than raw corn. The energy level is increased by 10%.

* Purer Feed - Our flame roaster can effectively remove mold spores and reduce toxin levels that are harmful to livestock, swine and poultry.

* Drier Total Ration - With less fermented feed. Supplementing the hay and corn silage diet with dry corn aids better rumen health.

* Greater Profits - Dairy herds fed roasted corn increase in milk production and improve in herd health.

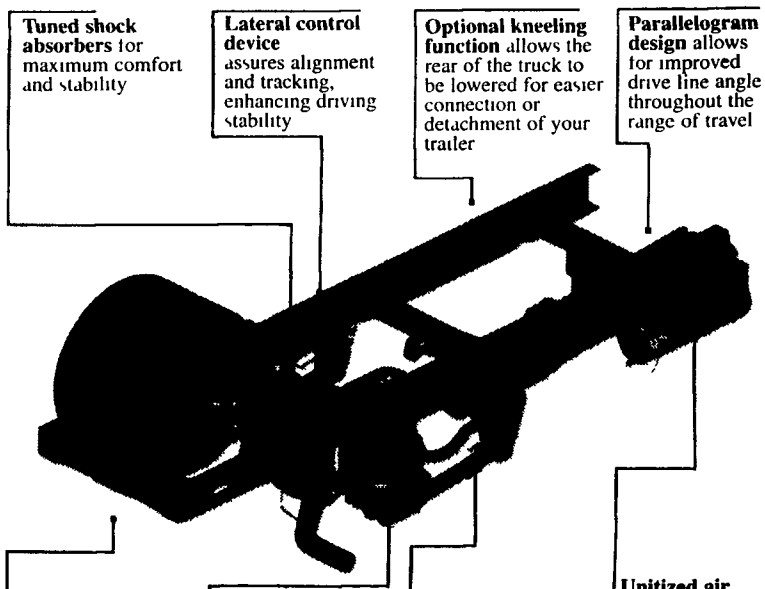
Air Ride For Pick-Up Trucks
UltraRide Chassis Air Suspension
Fords: 250, 350, 450, 550
Chevy: 4500, 5500



Tuned shock absorbers for maximum comfort and stability
Lateral control device assures alignment and tracking, enhancing driving stability
Optional kneeling function allows the rear of the truck to be lowered for easier connection or detachment of your trailer
Parallelogram design allows for improved drive line angle throughout the range of travel
Uses existing frame holes and there are no exhaust modifications.
Rate tailored air spring with internal stop, provides best ride and eliminates harsh shocks.
Dual height control valves for system stability.
• Maintains optimal ride height, loaded or unloaded
• Spec'd for system
Unitized air control system offers protection from weather and road grime, providing longer life, and easier serviceability.

FOR SALE BY OWNER
ONCE IN A LIFETIME OPPORTUNITY
1950's STYLE CAFE AND GARAGE

Unique cafe, garage, and home all in one. Cafe and garage is a newly constructed 3200 sq. ft. building built in 2001. The building is designed in the 50's style. Garage has a car lift and a wash/recon bay. Cafe has indoor seating for 41 and outside area for picnic tables. Cafe offers a full service menu with takeouts.

Included is a 2 story, 4 bedroom home and a recently renovated barn. House has a new well, roof, septic system and electric service. The property is fenced with a new hi-tensil, electric fence.

This established turnkey operation is located on 8 1/2 acres with over 1000 feet of creek frontage in a peaceful setting in beautiful Juniata County, Pa. The business would be ideal as a family operation. This is a great opportunity to live where you work. Alternately, the business could be operated and the house rented out for income. Has a lot of potential for growth such as a bed and breakfast and/or a campground by the creek. If you ever dreamed of owning your own business, don't miss this opportunity.

Owner is relocating. Will sacrifice all for $410,000. Phone 717/463-9900 Tues. thru Sun. 8am to 8pm for an appointment to see this mini-estate. Ask for Connie.
